U. S. EXPANSION WORKS PROGRAM IN GEORGIA AS BIG HEALTH PROJECTS ARE GIVEN FUNDS

Business Gains Give Lie to Monetary Alarmists

CONFIDENCE ROUTS BUGABOOS RAISED BY FOES OF F. D. R.

Wall Street Writer Points
To Increased Trade and Heavy Oversubscription of U. S. Securities as Proof of Soundness.

PRESIDENT PRAISED ON DETERMINATION

Storm Finds Stronger Undertone Due to Return of Confidence, Aided by Roosevelt's Course

By CHARLES W. STORM,
Editor of the News Service of Wall Street.

(Copyright, 1933, for the North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.)
NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—Events of the last week have given the lie to predictions by prominent industrial and banking interests that the administration's monetary policy would create financial and business havoc.
The general stock market closed the week somewhat higher than a week ago. The general bond market also showed increased firmness.
Development that showed conclusively that confidence is returning was the quick threefold oversubscription to the treasury offering of $950,000,000 of new certificates.

Impressive Expansion.

Another development which should silence the monetary calamity howlers is the general report of impressive expansion in industry and trade.
The steel industry, for example, regarded as a good barometer for general business so that it is pleasing to learn that the executives of at least three important units in that industry are looking forward to next year with gratification. The first three months of the New Year are expected to be especially favorable for the steel business, according to leaders.

One of the steel companies is also considering increasing its dividend during the first quarter of the year, so that the outlook for steel must indeed be better.

Heavy Industries Improve.

Another source of gratification is the fact that evidence is now coming to hand of improvement in the heavy industries, the backwardness of which in recent months has been a source of unfavorable comment and prediction.
The motor industry is contributing no mean part to this betterment, and public works and civil works programs are also contributing to the expansion.

Because of the improvement in in-

Hopeless Winter Faced By 'Ten Opportunities'

The Constitution Opens Annual Appeal for Rehabilitation of Worthy Families, Sick and Helpless and Unable To Work.

By ROY ROBERT.

A new deal for suffering America has brought a new light of hope into the hearts of millions marching back to work. Wages have increased and business is better for the men and women who are able to accept employment.

For others—the lame, the sick, the helpless—there can be no new hope unless the fortunate employed share their bounty and grasp the opportunity to make the Golden Rule a reality.

Again this Christmas season The Constitution offers Atlanta 10 opportunities of sharing comfort and security with the helpless. Again the 10 neediest and most worthy families in the city have been selected for a share in the new order that bids fair to bring speedy prosperity.

Already the thousands of Atlanta people who have obtained jobs during the last few months are arranging Christmas budgets with new money.
Streets are crowded and that intangible something—that warm glow of the season is shining in faces.

Will, But Unable to Work.

But on the other side of the tracks there is a different scene.
They read and hear of this new deal, those men and women who could not work if a job came their way. They hear of a neighbor who got a job after months of unemployment, and though they are anxious to work they cannot.

Without exception the families selected as Ten Opportunities are worthy folk, good citizens and strictly deserving. Skilled social workers in the Family Welfare Society selected them from the hundreds of other deserving. With the aid of the more fortunate they can be brought back to economic security and a safe place in society and Christmas—spiritually and materially—brought home to them through every day of the new year.

For there will be a "year-round Christmas" for those relieved—12 months of shelter and food and fuel to keep the lamp of hope burning in their hearts. Ten Opportunities go beyond one day of cheer and happiness and more than any other relief effort serve as an annual aid.

Time and results have proved the worth of Ten Opportunities, and the rehabilitation feature of the movement cannot be doubted. On December 14, 1919, the first Ten Opportunities were offered the public and immediate response came. Through the years the season has been observed in the same manner and scores of families have been rescued from the depths and returned to a safe place in life.

This year, perhaps more than any other in history, the need is great.
True enough, business is improving because of the various phases of the new program of government aid and the NRA—but years of suffering have so weakened many that no hope

Assails Critics of President

GEORGE FOSTER PEABODY

'I Have Faith in Roosevelt,' Says George Foster Peabody

By ROBERT BUNNELLE.

A conviction that in a commodity standard of values lies the way to solution of many of the world's economic ills was expressed here Saturday night by George Foster Peabody, noted banker.

Striking at critics of President Roosevelt, he declared, "there is no legitimate basis for those not in control of official action to criticize industrial administration policies while the president, in touch with academic economists, tries out various programs by practical means."

During his active career in banking and politics, Mr. Peabody added, he had a part in defeating bi-metallism and "reached the conclusion that it is absurd to depend on a metal possibility of expansion or contraction of money to solve the problem of the debtor class that they should not have to pay back two bushels of wheat when the value of only one was borrowed."

"I have always felt," he continued,
"that there has been a clear sense of justice back of the demand of the debtor class that they should not have to pay back two bushels of wheat
when the value of only one was borrowed."

Complex Problem.
He called the problem of adjusting indebtedness, wages and commodities a complex problem.

Thousand Big Brothers Enroll for Yule Work

Five Hundred Additional Members To Be Sought To Distribute Special Holiday
Issue of The Constitution
Next Sunday.

By JOE ROSENFELD JR.

The tremendous goal of 1,000 members for the "big brother" organization has been reached and it has been decided to increase the membership to 1,500 in order that those who wish to join the "big brother" will have a chance to do their part.

Julius Setze, chairman of the "big brother" movement, has exceeded expectations and much credit is due him for the manner in which he has formed the organization. Following is the list of majors appointed in each ward and any person wishing to join the "big brother" should immediately get in touch with the major in their respective wards.

Big Brother Majors.

5TH DISTRICT LEADER ASKS WOMEN'S AID

In a message to all clubwomen,
Mr. John F. MacDougall, president of the Fifth District Federation of Women's Clubs, urges enthusiastic effort on the part of all clubwomen to aid in establishing record ticket sale for the charity ball to be held at the Shrine mosque on Friday night, December 15. Mrs. MacDougall says, "This is a wonderful opportunity for the service organizations of Atlanta to do their part in the civic interest of Atlanta. With the sanction of the president of the United States,
I feel sure that every clubwoman in Atlanta will not only buy tickets, but sell as many of them as they can. I hope that all expectations for a record ticket sale will be realized."

5,000 EMPLOYEES ADDED TO PAY ROLL BY CWA LEADERS

U. S. Supplies $750,000 for Health Work in Southwestern Part of State; T. V. A. Also Aids

FIGHT IS PLANNED ON PEACH DISEASE

Additions Bring CWA Rolls to 78,000; Yeomans and Abernethy Direct New Projects.

The federal government's bitter warfare to swell the already rising tide of business activity was widened perceptibly Saturday when it was announced that the civil works administration was adding 5,000 heads of families to its pay rolls and that health work involving expenditures which may run over a million dollars is to be launched immediately in north, middle and south Georgia.

The adding of 5,000 names to CWA pay rolls brings the total employed by this arm of the government to 78-000 in Georgia whose average weekly pay is $9.50, thereby bringing the pay roll to approximately $750,000 a week.
At the same time, the Georgia civil works administration commission, headed by Ronald Ransom, of Atlanta, announced that hundreds of projects were being approved and dispatched to the counties in order that all of the 78,000 on the rolls would obtain immediate employment.

Meanwhile the other governmental activities designed not only to aid employment but also to better conditions were announced. They are:

Typhus Campaign.

Approval of the state program for rodent and typhus fever control by the United States public health service and the United States biological survey, involving expenditures of about $750,000 and assuring employment to 10,000 men.

Approval of a Tennessee Valley Authority of $75,000 for health work in seven north Georgia counties included in the scope of the TVA.
Announcement by the civil works administration in Washington that $200,000 would be expended in middle Georgia in an effort to eliminate the phony peach disease, one of the great pests to a major agricultural industry in Georgia.

The CWA commission announced Saturday that its projects were being approved as speedily as possible.

Sale of Empire Trust Assets Is Sanctioned

The final step in the liquidation of the Empire Trust Company by the Sixth Federal Reserve district liquidation committee, headed by Ryburn
G. Clay, president of the Fulton National Bank, was taken Saturday when the liquidation plan was formally approved by Judge E. D. Thomas in the Fulton superior court. Judge Thomas approved the sale of the assets of the bank to the Empire Mortgage Company for $300,683.74 on petition of Superintendent of Banks R. E.
Gormley.

The mortgage company which has obtained funds from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation through the Clay committee now will pay the de-positors of more than 50 other state banks which are in the process of liquidation.

10 CONVICTS FLEE GEORGIA PRISON SHOLTZ ASSAILS LARUE'S RECORD

Two Recaptured; Alvin
McCullough Among Men Making Get-Away.

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., Dec. 9.
(AP)—Ten prisoners including Alvin McCullough, serving a life term for murder in Fayette county, tonight escaped from the state prison here.

Those who escaped in a higher window in the men's dormitory and slid down a rope made of grass and blankets. They used a pole to scale a 12-foot fence topped with barbed wire. About 200 other prisoners in the dormitory did not try to leave.

Two of the men were recaptured soon after the break.
Those who escaped in addition to McCullough were Harvey Latham, serving a four-year sentence from Ful-

COCA-COLA BUYS $500,000 SCRAP 6 PER CENT BEER MAKES BOW HERE

Absorption of Amount by Company Will Assure Employees December Pay.

Cash December salary payments to Atlanta's municipal employees was insured Saturday when the Coca-Cola Company agreed to absorb $500,000 worth of city scrap, or the sum of $470,000, in exchange for the right to bring Santa Claus to the 4,500 workers of the city.

Alderman Ed A. Gilliam, chairman of the finance committee, announced consummation of the program following a conference with high officials.
Under the plan, the sale of $470,000 worth of 1933 tax fix, which council authorized at its last session, and which Mayor James L. Key vetoed that Gilliam would sell his plan, will not be sold, but will be held by the city.

The company announced that the scrap would carry interest at only 2 per cent, other city scrap issues having borne interest at 6 per cent.
He said the high credit rating of the municipality and the fine public spirit of the company itself was responsible for the low interest rate, which he said would save the city approximately $30,000 during the life of the scrip and on interest which will be collected on the fix, fas, which the city can now collect itself instead of having fix, fas, buyers collect it.

The mayor was high in his praise of the company for its civic contribution and said he would call a special meeting of council for Tuesday or Wednesday to authorize the scrip insurance and ratify the agreement.

Although the fix, fas, sale contemplated disposal of only about $470,000 of the tax securities, the company has

YULETIDE PARADE TO THRILL ATLANTA CAPONE IS DENIED LIBERTY ON WRIT

Citywide Charity Ball at Shrine Mosque Will Follow Other Event.

By PARADE DIRECTOR.

Just five more days remain before the children of Atlanta realize their ambition to see not only Santa Claus in person, but also to see the bewhiskered patron saint of human kind be drawn through the streets of Atlanta by his real, live Alaskan reindeer.

These reindeer are the ones that take Santa on his annual pilgrimage to the homes of little children, and the children of Atlanta are indeed according a rare privilege to see this sight. There will be bands galore, beautiful floats, gorgeous historical costumes and other thrilling sights too numerous to mention.

The parade will move promptly at 7:30 and the festive decorations will thrill the thousands who will crowd the streets.

Entertainment at Ball.
Immediately following the parade, thousands will go to the Shrine mosque where all Atlanta will be gaily entertained by the first annual citywide charity ball. Tickets to the ball are being sold at many downtown locations. Admission is 50 cents for men and a gift, a garment, a toy or a ticket for ladies.

One of the leading features of the charity ball will be a presentation of tableaux and ballets arranged by Mrs.
Sonia Solomonoff. At the stroke of 12
the entertaining features will begin.
WGST Broadcast.
From 10 to 10:30 radio station
WGST will broadcast the celebration and a Hollywood opening presentation will be given.

All Atlanta has responded to this charity ball and those attending will witness a sight that will long be remembered. The Old Guard of Georgia will be there, Governor Eugene Talmadge, Mayor Key and other outstanding citizens.

There will be a reception committee of distinguished guests and Santa Claus will be present.

Woman Killed Here By Hit-and-Run Auto

Struck by a hit-and-run driver when she attempted to cross the street, Mrs. W. R. McGeehe, of 519 Whitehall street, was fatally injured early Saturday night at Peters and Humphreys streets. She died shortly before 10 o'clock at Grady hospital.

The woman was hit by a light automobile which paused for a moment but sped away in the direction of town when the driver saw Mrs.
McGeehe lying unconscious on the pavement. She received a fracture of the skull and other injuries and was in a state of shock when she reached the hospital. Police were given a description of the death-car, and a search for the driver was begun.
Funeral arrangements will be announced by H. M. Patterson & Son.

Atlantan, Vaudeville Star, Killed in Indiana Auto Crash

Clyde Hooper, 41, Born and Reared Here, Was Member of Nationally Known Stage Team.

Clyde Hooper, 41, native Atlantan who was a nationally known vaudeville artist, died Saturday at Watseka, Ill., of injuries received Friday night when his automobile, in which he was alone, crashed into the rear of a parked truck near Kentland, Ind. Hooper was a member of the team of Hooper and Gatchett, which has played many engagements in Atlanta theaters.

He was a brother of Mrs. Luria Crawford, of 579 Cresthill avenue, N. E., who is widely known in Atlanta, and was the uncle of Mrs. James Mobley, also of Atlanta.

The body probably will be brought to Atlanta for funeral services and interment, relatives said Saturday night. He also is survived by his wife, the former Miss Eva Hartman, of Wichita, Kan., who also is well-known on the stage; and a daughter, Anita Hooper, 15.

Hooper was born in Atlanta and attended the public schools here before entering Young Harris College. He later attended the Chicago Art Institute.

He was a singer and comedian and it was while still a boy in Atlanta that he began to build the reputation which established him as a foremost entertainer in the United States.

Hooper's experiences while a private in the famous "Wildcat Division" of the A. E. F. formed the background for many of his clever acts. He conceived the idea of the comical possibilities of his war experiences while in France at the close of the war and played in French theaters for a year and a half before returning to America.

He had appeared in virtually every state in the Union and was also widely known on the west coast through his radio engagements from Los Angeles. He was en route to Chicago after appearing at a Cincinnati theater Friday night when the fatal accident occurred. An inquest is scheduled to be held Monday in Watseka by Coroner R. H. Hotelling.

The rookie acts of Hooper and Gatchett had been booked over practically every circuit by Keith-Orpheum, and Loew's, and Fanchon and Marco, by whom he was being booked at the time of his death.

Hooper was also a song writer and composed and wrote the words for most of the music in his skits and radio entertainments.

RAPID PROGRESS MADE IN DIXIE ROAD WORK

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Dec. 9.—Rapid progress in the six southeastern states in starting their gigantic highway construction program of $52,138,465 was revealed today in figures released here by Charles D. Snead, director of the United States bureau of public roads for the eighth district, showing that an average of 42 per cent of the program was under way on December 1 in the six states. Alabama, with an allotment of $11,500,000 from the government, had 43.2 per cent of its program under way on that date and speeded up the work yesterday by announcing low bidders on four new projects to cost more than $300,000.

Florida showed the highest percentage among the southeastern states with 62 per cent of its $6,240,250 program under way. In Mississippi, after a slow start, improved during November and on December 1 had 28.9 per cent of its $10,091,185 program under way. In Georgia, the program of $9,749,593 was slightly ahead of Georgia with a percentage of 36.6 per cent, while South Carolina had 49.6 per cent of its $5,459,165 program under contract approved.

Tennessee, allotted $9,069,410, showed a percentage of 42.4 per cent under way on December 1.

These figures were based on reports to the district engineer's office, according to the original allotment to the six states, and did not take into consideration federal funds later apportioned.

JOHNSON BACKS UP IN MOVIE THREAT

NRA Chief Promises To "Use Discretion" as Organization Balks.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—(AP)—Under pressure of the Hays motion picture organization, the NRA today modified the degree of supervision it had assumed over the industry.

Administrator Hugh S. Johnson issued a memorandum which interpreted the order approving the motion picture code as cancellation of the administration's power of review over all acts of the code authority. Only the usual right "to inquire into the general course of conduct" of the code was retained.

This action was required as an alternative to imposing the code on the industry, Johnson indicating clearly that the major producers were ready to refuse to take it voluntarily. As it is, the consent of all parties involved is on record. The NRA has not yet exercised the right to dictate a code to an industrial group.

For the first time today, however, the power conferred by the industrial law for tariff investigation and new protection, if found necessary, was employed.

President Roosevelt ordered the tariff commission to investigate imports of wood-cased lead pencils, an industry which, after meeting German competition for many years, during the past few months reported itself flooded under 75,000 gross of Japanese pencils. The NRA's imports division had reviewed complaints and recommended further action.

The movie action was the first of its kind taken after a code had been proclaimed in effect. Other modifications of executive orders on codes had been requested and granted but not under what amounted to the threat of a walkout on the promulgated code.

Both Johnson and the participating movie moguls, said the negotiations were friendly.

Johnson's interpretation of the executive order said he would not exercise the power given him by the president to remove any member of the code authority unless that were in accordance with the recommendation of at least a majority of the voting members of the entire code authority.

The right reserved to Johnson to appoint successors to those removed, he said, would be used only in accordance with regulations set up in the code for selection of members of the authority and other boards.

That section of the executive order which exempted writers, authors and dramatists as creative artists from regulations which may be drawn after investigation into Hollywood salaries, Johnson said, would apply only to those writers, authors and dramatists who "are not employed for stated periods by producers."

Those of this class who are employed on contracts for stated periods, he said, will be included with actors, executives and other to which the salary regulations will apply, if the regulations are made effective.

CARPENTER IS CRUSHED BY NAVAL BARGE DOOR

NORFOLK, Va., Dec. 9.—(AP)—Walter J. Powers, 57, Portsmouth, was almost instantly killed at the naval ammunition depot at St. Juliens creek today when a heavy door of an ammunition barge fell from its supports and crushed him against a dock.

Mr. Powers, who had been employed by the government as a carpenter for 41 years, was attempting to close the door of the barge at the time of the accident.

Brittain Urges Marble Memorial to Harris As Uncle Remus Group Marks Anniversary

Memories of Uncle Remus and the little boy were brought back Saturday on the occasion of the birthday of Joel Chandler Harris and the 25th anniversary of the founding of the Uncle Remus Memorial Association. Shown admiring the birthday cake are, left to right: Mrs. Myrtle Lockett Avery, writer of the first booklet about the Wren's Nest; Dr. M. L. Brittain, president of Georgia Tech; Mrs. A. McD. Wilson, president of the association during its 25 years; and Mrs. W. Price Smith, first treasurer. Staff photo by George Cornett.

The idea of immortalizing Joel Chandler Harris, beloved creator of "Uncle Remus" and his "critters," in Georgia marble, was the highlight of the address of Dr. M. L. Brittain, president of Georgia Tech, guest speaker at the luncheon of the Uncle Remus Memorial Association at 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the Georgian Terrace. The program celebrated a double anniversary, being the birthday of the famous Georgia writer and the twenty-fifth year of the memorial association, which has had Mrs. A. McD. Wilson as its president since its founding.

Dr. Brittain expressed the desire of the association members in the closing part of his speech about Joel Chandler Harris:

"I know that he has somewhere expressed in his writings his reluctance for such a tribute, but this modesty should not prevent us from its award. Our duty to him and this state should cause us to add this memorial for present and future visitors who will come in increasing numbers to worship at the shrine of his genius."

In a park near the city of Madrid there is a famous memorial. It is in honor of Cervantes and there you will see Don Quixote on Rosinante and Sancho Panza with his donkey—setting forth the author's aim to show the everlasting conflict between sentiment and practical life. It is an amazing tribute to Spain's greatest writer and grips the imagination of everyone who sees it.

Park Site Suggested.

"My thought is that at the Wren's Nest or in the center of some of our parks—perhaps Piedmont—some great sculptor will fashion in Georgia marble a group that will bear testimony to his people's appreciation of Joel Chandler Harris and what he has done for Georgia and the south. And that under some great tree there will be shown the figure of this literary genius and at his feet Uncle Remus, Brer Rabbit and Brer Fox as well as an enduring monument for after ages."

A letter from President Roosevelt's private secretary regretting his absence at the celebration was acknowledged, as was one from Willis A. Sutton, Colonel Frederic J. Paxson, who presided, read a letter to Mrs. Wilson from Lucien Harris, son of the author.

Mrs. Wilson received a three-tiered angel cake topped with a saucy iced figure of Brer Rabbit. It was the gift of Mrs. Donald Hastings, daughter of Mrs. H. G. Hastings, the first recording secretary of the association.

The gracious president also was presented with a corsage of orchids from Colonel and Mrs. Paxson. Mrs. Robert Blackburn expressed her tribute with her own poem, entitled "To My Mistress." The association's gift to Mrs. Wilson for her birthday, which is December 14, was a new radio.

Mrs. Dorothy Remington Webster's musical composition called "Dat Sun's a-Slauntin'" based on one of Harris' poems, was sung by her husband, William Webster. The song will be used as the musical theme in the forthcoming production of Joseph Selman's "Uncle Remus and His Critters."

Among other distinguished guests present were Mrs. W. B. Price-Smith, first treasurer of the association, and Mrs. Myrtle Lockett Avery, who wrote the first story and booklet about Joel Chandler Harris' home.

Mrs. Wilson's gracious speech expressed the love with which she has carried on her memorial work through the 25 years of her office.

A radio program broadcast over WSB at 6:45 o'clock Saturday night in honor of Joel Chandler Harris included Mrs. Webster's song, a speech by Lambdin Kay and an Uncle Remus story told by Lucien Harris Jr.

An Uncle Remus luncheon at the Atlanta Woman's Club Monday, with a program headed by Professor L. D. Scott, president of Washington Seminary, will have Mrs. Wilson as honor guest. She will be honored again at the club with luncheon on next Thursday in celebration of her seventy-eighth birthday.

Annual Forecast of Rosicrucians Calls for New Religious Movement

Predicting a new religious movement and a definite trend toward military organization, "but no war," the prophecy of events for 1934 of the Ancient Mystical Order of the Rose Cross, also known as the Rosicrucian Brotherhood, said the new deal would continue, more or less.

The order, according to Dr. James C. Oakshette, former master of the Atlanta lodge of Rosicrucians, goes back to the fourth Pharaoh, 3,280 years ago. He insisted that it must not be confused with astrology "because our studies are on higher lines than astrology." He added that the members of the order do not go in for spiritualism, but that they seek and find the higher phases of the psychic.

The prophecy said that the leaning toward dictatorship, not only national, but in state, county and civic governments will be short-lived.

"Liquor income," the prophecy continued, "will be far below anticipations, both to the business and to the government in taxation. There will be a successful effort to drive out crime along national lines."

The report also predicted "extensive control of Wall Street and banks and that a peace and safety movement would be launched the latter part of 1934."

Dr. Oakshette said that the prophecies for 1932 and 1933 had attracted so much attention that requests had come from all sections of the globe for a glimpse into the future of 1934. He could not recall what the earlier prophecies were and to what extent they have been borne out.

SLIGHT EARTHQUAKE IS FELT IN ARKANSAS

BLITHEVILLE, Ark., Dec. 9.—(AP)—Windows were broken in several homes and residents were awakened by what was believed to be earth shocks about 2:40 a. m. today at Manila, 14 miles west of here.

Citizens there reported they felt two distinct shocks. None was felt here.

VETERANS OF GRAY HOLD MEMORIAL CEREMONY TODAY

Memorial services for all members of Atlanta Camp No. 159, United Confederate Veterans, who have died in the last year, will be conducted at 11 o'clock this morning at the First Baptist church, 754 Peachtree street, by Dr. Ellis A. Fuller, the pastor.

In calling attention to the service, General G. S. Prior, commander of the Atlanta Camp, asked that all veterans who can attend, assemble in the lobby of the church at 10:45 o'clock so they can march in the audience in a body.

Members of the U. D. C., and the Sons of Confederate Veterans are invited to attend the service.

CAPONE IS DENIED LIBERTY ON WRIT

was a brief one. The government was represented at the hearing by H. T. Nicholas, assistant district attorney.

Although the ex-gangster's attorneys brought little new evidence into the second case, they introduced a portion of the exact language of the Chicago trial court to show that defense attorneys at that time had asked acquittal because of the statute of limitations.

Capone has been a quiet prisoner at the McDonough road institution, little being heard of him directly since his incarceration, save for his brief trips to federal court. Rumors were current that Capone tried to make the prison baseball team, that he was working in the prison tailor shop, that he was employed in the shoe shop, but none was authenticated because of the prison's rule of silence.

Warden A. C. Aderhold said, however, that Capone has no special privileges, but wears the customary rough prison clothing furnished convicts, that he is allowed to spend only $10 a month in his private life, under prison rules. He has few visitors and these are received under the careful watch of a guard.

Capone was granted a year and a half of his 10-year term. With full time allowed for good behavior, he can be released in approximately six years. He entered the prison in May, 1932. His first habeas corpus petition was filed a year ago.

Counsel for Capone expects to appeal Saturday's ruling, it was said. The second case was brought to correct technical defects of the first habeas corpus action, it was said.

as the thousands upon thousands of fine and splendid visitors from other states.

"Nearly all of these convicts have previous criminal records in other sections. They won't work in or out of the penitentiary even under compulsion."

"When any discipline is attempted by our authorities here, certain classes of people all over the country hold up their hands in horror against the alleged inhuman practices in Florida prisons."

"We have never invited the criminal classes to come and we do not want them here. I would be willing to surrender the whole bunch to you or to any responsible parties outside of this state who will guarantee they will not return to Florida as soon as cold weather sets in."

"It may seem strange to you, but the facts are that our penitentiary is filled with criminals from other states and not from Florida. Comparatively few boys born and bred in this state become criminals."

"If you have any Florida boys in prison, there, would be willing to trade you for them, giving four for one."

"David Sholtz, Governor of Florida."

COMMENT IS DECLARED 'UNJUST' TO FUGITIVE

CHICAGO, Dec. 9.—(AP)—Judge Alfred O. Erickson, of Chicago, who told James A. Larue, fugitive from a Florida chain gang, he would see him in a break, tonight expressed the opinion "it was wholly unjust to the boy" for Governor Dave Sholtz, of Florida, to comment on the case.

Dispatches from Florida quoted a message being sent by the governor to the judge.

Larue, Judge Erickson pointed out, will be given a hearing December 14, on a petition for a writ of habeas corpus. Governor Henry Horner already has honored a move to extradite him to Florida.

"I haven't received the telegram," Judge Erickson said, referring to the message from Governor Sholtz, "but I think it is wholly unjust to the boy to say anything about the case one way or the other until his hearing."

Judge Erickson said he believed there was "a lot of good in the boy" and he was sorry the message had been made public.

Larue told Judge Erickson he had been given cruel treatment in a road camp near Miami and that he had a wife and baby dependent upon him. He declined to disclose their whereabouts.

Judge Erickson said he believed

DRYS OF AUGUSTA IN MEETING TODAY

Groups Draw Resolutions Protesting Municipal Legalization of Liquor.

AUGUSTA, Ga., Dec. 9.—(AP)—Five religious organizations tonight had joined the Women's Christian Temperance Union in preparing resolutions for a mass meeting tomorrow to protest enactment of a liquor license ordinance and lay plans to keep John Barleycorn in exile.

City council started the fuss last week when it voted to license whiskey sales in defiance of the state's bone dry law and dry organizations were quick to take up the challenge.

The mass meeting was called for tomorrow in the Curtis Baptist church and later they went into court and obtained a temporary restraining order against issuance of the license, which were to go on sale January 1.

No program has been mapped for the dry gathering, but the civil service commission, which controls the police department; Solicitor W. Imman Curry, who prosecutes liquor law violations in city court; George Haines, solicitor-general of the superior court, and members of the legislature have been invited to attend.

Resolutions protesting the ordinance have been prepared by the Hephzibah Baptist Association, the Curtis Baptist church, the board of stewards of the St. James Methodist Episcopal Church, South; the board of stewards of the St. Luke's Methodist church; the St. James church, and three W. C. T. U. organizations.

Dry leaders today discovered their petition for an injunction did not mention a portion of the ordinance against issuance of the license, which was amended to include beer "when the petition is heard by Judge Franklin of superior court on its merits December 15."

A previous license permitted the sale of beer here, although the 2.2 per cent beverage is also banned by the Georgia dry law.

ALBANY'S CITY FATHERS VOTE AGAINST LIQUOR

ALBANY, Ga., Dec. 9.—(AP)—The city commission, of Albany, without a dissenting voice, went on record as opposing a proposal that liquor be licensed here. In addition, municipal authorities plan an intensive drive against any who may attempt to sell liquor.

Mayor E. A. Fry in discussing the proposed licensing ordinance, said that so long as Georgia remained dry he would oppose the city government's sanctioning sale of liquor. The declaration by the mayor drew commendation of the Women's Christian Temperance Union in a statement yesterday by Mrs. W. L. Waits, president of the local chapter, declaring "we feel certain that in indorsing his stand we voice the sentiment of every law-abiding citizen of Albany."

Anti-War Agreements Favored for Americas

MONTVIDEO, Uruguay, Dec. 9.—(AP)—A proposal for bi-lateral anti-war pacts for nations of the Americas, giving conciliation boards named in advance blanket authority to handle any incidents, drew approval of the United States delegation today.

The idea was advanced by Jose Pedro Varela, of Uruguay, a member of the international law, who called existing treaties deficient because they provide for appointment of conciliators only after a controversy has arisen.

J. Reuben Clark, delegate from the United States, said his country was eager to discuss any machinery to make war less possible and "I favor the suggestion of machinery automatically starting conciliation when a dispute arises."

HOWARD DENIES RUMOR HE WILL SEEK OFFICE

William Schley Howard, former congressman and well-known lawyer, Saturday night denied published reports that he contemplated running for governor against Governor Eugene Talmadge in 1934.

"I am not running for any office," Mr. Howard said. "I have a law practice and it takes all of my time to look after that."

Mr. Howard is known to disagree with the governor on a number of policies but he has never given indication that he might oppose the chief executive at the polls.

Application Granted.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—(AP)—The radio commission today granted the application of F. J. Reynolds to move Station WMBR from Tampa, Fla., to Jacksonville, Fla.

The sentence of five years which had been imposed upon Larue in Florida was too severe for the offense charged.

LABOR SECRETARY ARRIVES TUESDAY

Miss Perkins To Attend
Three Meetings Here.
Five States Represented.

Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins, the nation's first woman cabinet member, will head a conference of five states on social legislation here Wednesday. The conference, participated in by Governor Eugene Talmadge of Georgia and Governor Dave Sholtz of Florida, will be held in the hall of the house of representatives at the state capitol, beginning at 9 o'clock Wednesday morning.

Secretary Perkins will arrive in Atlanta Tuesday afternoon. The President's Club of Atlanta will entertain at a dinner in her honor Tuesday night at the Atlanta Biltmore and on Wednesday night she will be entertained by a group of women representing all of the women's organizations in the city.

An all-day program has been arranged for the social legislation conference.

The meeting will be opened by Hal M. Stanley, chairman of the Georgia commission on industrial relations, with the invocation being made by Dr. C. R. Stauffer, Governor Talmadge will welcome Miss Perkins and the secretary's address will follow the speech of welcome.

Congressman Robert Ramspeck, of the fifth Georgia district, will deliver an address on the purpose and aims of the conference and reports will be heard from the five participating

Siamese Parliament To Be Opened "By Stars"

BANGKOK, Siam, Dec. 9.—(AP) King Prajadhipok will open parliament tomorrow at "two minutes after 11 in the forenoon," this having been selected as an auspicious hour by royal astrologers.

The afternoon session will be featured by addresses by W. L. Mitchell and O. E. Petrie and open discussions led by George Goode, Frank Neely and T. M. Forbes.

Those who have advised they will attend the conference include: J. Roy Jones, commissioner of the department of agriculture, commerce and industry of South Carolina; A. J. Sneed, re-employment director for Alabama; Mrs. A. M. Tunstall, director child welfare department of Alabama; and H. H. Willis, dean of Clemson College, Clemson, S. C.

The adoption of codes under the national recovery act, said Miss Perkins in Washington Saturday, "has been a very large degree made matters of hours and wages and the minimum wage of employment the same among certain groups of states."

"This conference was enacted as an emergency measure and its duration is limited to a period of two years or less should President Roosevelt by proclamation declare the emergency ended."

"In view of this it seems wise at this time to take steps looking toward the desirable state laws based on certain accepted standards to make permanent certain social gains. It is hoped the conference will help to serve the purpose of defending the desirable minimum standards for labor in industrial legislation and administration."

MAJOR RAIL LINES OBTAIN PWA LOANS

$36,307,500 Is Advanced to 4 Leading Companies To Buy Equipment.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—(AP)—A quartet of the nation's leading railroads today were loaned $36,307,500 by the public works administration for purchase of new equipment.

Saying this was the first time such action had been taken, Secretary Ickes, the public works administrator, predicted the loans "will create a great amount of employment in a branch of the heavy industries that has been prostrated by the depression."

They were allotted as follows: Chesapeake & Ohio Railway Company, $18,950,000; Erie Railroad Company, $11,964,000; New York, Chicago & St. Louis Railroad Company (Nickel Plate), $5,028,500; and the Northern Pacific Railway, $1,365,000.

Ickes said the railroads plan to use the money to buy 12,775 freight cars, 167 passenger cars and 20 locomotives and "practically every dollar of the money will go to create employment in 1934."

Thousands of Man-Hours.

"It is estimated," he said, "that the $11,964,000 loan to the Erie will enable it to employ 10,000 man-hours in the equipment manufacturing plants alone. This estimate does not include the indirect and industrial employment that will be created in plants fabricating materials to be used in the manufacturing plants. Materials will originate in 20 states. Actual labor costs in fabricating and assembling the equipment will be about $8,375,000."

"About $12,645,500 out of the $18,950,000 allotted to the Chesapeake & Ohio will be paid out for labor, and about $5,419,500 will be spent for materials originating in 20 states. Estimates of the number of man-hours of direct, indirect and industrial employment to be created by this allotment have not been completed."

"Expenditures for labor will take about $3,520,000 of the $5,028,500 loan to the Nickel Plate, and the balance will be spent for materials originating in 20 states. Estimates of the number of man-hours of employment to be created have not been completed."

"The $1,365,000 loan to the Northern Pacific is estimated to provide approximately 300,000 man-hours of direct employment in locomotive manufacturing plants and at least twice as much indirect and industrial employment in producing the materials to be used."

Now Total $176,807,500.

These loans, Ickes said, brought to $176,807,500 the amount of public works loans advanced to railroads out of the $330,000,000 fund.

Ickes said indications had been received that there would be applications from other carriers for loans to purchase 3,300 freight cars, 133 locomotives, 21 passenger cars, 10 suburban trains, and one gas-electric car. The names of the roads were not given.

The loans will be secured by equipment trust notes, bearing a four per cent interest and maturing in 15 years. No interest will be charged the first year.

The allotments are subject to the usual approval by the interstate commerce commission and submission of contracts satisfactory to the public works administration.

Tennessee Supreme Court Sends Lea, Son Nearer Cells

LUKE LEA JR.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 9.—(AP) Luke Lea, who became a United States senator at 32, and a few years later a member of the Tennessee supreme court, today was sentenced to a year in the state prison for a crime he committed in 1928.

Lea, for years head of a powerful political organization in Tennessee and sometimes referred to as a "maker of governors," was convicted at Asheville, N. C., more than two years ago of violating the state banking laws and was sentenced to six to ten years imprisonment.

The Lea, a co-defendant, was given the alternative of paying $25,000 in fines and costs or serving two to six years. After losing their appeals from conviction, the Leas did not return to North Carolina.

The state supreme court was unanimous in affirming the decision of Criminal Judge John T. Cunningham, of Clarksville, who had sustained North Carolina's demurrer to the Lea's petition for a writ of habeas corpus, where there were two opinions, only the lines of reasoning were reached by both.

"All agree that this court cannot pass on the guilt or innocence of the defendant in the offenses charged, or review the fairness or validity of the judgments of the North Carolina courts," said a summary of both opinions issued by the court.

Counsel for the father and son made application for a stay of judgment while a review of the proceedings by the United States supreme court is sought, and Chief Justice Grafton Green granted the motion and fixed bond of $20,000 each, L. E. Gwinn, one of the Lea's attorneys, said the statutes allowed three months for preparation of the appeal.

The commission's office force was swamped with work Saturday and it was announced that because of the rush of activities no attempt would be made to list the approved projects for publication before next week.

It also was announced Saturday that the $180,000 previously allotted for rat fly elimination in Chatham, McIntosh and Glynn counties was available for use and that Manning S. Yeomans, state entomologist, would leave Monday night for Savannah where he will supervise the launching of this program. These projects are designed to employ about 1,800 men, Mr. Yeomans said Saturday.

The rodent and typhus fever control campaign, the greatest of its kind ever attempted in the state, will be in charge of Dr. F. Abercrombie, state director of public health, and Mr. Yeomans. Official notification of approval of the expenditure was received Saturday. Georgia is to get the bulk of a federal set up for such work in the southeastern area.

This work, Mr. Yeomans and Dr. Abercrombie said Saturday, will get under way at once.

Growth of Typhus.

The growth of the incidence of typhus fever in the state and the resultant economic loss due to the depredation of large rats which spread the disease caused Dr. Abercrombie and Mr. Yeomans to collaborate in inducing federal aid to come to the rescue and supply funds for the elimination of the rats.

The disease is spread through the medium of a species of flea which infests the rat and from him to the human being. The transfer of the flea from rat to man is not always direct, as oftentimes the fleas, gorged with blood and infested with dust of roads and buildings and take refuge in the cracks of a wall or in the travel of the rats thus means a wide distribution of the disease in Georgia. The disease is not contagious from man to man, but is communicable only through the rat and the flea. Through the elimination of the rat, the menace will be averted. Mr. Yeomans called attention to the annual loss in the United States annually by rodent depredations, which is approximately $200,000,000. Roughly, the infested area in Georgia is the growing area of the state. In instances have been found of cases as far north as Atlanta.

No particular alarm is felt by Dr. Abercrombie over the growing typhus situation in Georgia, although the conference, represented Georgia at the conference. Dr. Winchester was expected to return to Atlanta today with full information regarding the TVA project in Georgia.

The affected area naturally divides itself into two districts, the extreme western district being composed of Catoosa, Walker and Dade counties while the eastern district is composed of Towns, Union, Fannin and Rabun counties. While the drainage divide also bisects Whitfield county, it was not included in the preliminary budgets received from Dr. Bishop. Dr. Winchester went to Knoxville prepared to make a strenuous fight for further allocation to include Whitfield.

TVA Plan of Work.

According to preliminary plans, the work to be done in the Georgia TVA area is divided into three parts—rural sanitation, that is the construction of sanitary privies; malaria control or minor drainage and a sanitary survey. It is proposed to put 550 men immediately to work in the seven counties.

"The rural sanitation and malaria control projects," said Dr. Abercrombie, "are precisely similar in purpose and in plan to other projects now being developed in Georgia by the state board of health, the United States public health service and the civil works administration. The sanitary census for the TVA area will be, of course, elementary in character, but will attempt to obtain basic data on each individual household in the area with reference to population according to age, sex and race; mortality and morbidity history for the past five years; environmental data with particular reference to excreta disposal and water supply and source of the nearest mosquito breeding place."

It is expected that the TVA program will get under way shortly after January 1, 1934, and while the allocation is just for the year, it is expected that a substantial form of health work will continue in that area as the Tennessee Valley Authority has mapped plans for its work for 20 years.

The program for the remaining portion of the state which already is under way now is employing a total of 4,428 laborers, 2,995 of whom are engaged in the construction of sanitary privies.

The state has been divided into 12 sanitary districts for the purpose of the work, each district being under the supervision of an engineer. Two traveling supervising engineers, John M. Henderson and E. G. Egert, work all over the state and the personal direction of Mr. M. Clarkson, chief engineer of the state board of health, the district engineers are E. C. Settle Jr., Hugh Saussey, L. M. Becknell, G. Butler, E. B. Barrow, H. L. Grady, R. F. Boston, D. B. Sanford and W. B. Spivey.

Salaries Paid Jointly.

The salaries and expenses of the engineers are paid jointly by the state and federal governments and the wages of the laborers are paid entirely by the federal government. They are drawn from the ranks of those on the relief rolls of the counties in which the work is being done. The state, community or private individuals furnish the necessary material and the labor and engineering work is furnished by the two governments.

Just what the plan of apportionment will be in the TVA project is not yet known, but it is expected it will follow the same general line as that being done in co-operation with the United States public health service. In both instances, the funds are furnished by the civil works administration to the United States public health service and to the Tennessee valley Authority.

Already malaria control projects in co-operation with the public health service are under way in about 120 counties in the state and plans are being made for inclusion of the remaining one-fourth of the counties. The privy-building projects have not started, but will get under way shortly. Mr. Clarkson said it is estimated that by January 15, more than six thousand persons will be engaged in health work alone in the state, in addition to the forces permanently so employed. The principal diseases affected by these projects are malaria, typhoid, and hookworm.

Entomologist Yeomans said that the fight against the phony peach disease would be centered in about 35 or 40 counties in the peach belt. The work will start within a week. The task also is designed to give employment to 986 men.

Millions of peach trees in abandoned Georgia orchards are said to be infested with the disease and Mr. Yeomans said the project was expected not only to halt its spread but to practically eliminate it.

The work was announced Saturday that the CWA has allotted $5,307 for continuation of the work looking toward eradication of the sweet potato weevil in Camden and Glynn counties and on the islands off the Georgia coast. This work has been under way for some time and the federal funds allotted will assure its continuation. The task also is under direction of Mr. Yeomans.

lies along established lines. They must be cared for until they can regain mental and physical strength to join the nation in its march back to prosperity.

Atlanta Generous Last Year.

Last year Atlanta was generous and 10 families totaling more than 50 persons were "adopted" and cared for during the year. Among the people and groups who subscribed to care for entire family groups were Mrs. William T. Healey, the Two-Fifty Club, the Study Club, employees of the Citizens & Southern National bank, Southern Railway Company employees, James L. Key Bible class and the Rev. L. O. Bricker and others.

In addition, donations of various funds were combined to care for a family.

Within a few days The Constitution will begin to offer details of Ten Opportunities and their needs. The new deal has arrived for millions and it must be extended to the helpless, those silent soldiers of despair.

To Distribute Papers.

The "big brother" organization on Sunday morning, December 17, will distribute copies of the "big brother" edition of The Constitution and ask for donations for the "big brother" fund.

All money derived from the distribution and sale of papers will be devoted to charity and will be used for food, clothing, coal, medicine and necessities for the poor and unfortunate of Atlanta. Governor Eugene Talmadge has said the first paper to be distributed will be to Mrs. M. Clarkson, the business manager of The Constitution, for $10 and every person in Atlanta will be asked to make their contributions in any amount that they so desire, whether it be 10 cents, 50 cents, $1 or $10.

This edition of The Constitution will in no way interfere with the regular circulation of The Constitution, nor will it interfere with street or newsstand sale.

The "big brothers" on Sunday morning, December 17, will greet Atlanta on every hand. They will not only distribute papers to every home in Atlanta, but will sell papers on the streets and at all important, traffic intersections. The "big brother" movement will be a boon for the charitable cases in Atlanta.

All families served will be cleared through this Christmas Clearance Index, in order that there will be no duplications.

4 C. C. C. Members Are Killed in Crash

CENTER OSSIPPE, N. H., Dec. 9.—(AP)—Four members of the citizen conservation corps were killed and two others injured near here tonight by a car-truck wreck which side-swiped a camp truck on which the victims were riding.

HANDSHAKE BARRED AS MAN IS CLEARED OF TAX EVASION

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 9.—(AP)—A federal court jury today acquitted A. J. Cleary, of Miami, of charges of attempted evasion of income tax payments by failing to report alleged income from gambling room operations at a night club here from 1929 to 1931.

Cleary contended he never had received the sums which government agents alleged had been paid him.

When the clerk read the word "acquitted" in the jury's verdict, Cleary smiled and started to shake hands with one of his attorneys.

"Wait a minute," said Judge Alexander. "There will be none of that in this courtroom or you might find yourself where some one else ought to be."

When the clerk finished reading the verdict, Judge Alexander, to forestall any demonstration, said:

"I can't imagine a worse insult than to go up and thank a juror. I was a juror and someone tried to thank me for my verdict. I'd knock him down. I'm not going to have any handshaking in this courtroom."

You Are Entitled to a Cash & Carry Discount

We firmly believe that there should be a differential between cash and carry prices and called for and delivered prices on Dry Cleaning.

We Are Living Up to the NRA

You can help to lower prices by signing the consumer's petition at one of our branches asking for lower prices on cash and carry. Sign this petition Monday that we may send it to Washington Tuesday.

Prices started going up in April. We made money at low prices. We help keep unemployment down by you (the public) having more cleaning done.

We have saved the Atlanta public thousands of dollars on dry cleaning. We can still save you on Cash and Carry Dry Cleaning by you signing this petition to the NRA administrator.

Our payroll in 1933 for the first four months averaged $750 weekly for 65 employees—today $350 weekly, 30 employees.

In October, we raised wages and shortened hours as provided by the NRA; and we, with the other cleaners, raised prices from 50c to 75c. Time has proven that this raise was more than needed.

Special prices on Cleaning that are not included in government fixed prices. Limited time only.

MRS. LUCY LIVENGOOD PASSES AT HOME HERE

Widely Known Atlantan Was Eldest Daughter of the Late Justice J. K. Hines.

Mrs. Lucy Hines Livengood, the eldest daughter of the late Justice James K. Hines, of the Supreme court of Georgia, died Saturday morning at the residence at 1054 Peachtree street after an illness of about five months. She was a native of Sandersville, Ga., and had resided in Atlanta for about 30 years. Funeral services will be held at 11 o'clock Monday morning at Spring Hill, Richard C. Shoup will conduct the service and interment will be in West View cemetery, with H. M. Patterson in charge.

A graduate of Washington Seminary in Atlanta, the former Miss Hines completed a course of study at Columbia University. In 1914 she was married to Lester Miles Livengood, of Spokane, Wash.

Surviving Mrs. Livengood are her mother, Mrs. James K. Hines; and four sisters, Mrs. Hayden Jones, Mrs. E. V. Carter, Mrs. Sidney Daniel and Miss Susan Hines. Mrs. Livengood's mother was Miss Belle Evans, of Columbia, S. C., the granddaughter of Thomas Evans, who was a United

Suit Against Mellon Dismissed by Court

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—(AP)—A suit against Andrew W. Mellon, former secretary of the treasury, and four other former treasury officials for the recovery of $220,000,000 in income tax refunds, has been dismissed by Justice James M. Proctor, in District of Columbia supreme court.

The suit, brought in the name of the government by David A. Olson, of New York, charged the department officials had willfully allowed foreign steamship companies to defraud the United States.

States attorney in that state before the War Between the States.

FULTON CWA WORK STARTS THIS WEEK

County Is Handicapped by Lack of Trucks, Asserts Clarke.

Work on Fulton county's CWA projects is expected to get under way this week following receipt by the local CWA headquarters of approval of a number of projects by the state administration. Although the lack of transportation facilities for CWA men has hampered a start on the work, it is expected that this detail will be ironed out early in the week.

A. A. Clarke, superintendent of public works of Fulton county, said that transportation of county convicts requires all of the county's available trucks, and that trucks for the CWA men must be supplied from another source. Clarke said that he had been unable to obtain trucks from Fort McPherson, and that he had referred the matter back to the CWA with a request that the federal administration locate trucks for transportation of the men.

Delay in getting the men on county jobs has not been due to unwillingness of the CWA men to work, but to the fact that so much detail was thrown upon the Fulton CWA headquarters last week that it was impossible to get the assignments of men completed to the extent that men could be directed to specified jobs, it was said. These details probably will be cleared up early in the week and men sent out where they are able to get to the job or where transportation is available, it was said.

Although trucks will not be required for the skilled labor, these men being paid enough to warrant their providing their own transportation, some form of conveyance must be found for the unskilled labor assigned to projects far out in the county, it was said.

City of Atlanta Is Given Until February 10 To Make Showing on DeKalb Sewer Menace

Sewage outflow against which DeKalb county citizens have entered suit for relief. This is one of the several photographs submitted to Judge John B. Hutcheson's DeKalb court in allegation that contaminated sewage from the city of Atlanta is ruining the value of DeKalb county property and menacing health conditions. There are several of these DeKalb county streams that are affected and in which filthy sewage matter of every kind is being deposited. Judge Hutcheson has given the city of Atlanta until February 10 to show cause why relief should not be granted.

Judge John B. Hutcheson, of the DeKalb superior court, has given the city of Atlanta until February 10 to make a definite showing before his court as to what it proposes to do in the matter of sewage contamination of DeKalb county streams.

Suit was brought by Roy C. Leathers, in behalf of 35 DeKalb county residents living in the vicinity of the outlet of South creek from Atlanta, who allege that sewage from the city of Atlanta is ruining their property, causing a serious menace from mosquitoes, and, worse than that, producing malaria and typhoid fever. Suit was entered in their behalf by Mr. Leathers, claiming damages from the city of Atlanta.

The city attorney's office of Atlanta took the position before Judge Hutcheson that Atlanta's sewage problem was now in process of solution and that it was believed that within the next few weeks definite action would be taken by the federal government allotting a sufficient fund to enable the city to assure relief. It was said that both the city and the county had authorized representatives to take the matter up at once in Washington and that these representatives felt assured that the government would provide the fund asked for.

In view of this situation the city of Atlanta asked Judge Hutcheson to postpone further consideration of the case so as to see what could be accomplished meanwhile in the mission of the representatives of the city and county to Washington.

Mayor and City Attorney Issue Warnings.

It will be recalled that the city attorney has time and again notified council that the city was helpless in defense against action arising out of the pollution of streams by Atlanta, and the last time mayors in their messages to council emphasized the danger of the failure of the city to solve its sewage problem.

Representing DeKalb county clients, Mr. Leathers said he made no objection to the postponement of the case until February 10 notwithstanding the fact that such procedure has time and again been used to delay action. He agreed that it was all right to make the extension of time for hearing for this limited period, but stated that he expects a definite showdown when the case comes up for hearing before Judge Hutcheson on February 10.

"It is an outrage," said Mr. Leathers Saturday, "that the people of DeKalb county should be further subjected to the contaminating influence of Atlanta's sewage, and we are not going to stand for it any longer."

Continuing Mr. Leathers said: "Failure to provide adequate purification facilities exposes the entire community to disease-laden sewage."

"I represent some 35 property owners who reside with their families alongside, and in the vicinity of Sygar creek, Entrenchment creek and South river. These people bought their homes and farms years ago before the city began the pollution of these streams and when they were an asset to them."

"The cities of Atlanta and Decatur are turning into our streams raw, untreated, foul, fecal excrement which gives off noxious odors, and pestilence stenches to such an extent as to nauseate anyone without any authority of law. It is well settled that no municipality, corporation or individual has the right to pollute the waters of a natural stream to the detriment of a lower riparian owner."

"We have been before our city council on several occasions since the past 10 years and on each occasion we were informed that they knew the condition was bad, and that they were going to remedy it. We have brought several suits for damages and recovered in each instance, and the able and capable attorneys for the city have in each instance promised immediate relief. We are informed in each instance that the city has no funds for this work."

"We do not think this is honesty on the part of the city government, and neither in our opinion is it good judgment. If it becomes necessary for a municipality to make use of a natural watercourse to carry away its sewage, it is its duty to see that the sewage must be purified at

SCHOOL PROGRAM TO MAKE BIRTHDAY OF 'UNCLE REMUS'

A celebration of the birthday anniversary of Joel Chandler Harris featuring "Uncle Remus and the Wren's Nest" will be given at the Joe Brown Junior High school, on Peoples street, near the Wren's Nest, at 7:45 o'clock Monday night by a joint meeting of the school and the South Side Civic Federation.

The Wren's Nest and a negro cabin will be represented in the settings, together with lay figures representing Uncle Remus, Brer Rabbit and other of the famous characters. The public is invited to attend.

Professor A. G. Martin, principal of the Joe Brown school, will open the program and response will be made by W. T. Harrison, president of the South Side Civic Federation. Professor R. L. Ramsey, principal of Fulton high school, delegations from the Hoke Smith and the J. C. Murphy Junior High schools, and honor pupils of the Joe Brown school will participate in the program.

Mount Pleasant, Iowa, Has $675,840 Nest Egg

DES MOINES, Iowa, Dec. 9.—(UP)—With outstanding indebtedness of just $3—a warrant against its municipal cemetery fund—the town of Mount Pleasant, Iowa, with a population of 3,743, today stands in a class by itself.

A report on records of the Mount Pleasant municipality filed today in the office of State Auditor C. W. Storms, disclosed that not only was the city clear of debt, but also it possesses a nest egg of $675,841.04. The largest times here consist of a $275,000 electric light plant, a water works system valued at $1,010,000, and a library valued at $51,000.

The Mount Pleasant parks system was listed at $30,000 value, the city possessed a $29,000 trust fund and had cash on hand totalling $24,841.04.

OKLAHOMAN CHARGED WITH WIFE'S MURDER

LAWTON, Okla., Dec. 9.—(AP)—R. F. Hayter was charged with murder today in the death of his wife, killed with her two children in the Hayter home.

The charge, filed by County Attorney Dwight Malcolm, alleged Hayter shot his wife to death the night of October 27. Hayter is in jail at Duncan.

The charge did not mention the deaths of Sidney Hayter, 17, and Nellie Hayter, 14, whose bodies were found with that of their mother November 1 in the locked home.

BAR WILL PROBE BRANDT CHARGES

Committee Is Named by Dorsey To Investigate Alleged Jury Tampering

A joint committee of the Atlanta Bar Association and the Atlanta Lawyers' Club will investigate charges of contempt preferred by George Finch against William F. Brandt for alleged jury tampering in the double libel action between W. G. McRae and Solicitor-General John A. Boykin, which has been on trial for one week before Judge Hugh M. Dorsey in superior court.

Under the court's authority, Alex Smith and Pope F. Brock appeared Saturday as friends of court, representing the bar association and the Lawyers' Club, and were instructed by Judge Dorsey to investigate the charges and report to the court at a hearing, the time of which will be agreed upon between the committee and George Whitman, attorney for Brandt.

Postponement of the hearing, which was set for Saturday morning, was had following the filing of a demurrer by Whitman in which it was set out that the charges preferred are vague and indefinite and the facts alleged are conclusions of the complaining witness. Finch, who is representing McRae in the libel suit, did not argue the demurrer and admitted that some of the points were well taken and expressed his willingness to submit a bill of particulars.

In the event Brandt is held guilty of contempt an indictment for embracement, the legal term for such an offense, may be asked. Brandt is accused by McRae of having approached talesmen in the case, but denied on the witness stand on the first day of the trial that he had done so, although admitting that he possessed the jury list.

Resumption of trial of the libel suit in which a sum total of $400,000 is asked by the two principals, will be had Monday. The past week has been occupied with the settlement of preliminaries and presentation to the jury of a voluminous mass of documentary evidence, including the reading of many depositions, among which were affidavits alleging details of the alleged bribery transaction at Miami Beach, in which McRae, then justice of the peace, is accused by Boykin of having taken $3,000 for binding over Bert Schreiber on a charge of embezzlement. Interest in the case has lagged somewhat during the past few days because of lengthy arguments of opposing counsel on technical points of law, but is expected to revive on Monday when the first parole evidence is scheduled to be produced.

Boykin is being represented in the suit by Attorneys Schley Howard, Marion Smith and James A. Branch. George Finch is appearing as counsel for McRae.

THE NEW FORD V-8 for 1934

An amazing automobile. New, yet time-tested, proved. The 1933 Ford V-8 was good—but this is better. Dual Carburetion and Clear Vision Ventilation lead list of refinements. This 1934 V-8 is the finest car we have ever offered our customers.

BETTER PERFORMANCE. Greater power, new speed, quicker acceleration, smoother performance, more miles per gallon especially at higher speeds, and quicker starting in cold weather—all these result from the new Dual Carburetor and Dual Intake Manifold. New Waterline Thermostats enable the engine to warm up more quickly and to maintain an efficient operating temperature. Added engine refinements reduce oil consumption, further improve operating economy and reduce maintenance costs.

NEW VENTILATION SYSTEM permits clear vision, prevents drafts and provides desired amount of fresh air in any weather. Individual control for front and rear side windows. When ventilation is desired the window glass is raised to the top. Then the handle is given an additional half-turn. This slides the glass back horizontally to form a narrow slot. Through this slot air is drawn out by the forward motion of the car. This simple ventilation system maintains draft-free circulation, insures passenger comfort, prevents fogging windshield in cold or stormy weather. Both windshield and cowl ventilator can be opened to supply additional air needed for comfortable warm weather driving.

DISTINCTIVE NEW APPEARANCE enhanced by the newly-designed chromium-plated radiator shell and grille, new hood louvers, new hubcaps. Interiors are attractive, with new tufted upholstery, new mouldings, new cover-type headlining, new instrument panel, new arm rests, new hardware. Swivel-type sun visors in de luxe bodies prevent glare from front or side. On de luxe cars fenders are in color to harmonize with body colors—Wheel colors optional. New enamel finish on all bodies and fenders has greater wearing quality and more enduring lustre.

GREATER RIDING COMFORT results from increased spring flexibility. The spring leaves are newly designed for quieter and easier action. Shock absorbers are improved. Seat cushions are deeper, with new, softer springs. New type, individual bucket seats provide increased comfort for front seat passengers in the Tudor Sedan. Adding to comfort is the new driving ease of the 15-to-1 steering gear ratio.

Phone and we'll send a car to your home or office.

CAPT. C. M. SPEER DIES AT AGE OF 86

Widely Known Confederate Veteran Entered Soldiers' Home 2 Days Ago.

Captain Charles M. Speer, widely known Georgian, former editor and one-time official of Henry county, died here unexpectedly late Saturday afternoon at the Confederate Veterans' Home, where he had been only two days. He was 86 years of age and resided in McDonough.

A desire to be with his friends who fought with him in the War Between the States led Captain Speer to enter the Confederate soldiers' home two days ago, six weeks after the death of his wife.

He was thought to be in good health and his last illness came as a surprise to his relatives and friends. Captain Speer was born and reared in Henry county, a member of a prominent family. He was educated in the schools at McDonough and enlisted in the Confederate army, served in the Georgia division, while still a boy. He fought throughout the war with the division and left the army with the rank of captain.

He resided for several years in Newnan and Carrollton, where he was superintendent of the water and light departments of both cities.

Captain Speer was editor of the Henry County Weekly from 1886 to 1891 and from 1879 until 1883 was clerk of the superior court of Henry county. He was active in the reunions of veterans of the War Between the States and was well-known throughout the south.

Surviving are one daughter, Mrs. E. M. Copeland, of McDonough, and six grandchildren, Mrs. Harry Walton and Mrs. John Buice, of Atlanta; Dr. Murray Copeland, of Baltimore, Md.; Edward M. Copeland, of Augusta; Mrs. E. K. Jacupith, of New York city; and Wilbur A. Speer, of Bloomfield, N. J.

Funeral services are to be held at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon at Mrs. Copeland's residence in McDonough, and the Rev. H. E. Russell will officiate. Burial will be in the McDonough cemetery, with Howard L. Carmichael in charge.

LOUISIANAN ENDS LIFE AFTER KILLING KINSMAN

BATON ROUGE, La., Dec. 9.—(AP) Described by officers as the victim of a wild frenzy after arriving at his home in an intoxicated condition, J. R. Braud, 28-year-old creamery employee, last night shot and fatally wounded his father-in-law, then killed himself.

The dead man was J. E. Leblanc, his father-in-law, and the wounded neighbor is Mrs. J. S. Leblanc, to whose residence the wife of the assailant fled during the shooting.

School Drive To Fill Larder Of Sheltering Arms Nursery

Loaded with good, substantial food contributed by pupils of Inman and Williams Street schools, the Sheltering Arms nursery is shown above, with Mrs. Emma J. Brown, matron, to be seen gathering materials for the children's meal. Staff photo by George Cornett.

Each one gives just a little, but the sum total in canned goods means wholesome bodies and health to many small children who otherwise would be denied the benefits of the nursery, under a plan evolved by the board of directors of the Sheltering Arms as the result of highly successful tests at Samuel Inman and Williams Street schools.

Other Atlanta schools will be asked to do the same as Inman and Williams Street schools, in order that the pantry at the Baker Street nursery of the Sheltering Arms may be well filled with good things for little tots whose home circumstances do not permit their obtaining enough to keep body and soul together.

As the gift of children of the Inman and Williams Street schools, each student bringing one can of food from the home larder, the pantry at the West Baker street home of Sheltering Arms is beginning to look like a storehouse, with many gapping spaces left where additional food supplies are needed.

Organized in 1888 and founded as Sheltering Arms in 1890, the Association of Day Nurseries erected its first building in 1896, and was chartered in 1900. Hundreds of children have been cared for at the nursery during the years of its existence, while their mothers or other relatives were out trying to earn a scant living.

The nursery will be able to take care of many more children if its slender budget can be supplemented with enough food for the additional little "customers," and the school plan of raising food has been selected as one of the simplest and most effective, it was said.

Officers of the Sheltering Arms include Mrs. Turner Jones, chairman; Mrs. Edgar Neely, president; Mrs. Frederick Peace and Mrs. E. H. Cone, treasurers; Mrs. Frank Carter, vice president; Mrs. E. W. Cuthbert, corresponding secretary; Mrs. P. G. Hanahan, kindergarten chairman; Mrs. Hugh Wood, medical chairman;

GRAY WILL HANDLE AIRPORT PROJECTS

Candler Field Manager Will Aid Move for Great Networks.

Recommendations for the construction of Georgia's share of a network of 2,000 aircraft landing fields planned for cities and towns throughout the United States by the aeronautics branch of the department of commerce will be handled through J. H. Gray, manager of Candler field, under appointment by Leo Wilson, district inspector in charge of the department's aircraft division, it was announced Saturday.

W. E. Cummings, of Donaldsonville, has been appointed as advisor to Ronald Ransom, Georgia civil works administrator, on the selection of landing fields to be improved in this state, according to an announcement in Washington by the national CWA. The position is honorary, carrying no compensation. A selected group of engineers experienced in development of landing fields will be appointed in connection with improvements to be undertaken in Georgia, it was said. Cummings, a pilot, is well known at Candler field.

Georgia's portion of the $10,000,000 fund allocated by the federal government for labor and materials probably will be between $600,000 and $800,000, Gray said. Applications by towns and cities for work on aircraft landing fields on municipally-provided ground where there are no facilities or inadequate facilities for aircraft operation should be filed with him at Candler field, Gray said. The recommendations for the work will be forwarded by him to the aeronautics branch.

Announcement of the general plans for a network of fields was made recently by Eugene L. Vidal, director of aeronautics of the department of commerce, the work to be undertaken in accordance with an allotment of labor and material to the aeronautics branch. More than $8,000,000 of the allotment is to be spent for wages to more than 50,000 persons now unemployed. Municipalities will provide only the unimproved land, which may either be owned or leased by the community. Cities and states will be asked to loan road building machinery necessary for the grading and leveling.

The average cost of conditioning a field should be $5,000, with only about $630 to be expended for material, under the plans. A field should consist of two landing strips up to 3,000 feet long and 300 feet wide, except in locations where terrain or other conditions limit the area to one strip. The strips will be marked for identification from the air.

Vidal said that establishment of the fields will extend the federal airways system to parts of the country not now served by those routes, and will increase private flying as well as improve safety, due to an increase in the number of landing facilities.

The department recently surveyed the potential market for privately owned aircraft, and returns indicate that thousands of persons would buy airplanes if the prices were within their means, Vidal said. He added that if the final results of the survey are favorable, and the aircraft manufacturing industry begins to produce airplanes to sell at a low price, the need for airports and landing fields will become enormously greater. The program is a further step by the administration to stimulate private flying, he said.

As soon as a community has indicated that it has a site available, the aeronautics branch will designate an engineer to examine the site, and, if it is suitable, will undertake the conditioning work. A state construction engineer will supervise the project and will hire a crew of laborers to do the grading and other work necessary.

Gray said that he hopes to be able to obtain a portion of Georgia's airfield fund for necessary improvements at Candler field.

Robber Shot by Woman Hunted by Police Here

Believed wounded by a woman who fired several shots early Saturday morning at two men she saw breaking into the Colonial Dry Cleaning Company, at 316 Capitol avenue, a burglar who left a trail of blood was being sought Saturday night by Atlanta police. All hospitals were on the watch by order of the police.

The woman and several friends were in a house across the street from the dry cleaning company and said they heard the sound of breaking glass as the burglars sought to gain entrance to the building. The woman fired several times out of her window and the men ran, she told police. Nothing was taken from the establishment.

A Rogers store at 446 McDonough boulevard, another at 785 Edgewood avenue, an A. & P. store at 787 Edgewood avenue, and the residence of Mrs. C. P. Lassiter, at 793 Pryor street, also were entered by burglars during the night but little of value was stolen.

U. S. EMPLOYMENT SERVICES OFFICES MOVED TO NEW P.O.

Expansion of the government's program for the unemployed last week resulted in the national re-employment office's removal from its offices at 85 Poplar street to the first floor of the new postoffice building, where temporary quarters were established in the postoffice part of the building.

Occupancy of the temporary offices before the postoffice structure is ready for use of the various government agencies was allowed on a waiver by the contractor, with the understanding that possession would be available immediately when required.

Registrations will be taken through the Spring and Hunter street entrances of the building. W. D. Doak has been appointed manager for DeKalb and Fulton counties, and has taken charge of the service. Lincoln McConnell, of Macon, is state director.

Members of the committee in charge of the employment office are: Miss Gary Sims, civil works administrator for DeKalb county; Miss Ada Barker, civil works administrator for Fulton county; Scott Candler, mayor of Decatur; A. W. Gossett, Arthur I. Harris, Paul H. Jones, C. H. McFee, Miss Allie Mann, W. E. Mitchell, Kendall Weisger and Calor Woolford.

DOOR SMASHERS FACE LYNCH CASE ARREST

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Dec. 9.—(AP)—Warrants charging murder in the first degree of jail property in connection with the lynching November 28, of Lloyd Warner, negro, were issued today for Jess Davidson, Fillmore, Mo., and Raymond Young, Savannah, Mo., both 28-year-old truckers.

W. O. Sawyers, assistant attorney-general, said the charges against the two are in connection with the tearing down of the jail door with a motor truck.

VOTERS ARE THANKED BY WARREN W. LEAK

Warren W. Leak, unsuccessful candidate for councilman from the second ward in the December 6 general election, Saturday issued a statement thanking "my friends for their loyal support and for the vindication of my contentions."

"I wish to take this opportunity to thank my many friends who rallied so loyally to me," Leak said. "I was impelled to enter the race because of the sincere belief that I was the rightful nominee of the democratic party. In that contention I had the backing of the September-October grand jury and hundreds of other leading citizens."

"This statement is not an apology for my action nor my stand. I am convinced that the large vote accorded me is a complete vindication of my

1,000 TOYS DONATED AT GEORGIA'S SHOW

Approximately 1,000 new and used toys were received at the special bring-a-toy matinee at the Georgia theater Saturday morning. The matinee was sponsored by the management in co-operation with the Salvation Army, the Better Films Committee and the woman's division of the Chamber of Commerce. Toys collected have been turned over to the Salvation Army and will be distributed at Christmas to the needy children of the city.

Santa Claus from Davison-Paxon's store was on hand to receive the toys, which were used as admission to the program. The program consisted of Atlanta film exchanges. Employees of cartoons and comedies furnished free of the theater donated their services for the occasion by several of the affair.

SALESMAN IS HELD IN TRIPLE SLAYING

Married Woman Is Questioned in Killing of Mother, Children.

LAWTON, Okla., Dec. 9.—(AP)—Robert F. Hayter, traveling salesman, who returned to his home here November 1 to aid officers in investigating the mysterious killing of his wife, son and daughter, was charged with murder today.

Hayter was charged specifically with killing his wife, whose body was found at the head of a staircase in the locked Hayter home with those of the 14-year-old daughter, Nellie, and 17-year-old son, Sidney, November 1. Officers said all were slain the night of October 27.

Meanwhile, police were questioning a married woman, the wife of a railroad worker, who was held in jail at El Reno, Okla., but her name was not divulged.

Hayter was in Oklahoma City attending a salesman's meeting the night officers broke into the barred home and found the bodies. For a time investigators held to the theory that the three deaths resulted from two murders and a suicide. There was no clue to bring suspicion upon the salesman until a few days ago, when a fingerprint discovery resulted in his arrest.

Hayter was placed in jail at Dun can for fear of attempted violence against him, although he denied any knowledge of the crime.

The case evolved itself into a mysterious maze of circumstances that baffled investigators for weeks. Clues, all incomplete, included a fingerprint on the pistol found near the body of the Hayter boy, a lone open window in the room where his body was found, a man in a white hat said to have been seen near the home, a base ball bat, a disconnected gas stove and blankets hung over windows. Police said an attempt had been made to burn the home, Mrs. Hayter and her son were shot to death. The girl was killed by the ball bat. Apparently nothing had been taken from the house.

Miss Virginia Hayter, Walter school teacher, the only surviving child, arrived here the night the bodies were found. Police said she could offer no information of value.

LANSBURY INJURED BY FALL IN ENGLAND

GAINSBOROUGH, LINCOLN-SHIRE, England, Dec. 9.—(AP)—George Lansbury, veteran labor leader, in parliament, slipped and fell tonight on the steps of a hall where he was to speak and fractured his thigh. Mr. Lansbury, who is 74, was taken to a hospital where his condition was described as dangerous.

Teacher Given Money For Resembling Lindy

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—(AP)—Because he "looked like Colonel Lindbergh," Mrs. Jennie Houts said she turned over approximately $2,100 in securities to Frederick J. Werner, Brooklyn school teacher held in Miami pending extradition to Brooklyn to face trial on charges of defrauding.

Mrs. Houts, an elderly Brooklyn woman, told District Attorney William Geoghan today, "he looked enough like Colonel Lindbergh to be his brother. For that reason, I had implicit faith in him."

Six indictments have been returned against Werner, on complaints from almost fifty persons. The complaints charge that he obtained money on securities, which he promised to convert for their owners alone.

Werner was placed in jail at Dun can for fear of attempted violence against him, although he denied any knowledge of the crime.

To Get Game-Fish Post

Zach D. Cravey, tax collector of Telfair county, is expected to be named by Governor Talmadge to succeed Peter S. Twitty as state game and fish commissioner on January 1.

The conference similarly expressed its opposition to lynching, divorce and gambling, striking particularly at the "mania for bridge playing, especially among the women of our church."

During the day the conference heard Spessard Holland, state senator from Polk county, predict "a chaotic condition and the open saloon in its worst form" will result if the Florida dry amendment is repealed at the polls next November.

The oldest of 10 children of a poor country cobbler, Mr. Thompson paid for an education at Muskingum College by working as a farm hand. After being ordained to the ministry in 1882 he became a missionary and pastor in Iowa.

His first college presidency was at Longmont, Col., where he headed the Synodical College for four years. He then was called to the presidency of Miami University at Oxford, Ohio, served for eight years, and in 1890 became president of Ohio State.

He was moderator of the Presbyterian general assembly in 1927. Dr. Thompson's retirement from Ohio State was on his 70th birthday. After quarters as a distinguished professor, he resigned in 1919. During his tenure the campus saw university hall change from a main building into an old landmark, although it still is used. He found Ohio State a small, little known school with 1,200 students. When he left its student body numbered more than 12,000 and its plant, covering 1,100 acres, was valued at about $15,000,000.

REV. FRANK H. WARDLAW, CHARLOTTE, N. C., Dec. 9.—(AP)—The Rev. Frank H. Wardlaw, of Spartanburg, S. C., for 35 years a minister of the Presbyterian church, died shortly after noon today in Presbyterian hospital here. He was 62 years old.

Mr. Wardlaw had been in ill health for several months prior to his death. He was a member of the Presbyterian church and had been a member of the church for many years.

The body will be taken to Spartanburg tomorrow morning for funeral services and burial.

Mr. Wardlaw was born in Abbeville, S. C., May 29, 1871. He attended Davidson college and Columbia Theological Seminary.

WILLIAM J. CURRY, MEMPHIS, Tenn., Dec. 9.—(AP)—William J. Curry, 67, head of a real estate firm bearing his name, died at his residence here late last night.

CHARLES DALTON, CHARLOTTE, N. C., Dec. 9.—(AP)—Charles Dalton, 83, the lieutenant-governor of Prince Edward Island, died at 5:30 a. m. today from pleuro-pneumonia, which developed after he sustained a fractured hip last month in a fall.

Body Found. MEMPHIS, Tenn., Dec. 9.—(AP)—Apparently killed by a train, the body of Norman Hall, whose home was said by friends to be in Lynville, Ky., was found between the rails of railroad tracks near here today. An attempt is being made to communicate with relatives.

Fight To Be Launched on Activity Of Fortune Tellers in City Limits

Influx of clairvoyants, phrenologists, palmists and fortune tellers into the city limits Saturday drew the fire of Alderman G. Everett Millican, of the tenth ward, who said he proposed to institute an investigation with a view of barring them again from the city.

On the recommendation of the tax committee, council several weeks ago passed a licensing ordinance setting the annual fee at $200 for such activities. Previously they had been barred from the municipal limits, but former Mayor Walter A. Sims supported the licensing act, saying that the city could collect several hundred dollars a year in additional revenue from that source. Councilman Max M. Cuba, chairman of the tax committee, said:

Cuba asserted that if the establishment of fortune tellers became nuisances, he will champion a move to force them beyond the inner city limits, and he was joined in this by Councilman John A. White, author of the ordinance. White said he offered it after he had been requested to do so.

"I am not in favor of fortune tellers of any description," Millican said Saturday. "I was not in Atlanta when the ordinance was passed and would not have favored it. If, after an investigation, I am convinced we can curtail such activities, I shall proceed to bar them again from the Atlanta limits. There appears to me little excuse for fortune tellers."

Several itinerants are said to have located at several points of vantage throughout the congested district and to have been subjects of criticism from adjacent and nearby businesses.

PRESIDENT EMERITUS OF OHIO STATE PASSES

Dr. William Thompson Also Was Former Moderator of Presbyterian Assembly.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Dec. 9.—(AP)—Dr. William O'Leary Thompson, 78, president emeritus of Ohio State University and former moderator of the assembly of the Presbyterian church in the United States of America, died in a hospital here early this morning. He had been ill since Tuesday.

The venerable educator and religious leader who left the "oval" of Ohio State with the unofficial title of "Most Beloved Man," suffered a heart attack on his last birthday, December 5, and was taken to the hospital. Oxygen was administered, but he failed rapidly in the last 48 hours.

Even after his retirement from the presidency of the university he maintained an active interest in the affairs of the day, and until a short time ago was chairman of the local NRA compliance board.

who was slain Thursday on the Mexican border near El Paso, will be held at 11 o'clock this morning at Union church in Rockdale county. Interment will be in the churchyard.

Mr. Melton was in command of a group of federal officers and was slain in a gun battle with a number of Mexicans who were trying to smuggle liquor across the border.

He met and married the former Miss Lucille Mann while stationed in Atlanta as a United States marine.

A pedestrian suffered a fractured leg as the fugitive car rounded a corner and knocked him down.

A score of passengers on a street car were thrown into chaos when a automobile load of gunners crashed into it, ending the chase and the gun battle ensued. The squad leader, Sergeant Howard Hardee, sent a bullet through the heart of one man as he sprang from the wrecked automobile and he fell dead under a moving street car.

CHICAGO, Dec. 9.—(AP)—A racing squad car caught up with a carload of gunmen today after a spectacular five-mile chase and engaged in a furious battle at a busy street corner, in which one gunman was killed and another wounded.

ly advertised more than 3.2 per cent alcohol in beer.

One of the favorite tricks of the bootleggers in the early days of prohibition in Georgia was the use of trunks for the importation of liquors. The trunks were checked out to wet states, filled with the wet stuff and brought back. Police, however, began checking up on sample trunks and other baggage which appeared too fat to be the luggage of a man, and the practice soon was broken up.

Since repeal of prohibition, anything goes in these states which have no restrictions on the manufacture or sale of wines, beers and liquors, and hence the 3.2 per cent limit no longer applies, except in those states which have limited the alcoholic content by state law.

7 to 10 years for robbery from Fayette; Bill Joyner, 7 to 10, burglary from Wilkinson; Jack Wells, burglary from Bulloch; M. J. Pries, Roy Graham, Extra Brown and Durant Shadix, all serving a year for misdemeanors from Fulton, and Bill Evans, serving a year from Paulding.

Pries and Graham were captured shortly after the break on the Macon highway about four miles from the prison. The others apparently had split into small groups and officers, tracking them with dogs, believed they would be rounded up soon.

McCullough was sentenced to life for the slaying of W. B. Baker, of Atlanta, former president of the Atlantic Ice & Coal Company, on the Baker farm in Fayette county. His father was electrocuted for the killing.

W. L. Hodges, a guard, discovered the break soon after the men left and officers immediately started the search. The men prisoners at the farm sleep on the second floor of a large one-room dormitory.

Gridiron Club Pictures Hoover As Nudist After Losing All in '32

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—(UP)—Leading figures and policies of the new deal were satirized at the annual dinner tonight of the Gridiron Club, the famous organization of Washington newspaper correspondents.

In gaily costumed skits and songs, club members gave their version of events in Washington before 400 guests chosen from leaders of American official, professional and journalistic life.

The president, who by Gridiron tradition makes the unreported speech which closes all of the club's dinners, was introduced by a 1933 version of the King Midas fable in which everything the king touched turned not to gold, but to paper. King Midas was, discovering his power, shouted, "Now I am an expert. Give me a government to foot with. I would do things to peoples, to nations, to the world. I will turn the universe to paper." When Senator Elmer Thomas appeared as the Demosthenes from Oklahoma, he was greeted with their clothes in 1932.

The plight of the republicans was pictured in the club's nudist colony, where Herbert Hoover and others had gathered for losing all of their clothes in 1932.

The dinner opened with a parade of the alphabet by the fifty members of the Gridiron club, each carrying a placard bearing initials of one of the recovery organizations. After NRA, AAA and others came the Gridiron club's prophetic extension of the alphabetical agencies—AWOL, BYD, GYP, GIN, NERTZ, IWW, WCTU, IOU, and SOS.

Hugh S. Johnson, the king of croakers, NRA, the queen of codes and their coarcted sat in an Alice in Wonderland trial of Henry Ford, knave of tire and decided without waiting for the evidence that "the chiseler" was guilty. He was sentenced to keep Herbert Hoover's pictures out of his windshield.

The new deal farm of 1933 showed wheat and paw in full dress waiting for dinner to be served while their shabby city cousin Algonquin, came in unable to afford evening clothes because beefsteak was $8 a pound. Federal inspectors threatened to arrest the farm couple when they found that they had five children whereas they had been allotted only four by the king at Washington. The tragedy was averted by the daughter marrying a wheat bootlegger and reducing the household to four dependents. A post-prohibition drinking place was shown with the bartender identifying the place not as a bar but as a modern tavern. Customers costumed as the Florida sextet entered and one of the girls wanted to buy a drink but after producing her birth certificate and character references was handed a quart.

"I just wanted a drink, not a source," she protested. "Sorry, madam," the bartender replied, "but the minimum amount that can be sold is a quart. This is an era of strict temperance. So you'll either drink a quart or nothing."

At closing time customers were reminded that they could purchase three quarts of hard liquor and three gallons of wine to take home. "Remember, the saloon is gone forever," the bartender said.

The Louis M. Howe toilet kit hour and numerous other skits continued throughout the dinner.

Among the distinguished guests were the president and most of the cabinet, diplomatic corps, Chief Justice Hughes, General Pershing, Mayor-elect La Guardia of New York; general H. H. John, of the treasury department; Hugh Baillie and Robert J. Bender, vice president of the United Press, and Webb Miller, of London, England, United Press general European news manager.

James Wright, Washington correspondent for the Buffalo Evening News, was elected president of the club. Henry Sydnay, Brooklyn Eagle, was elected vice president. Warren Wheaton, Philadelphia Public Ledger, was elected to active membership.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—(AP)—The president's wife, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, was elected vice president of the Gridiron Club tonight at the Lambeau Club.

Political satire of a feminine slant was scintillating tonight within the White House walls.

It was due to omission of Secretary Perkins by gridiron rule, from that strictly stag affair, prompting Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt to rally Federal inspectors threatened to arrest the farm couple when they found that they had five children whereas they had been allotted only four by the king at Washington. ## REAL ESTATE MEET IN SAVANNAH THURSDAY, FRIDAY

Association To Hold 13th Annual Convention. Frank Holden To Speak on NRA.

SAVANNAH, Ga., Dec. 9.—(AP)—Real estate men will gather here Thursday and Friday for the thirteenth annual convention of the Georgia Real Estate Association. A number of prominent men will address the convention including W. C. Miller, of Washington, D. C., president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards.

Officers, directors and the advisory council will hold a business meeting on Wednesday night preceding the convention. Robert C. Oria, Atlanta real estate dealer, is president of the association and will preside over the meeting.

Frank A. Holden, of Atlanta, state manager of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation, is on Friday's program for an address on the "Home Loan Problems and the NRA." Other speakers will include John J. Thompson, a former president of the association, who will discuss "What the State of Georgia Should Do Next Year," and H. Hall III, of Macon, also a former president, who will talk on "Suggestions and Recommendations for Helping the Individual Borrower" and Washington Post editorial writer, "The Financial Affairs of the Association and What We Are Getting for Our Money."

Mr. Miller will address the convention Thursday morning. Following his address William C. Gilbert Jr., manager of the real estate department of the Liberty National Bank & Trust Co., of Savannah, will speak on "Cooperative Publicity for Real Estate."

Lincoln McConnell, vice president of the City Bank & Trust Co., of Macon, and Carter D. Polansky, of Macon, Ala., also will address the convention. The annual banquet will be held Thursday evening with a "home town" oratorical contest as a special attraction.

LEGION POST OFFICERS MEET IN MACON TODAY

MACON, Ga., Dec. 9.—The commanders and adjutants of the 10th post of the Georgia department of the American Legion will meet here in their annual fall conference at the Dempsey hotel at 10:30 a. m. on Sunday.

John Thomas Taylor, of Washington, D. C., executive vice chairman of the national legislative committee, will be the one of the principal speakers. Frank E. Samuel, national adjutant of the Legion, will also be on the program and deliver one of the principal addresses.

The Georgia department of the American Legion has 3,894 members at the present date, enjoying the most successful year in its history, says Commander Sidney Cunniff, of Savannah. "It is my desire that not only the post commanders and adjutants but also the members attend this conference but as many legions as possible hear our national leaders present our Legion program for 1934. Any civilians who desire to attend will be cordially welcome."

COLUMBUS, Ga., Dec. 9.—(AP)—George M. Shea, who was charged with the kidnapping of Albert Barker, negro, was acquitted by a Muscogee county jury shortly before midnight last night. The case was given to the jury by Judge H. H. Rogers. Shea, who officers said represented himself as national organizer of the Crusaders for Economic Liberty, was jointly indicted with George H. Rogers, J. M. Jenkins and H. P. Pegg. The indictment charged that Barker, Barker, to Cusseta, Ga., for questioning in connection with the investigation of a murder case.

When the jury retired yesterday to consider the charge against Shea, the other defendants were released on bond, as their cases will not be tried at this time of court.

Shea faces a second charge of kidnapping, as the result of the alleged abduction of Albert Barker, charges of carrying a concealed weapon and pointing a pistol at another. Trial on the latter charges has not been set.

INSANITY PLEA SAVES SHEPARD FROM TRIAL
COLUMBUS, Ga., Dec. 9.—An eight-year-old murder case was revived today when R. L. Shepard, 64, charged with killing his young wife, Lela Shepard, on September 2, 1925, was re-committed to the state insane asylum by a jury in the superior court.

A plea of insanity was presented by Shepard's counsel, Foley and Chappell, who maintained that they had been unable to discuss the case with their client due to his wrecked mind. The case was set for last February's criminal docket when the defendant was pronounced sane by the asylum authorities and brought back to Columbus to face trial.

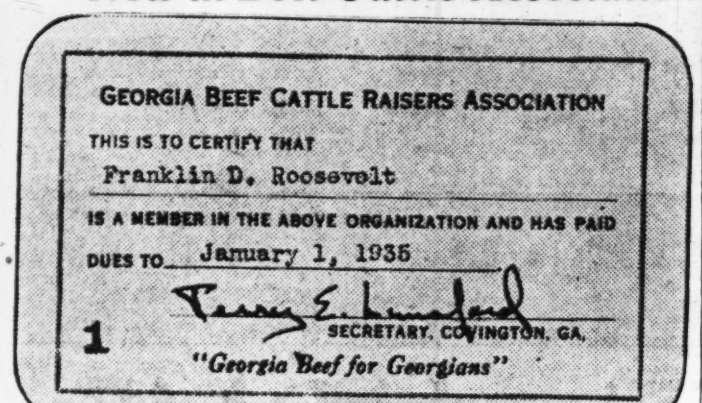

A continuance of the case was granted. Shepard may be tried at any time for the murder if he is ever pronounced sane under the verdict of the jury yesterday.

POULTRY OFFICIALS NAMED AT COLUMBUS

COLUMBUS, Ga., Dec. 9.—Officers of the Chattahoochee Valley Poultry Club were elected for 1934 at their annual meeting here. They are D. C. Prim, president; T. S. Roberts, first vice president; C. M. Wynn, second vice president; Mrs. T. U. Bluffs, third vice president; Mrs. J. M. Butler, fourth vice president; Mrs. L. L. Starns, secretary; and J. C. Wilson, assistant secretary.

Directors for the next year are: S. A. Wright, John S. Jenkins, R. R. Brown, W. O. Reich, Wiley Williams, John Rigdon, J. Cohen Higgins and C. F. Hill.

Roosevelt's Membership Card Now in Beef Cattle Association

When notified by Governor Talmadge that Georgia's newly formed beef cattle raisers' association was ready to accept active members, President Roosevelt signified his desire to become one of the first members of the organization. Perry Lunsford, secretary of the association, at once issued the card from which the above illustration was made.

President Roosevelt, who is building up a fine herd of beef cattle on his Georgia farm near Warm Springs, has again evidenced his interest in the prosperity of the state and his desire to improve the cattle-raising industry in this section by becoming an active member of the Georgia Beef Cattle Raisers' Association.

Coincident with the granting of a charter to the association Colonel W. B. Hutchinson, president of the Georgia Beef Cattle Raisers' Association, requested Governor Talmadge to invite President Roosevelt to become an active member. The president immediately replied with the following letter:

"White House, Washington, December 5.—My Dear Governor: I am delighted that a Georgia live stock association is to be formed and of course I shall be glad to become one of the first members. Very sincerely, Franklin D. Roosevelt."

"His Excellency Eugene Talmadge, Governor of Georgia, Atlanta, Ga." Perry Lunsford, of Covington, secretary of the association, at once issued an active membership card No. 2 was awarded to Governor Talmadge, who is building up a fine herd of grade cattle on his farm near Warm Springs.

Honorary membership card No. 1 was issued to Clark Howell Sr., editor and general manager of The Constitution. No. 2 honorary went to Hiram R. Romans, editor of The Southern Cultivator in recognition of his work in promoting the preliminary of organization, and No. 3 went to the president of the association, Mr. Rogers, for the interest he has displayed in demonstrating to patrons of Rogers stores that Georgia produced beef is just as good as "western beef."

Colonel Hutchinson, president; Colonel E. B. Weatherly, vice president; and Perry Lunsford, secretary, met in Macon during the past week and formulated plans for an aggressive campaign to secure the membership of more than 200 producers of beef cattle, many of whom have already signed up.

CECIL D. FRANKLIN ASPIRES TO PLACE IN NEXT ASSEMBLY

ROCKMART, Ga., Dec. 9.—Cecil D. Franklin, of Polk county, a student of the Atlanta Law school, announces that he will be a candidate to represent his county in the next general assembly.

The Georgia department of the American Legion has 3,894 members at the present date, enjoying the most successful year in its history, says Commander Sidney Cunniff, of Savannah. "It is my desire that not only the post commanders and adjutants but also the members attend this conference but as many legions as possible hear our national leaders present our Legion program for 1934. ## 5 BANKER-FARMER COUNCIL HOPE, MEETINGS LISTED FOR WEEK

ATLANTA, Ga., Dec. 9.—(AP)—Five sectional banker-farmer meetings will be held next week at Thomson, Baxley, Americus, Fort Valley, Marietta Meets.

Harry L. Brown, acting director of agricultural extension of the University of Georgia System, said today that agricultural adjustment and the 1934 cotton acreage reduction contract would be discussed at the meetings.

In addition to state extension workers there will be present members of the agricultural committee of the Georgia Bankers' Association.

Brown will preside at the meetings and the following banker committees will serve as co-chairmen: Thomson, December 11, Thomson, G. White Jordan; December 12, Baxley, J. M. Norman, Waycross; December 13, Fort Valley, Lee Hudson; December 14, Marietta, Fred H. Brewster, of Cedartown.

NEW TREATMENT CURES PNEUMONIA IN SHORT TIME

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 9.—(AP)—Dr. Alfred Stengel, professor of medicine and vice president of the University of Pennsylvania in charge of medical affairs, today confirmed a report that artificial pneumothorax recently was used in the treatment of acute lobar pneumonia at the University hospital, for the first time in this country.

The treatment is similar to that used for many years in cases of pulmonary tuberculosis and consists of injecting air through the chest wall of a patient to compress a diseased lung.

Dr. Stengel said the decision to employ the treatment was made only after long investigation warranted such a procedure. He stated that it was administered to a patient in the early stages of lobar pneumonia and that the patient's fever and brought about a speedy and uncomplicated recovery.

Dr. Stengel pointed out that before the hospital's investigation some twenty years ago, the use of artificial pneumothorax had been noted, but there was nothing in medical literature to support the experimental work justified and defining its use in man.

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—(AP)—Four miles a minute will be safely in the goal of the near future on the continental airlines.

By next year, statisticians of the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce estimate, the regular running time from coast to coast will be cut to 18 hours and 30 minutes. This is two hours under schedules of today.

The chamber says a speed of 250 miles an hour, better than four miles a minute, is now known to be commercially practicable.

As the huge transport planes rocket down the airways in quest of new business, three factors are stressed by the airlines: speed, comfort and reliability.

The airlines, the chamber contends, are developing a new type of business. They deny they constitute a threat to the railroads.

An average of 1,400 passengers, 750,000 letters and 4,000 pounds of express matter were flown over 24 hours during the past week, the chamber estimates, and the chamber estimates that more than 20 per cent of it was "original" business.

To show how business has increased, the chamber says the number of air station stops has grown from 23 to 178 since 1928. The year the total passenger list was 5,782. Last year, it was 504,575. And this year, based on reports up to the end of November, the chamber estimates it will be 550,000.

The chamber, in a survey soon to be issued, will present statistics showing there now are 600 American airlines, and that the industry is every 150 Pullman cars. Of this total, 150 are operated by Pan-American Airways on routes outside of the country.

Transcontinental and Western Air, which just received the first of its 25 new Douglas planes, this ship, costing around $65,000, has a top speed of 200 miles an hour and cruises at 180.

Important News Developments in Georgia During the Past Week

(Associated Press Staff Writer) Augusta city council's licensing of liquor as national prohibition ended took the spotlight in Georgia news of the week.

Georgia has one of the driest of dry laws prohibiting anything with an alcoholic content above one-half of 1 percent, but despite this, the South Carolina border city gave sanction to the sale of hard whisky by license. Almost immediately the dry forces in that city went into action and at the latest news writing they succeeded in temporarily enjoining sale. They are going to see if it can't be made permanent on the fifteenth.

Both wholesale and retail license were provided in the Augusta license ordinance, but since new licenses are not effective until January 1, city officials said liquor would not be licensed until that date. Originally, it was said the liquor license would be in effect within three days.

The mayor of Augusta disapproved the ordinance, but he could not veto it, since he has authority only to veto ordinances in which money is appropriated.

Frank Washington came information that the federal government plans to exercise no jurisdiction where a city in a "dry" state permits by ordinance the sale of liquor.

Frank Washington came information that the federal government plans to exercise no jurisdiction where a city in a "dry" state permits by ordinance the sale of liquor.

There is an office within the agricultural department at the present, but it is not yet established, and it is to be approved for spending the $25,000,000 set aside for subsistence.

BRAD ARDICK BASED ON 1ST YEAR CLASS AT ATHENS

Journalism Students Score Highest by Groups With Prospective Teachers Among the Lowest.

By HYMAN J. ARONSTAM. ATHENS, Ga., Dec. 9.—Every year, universities all over the country subject their incoming freshmen to a series of intelligence examinations, the results of which are used as a yardstick to determine the various aptitudes, academic inclinations, and general mental ability of the new students.

The University of Georgia recently conducted an examination of this nature, prepared by the American Council on Education, among its 509 first-year students: 310 being men and 199 being women.

Scoring 301 points out of a possible 370, William Tapley Bennett Jr., Griffin, led his class. The four other highest grades were made by George A. Crabb, Athens, 280; Martha Fulford, Atlanta, 282; Nellie Jane Trotter, Columbus, 281; and Billie Stebbins, Brunswick, 273. Three of the first five were women.

As in previous years, the average score of the women taking the test was higher than that of the men. The median score for the women was 228, while for the men it was 225. The combined average of the 509 students, who took the test, was 223.5, which was slightly lower than last year's median.

More projects are to be awarded later in the month. The civil works authority is also working day after day providing more county work for the thousands of men now on the government pay roll.

Repeal Unlocks Bars On Savannah Vessels. SAVANNAH, Ga., Dec. 9.—The Ocean Steamship Company announces according to the repeal of the eighteenth amendment that it will open the bars aboard the boats of the line that ply between Savannah and New York.

This doesn't mean the company is going to ignore the Georgia dry law. It is stated that when the ships are scheduled to port the saloons will be locked, and no stocks will be taken on board. The company has been pursuing this policy with 3.2 beer since the change in the Volstead act several months ago.

Drop to 26 Degrees Is Due This Morning. Today will dawn fair and cold, with a low temperature of 26 degrees, the coldest since November 9, the weather bureau forecast Saturday.

No frost is expected, but the temperature is expected to rise to 50 degrees. Saturday being to drop to 38 degrees. The thermometer stood at around 40 to 42 degrees most of the day and reached a maximum of 46. There was no rain.

Fairbanks Is Silent On Suit for Divorce. ST. MORITZ, Switzerland, Dec. 9.—Douglas Fairbanks was silent to reporters today when asked for comment on the divorce suit filed against him by Mary Pickford.

The actor spent the day in skiing and expected to go to Austria tomorrow.

Fairbanks' representative in London said the actor is continuing his fight against the divorce suit, but he is not making any statement regarding his personal affairs.

"Mr. Fairbanks is in the Swiss Alps," the representative said, "immediately after he finishes the two pictures he is making in Spain and England he will return to California. Since he has arranged to deed Pickford to Mrs. Fairbanks, he will build a new home in California, near his citrus ranch in southern California, in the finest true Spanish type."

BILBO COUSIN'S BODY FOUND IN AUTOMOBILE. NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 9.—(AP)—Lawrence Bilbo, 20, of Hillsdale, Miss., a distant cousin of former Governor Bilbo of Mississippi, today was found in an automobile just north of Poplarville, Miss., and authorities here were advised that a search for his slayer was being made along the highway between that town and New Orleans.

Young Bilbo had apparently been robbed and murdered. His empty home on the same plantation all these years. The body was found on the seat of the car in which he was found dead.

Bilbo had been shot to death. A clerk disclosed that the car was rented from a New Orleans automobile concern.

The youth was a student at a local barber college and New Orleans authorities are checking a report that a friend had offered Bilbo a ride to the latter's home in Hillsdale a few days ago.

Fox News To Show Christmas Parade. December 15 will be a day long remembered in Atlanta. Fox Movie News is sending a complete and complete stage to show the city's equipment for night photography in order that other cities throughout the United States may see just how Atlanta welcomes Santa Claus. Pictures of the parade will be shown in Atlanta exclusively in the Paramount theater.

In addition to this feature of the parade, the Shrine Mosque has assumed unusual importance. Radio station WGST will install broadcasting equipment in the Shrine Mosque and program similar to those broadcast from Hollywood and New York will be put on the air. Celebrations as they arrive will be given an opportunity to say a word over the "mike" and complete broadcast of the festivities will be given. The broadcast will be given from 10 to 10:30 over radio station WGST.

Ted Shawn Presents Program Marked by Variety, Versatility

With a program of astonishing variety and versatility, Ted Shawn today presented a truly American dance at the Atlanta Woman's Club before an Atlanta audience for the first time in three years. Under the auspices of the Atlanta Woman's Club, Shawn and his company of six men gave a unique group of dances which, according to their own boast, was untouched by feminine influences. The dances were of a skillful and sympathetic interpretation through the dance medium. Mr. Shawn interspersed talks which explained the symbols of the individual dances, the which carried the message in which he believes so firmly. That is, that the dance is a living, human thing, belonging to men as well as to women and as true an art as any.

The first group, under the name of "Music Visualization," consisted of classic or aesthetic dances. Notable in this group was the Brahms Rhapsody, the first number in which Mr. Shawn himself appeared, and which bore the distinct mark of his vitality.

The second part of the program consisted of the "American Epic," a historical saga of John Brown's body.

The third group, under the name of "Music Visualization," consisted of classic or aesthetic dances. Notable in this group was the Brahms Rhapsody, the first number in which Mr. Shawn himself appeared, and which bore the distinct mark of his vitality.

CHRISTMAS CANDLES.

By Caroline Hardee Godfrey.
Reflecting from cover to cover the author's sincere belief in divine guidance, "Christmas Candles" by Caroline Hardee Godfrey, published by Rae D. Henkle, of New York, is an ideal Christmas book presenting a glowing message of "Christ-consciousness" for every day of the year. Strung together by the author's desire to communicate to her readers the value of love and faith in the problems of everyday life, the 12 short stories are tersely and vividly presented. The six stories in part one may better be classified as sketches, presenting a wise mother's directions to her daughter, who seeks advice on the many problems of her household.

In Afterglow, the second portion of the book, the absorbing little narratives are true short stories, having plots and more sharply defined characters, who move with amazing reality through the action of the stories. Convincingly presented, the almost miracles which take place in the stories seem thoroughly natural, though sometimes surprising, in the conclusion.

According to Mrs. Godfrey, every story in the book is absolutely true in fact, although perhaps the setting and the names of the characters are somewhat altered. The pictures of southern life are unusually well drawn by the author, who lives in Georgia and who has the knowledge born of a lifetime's experience with the customs of the section. In the story, Blind Faith, the description of the home and the name, Honeycomb, is that of Mrs. Godfrey's childhood home, while the name, Esther Ash-burn, was that of her maternal grandmother, a cousin of President Harrison. The real happenings and actual places used for setting, coupled with the distinctive simplicity of the author's style, make an unusually lasting impression in the mind of the reader.

Attractively bound in gleaming silver and leaf green, the slim volume has tasteful make-up throughout. Particularly outstanding are the exquisite illustrations of Peter Ephraim, which are executed with beauty and extraordinary style.

NEW BOOKS.

Racketeering in Washington. This being an account from authoritative records of the grafting in small and great things in the capital, and the history of the house of representatives and executives in public departments who line their private pockets, live in the lap of luxury at the expense of the taxpayer, and indulge in nepotism, junketing, padded expense accounts and many wastes and extravagances at the very time that millions of our citizens are out of work, by Raymond Clapper, Washington correspondent. With a foreword by Henry Ford, illustrated with drawing by the foremost cartoonists of the time, including, Donahay, Duffy, Kirby, Norman, Parrish, Spencer and Talbott. (L. C. Page & Co., Boston.)

America Faces the Next War. By Frank H. Simonds. What every American should know! This little book contains America's foremost authority on international relations how and why he discussed the following subjects: HOW THE LAST WAR CAME. Why the next war is coming. What Hitler means. Where the League failed. U. S. neutral or belligerent? As is well known even in Atlanta Washingtonians call Mr. Simonds "the pessimist whose words follow the truth." Recalling his last books "Can Europe Keep the Peace" and "Can America Stay at Home?" he proved to be a first-class prophet. His new book contains less than 100 pages, but is simply a "postscript" to the other two books. Should the reader recall these lines: "American participation in the last war was a mistake, and it is to assist Europe in preparing the way for the next" he will find it easy to follow the trend of Simonds' thoughts. (Harper & Bros.)

Toward Liquor Control. By Raymond B. Fosdick and Albert L. Scott with a foreword by John D. Rockefeller Jr., who in February of this year asked Mr. Fosdick to make a thorough study of the methods employed for the handling of the sale of liquors under the name of alcoholic beverages, believing that in the end the eighteenth amendment would be repealed.

They were asked to make investigation of the Canadian provinces—and the condition in certain European countries of their control of liquor in the past and at the present time, and what were the results. Mr. Rockefeller thought this investigation might be of some value in the system of liquor control in the United States, what kind the people wanted and what was best for the people.

Messrs. Fosdick and Scott with a competent corps of research workers, feel that they have achieved the result of their study of this much discussed question, and it is to the reader to decide for or against the solution of the most difficult problem in the U. S. A. (Harper & Bros., New York.)

receive not only a welcome from the exiles of this much-loved country, but the many lovers of Scotland and Burns who are scattered the world over. H. V. Morton, the author, also wrote "In Search of Scotland," and "In Search of Wales." The illustrations are most attractive and the map in the front of the book is both instructive and interesting, even to a tourist of foreign countries.

"Are you going through Scotland you shall see many good-looking men and women, and other commodities that will be to your contentment."

After his return and the publication of his book, "In Search of Scotland," the author found that he was longing for Scotland more than ever, that he had not lingered in the highlands and the lowlands, and in this way failed to be able to write of many charming places. So he went to Scotland again and returned the second time with a wealth of material which he gathered from the bygone and the back-water, which the reader will find as fascinating as his former books, especially what he writes about the Prince Charles country.

While Mr. Morton does not call this a guide for tourists, if one should add to his selections of reading material he will find it indispensable.

"When January winds were blowing To Kirkcubright I took my way. The Kirkcubright night did me enfold Till earliest day."

The author wrote of the maul-piece of the inn—and it is there today—and while not his best rhyme, but interesting. (Dodd, Mead & Co., New York.)

THE UNKNOWN BRAHMS.

Brahms: His Life, Character and Works. By Robert Haven Schaufel, author of "The Musical Amateur," "Beethoven," "The Man Who Freed Music." In the foreword the author says, "Why another life of Brahms? He answers his own question among which is that while many books have been written very few are available in English."

The frontispiece presents an unpublished picture of Brahms with Frau Henriette Henz, in which Frau Ribarz, Henz, writes: "I find Brahms' expression here incredibly good. His glance is so clear, and one seems actually to see the light of his eyes." The volume is divided into several interesting parts: I. In Search of the Unknown Brahms; II. The Known Brahms; III. The Unknown Brahms; IV. The Music and the Brahms of today.

"As a maker of songs, the equal of Schubert; as a composer of chamber music, loved like Beethoven; as a modern symphonist, unequalled in popularity, Johannes Brahms, the man and the artist, presents more subtle human problems than perhaps any other great musician."

The biography of Brahms, as told by Schaufel, is said by Lawrence Gilman "to be the fairest and most balanced estimate of Brahms as man and artist that has yet appeared in any language." While the author is a native of America he is no stranger to England where he has received distinction as a sculptor and a tennis player. He has also written several volumes of essays that have received favorable comment. Readers of Beethoven (two volumes), "The Man Who Freed Music," have read much praise, and then there are lighter books that have met with approval. But at this time the story of the great composer's life will be appreciated by its many readers the country over, and the author will also receive his share of appreciation for his splendid portrayal of the subject. (Dodd, Mead & Co., New York.)

FICTION.

Robbery at Portage Bend. By T. Lund who, as one of them, writes a story of the Royal Northwest Mounted police. It is full of exciting adventures. The author has written several gripping tales of this far-away country. (Claude Kendall, publisher, New York.)

Suspicion. By Dominique Dunois. The author has published six books that were highly praised and won her a considerable following in France. When her novel, Georgette Garou, published in America, was awarded the noted Femina-Vie Heureuse prize. This called her to the attention of the international reading public and enthusiastic comments in the world press accorded her a place among the great living writers of our time. Mme. Dunois is a native of Indre et Loire province in France. She has been interested in the other arts, is an accomplished musician and a painter in water colors. She lives in the provinces and has seldom been in Paris. Suspicion is the fourth of her novels to be published in America following The Naval Mother, A Lover Returns and The Second Son.

Death in the Forest. By Neville Brand. "What's that? No, I am afraid I can't manage today. I've got my nephew and his wife coming to stay with me—young Harry Baradine. Yes, he's over here on the way. I want to see something of Baradine."

The young nephew and his wife go to Central America to visit his uncle where he becomes involved in several adventures in which he has more than one narrow escape. The descriptions of the locality in which the story is laid is well told. (Claude Kendall, Inc., New York City.)

MISCELLANEOUS BOOKS.
Slavery in Mississippi. By Charles S. Sydnor, professor of history University of Mississippi. The study of slavery days in the state of Mississippi is of general interest to all students and research workers. So, when a writer of the prominence as Mr. Sydnor devotes time and energy in contributing more than 200 pages of information on this subject there will, of course, be many interested readers.

The author describes in every detail the daily life of the slaves—how they lived, the work they did and the system used in managing a large plantation. It was a big undertaking for it covered food, clothing and houses in which to live from day to day of their birth until old age. The reader will, of course, understand these large slave owners on the Mississippi river had many slaves who not only had to be cared for, but had to be trained and controlled like the children in the "big house."

The book also tells of the slave trade, how it was conducted, whether profitable to the owner or to the state—the author also traces the rise and decline of the Colonization Society in Mississippi, its work and whether or not it was of much benefit. This detailed account of slavery in Mississippi during those years with the facts and figures will be of interest especially for reference. (D. Appleton-Century Co., New York.)

Experimental Optics. A series of simple and brilliant experiments with light and how to make all kinds of optical instruments. By A. Frederick Collins. Interesting and instructive illustrations add to the study of the book. It is written by a man who is widely known for his explanations of science to the layman. Each chapter is on a different subject and each subject is explained so clearly that the reader or the student will have no difficulty in understanding Mr. Collins' experiments. (Appleton's Book, New York.)

Sales Management Today. By Dr. J. Russell Doubman, associate professor of merchandising Wharton School of Commerce, University of Pennsylvania. Edited by William M. Schuyler. This is a most interesting book on the practice of selling today. (Sears Publishing House, New York.)

American County Government. By Arthur W. Bromage, associate professor political science, University of Michigan. This book tells the history of the present condition of county government and maps out a plan, the author thinks, which will modernize it. All students of political science and while traveling miles and miles in Pullmans over the desert, prairie, etc., there are still far-away places where the whistle of the locomotive, the telephone or the radio has never been heard—"where trails run out and stop, and where mountain and desert brood in the silence of the Seventh day."

JUNIOR BOOKS.

Barrier Ranch. By Hoffman Birney. The author, like every one else, makes the statement that the old west is no more—this statement may be correct in a way, but now and then, the newspapers through the Associated Press, tell a different story, and while travelers ride miles and miles in Pullmans over the desert, prairie, etc., there are still far-away places where the whistle of the locomotive, the telephone or the radio has never been heard—"where trails run out and stop, and where mountain and desert brood in the silence of the Seventh day."

The story woven around Lash Hoard, cowboy, is interesting from the first page to the last. In the introduction the author paves the way for the night and the morning, bringing the story to the reader's attention in the west by making the comparison between the old and the new. The close of the thrilling story ends like all stories should end—the passing of the night and the morning, bringing the story to the reader's attention in the west by making the comparison between the old and the new. (Penn Publishing Co., Philadelphia.)

THE COWBOY FROM ALAMOS.

By Charles H. Snow. Author of "The Sheriff of Chispa Loma." Here's another story that will please boy and girl lovers of western stories for it is an author who "didn't know the west was so full of action that there was no sleeping until the end, and the same thing has happened again for young readers: 'Who was Jean Baradine, cow puncher? When did he come from? Then there was Jean Baradine, who did not like him at first, who his father told her he was a cowboy, and then she found out that he was a front runner who had been giving everyone trouble on the cattle range, is full of thrills. What could Jean do at the last but make friends with the man who had saved his life. (McRae-Smith Co., Philadelphia.)

CHILDREN'S BOOKS.

Tu'kwil of the Peaceful People. The story of the little Hopi Indian boy, who decided he would, through the courage he thought he should have, inherited from his forefathers, travel alone to the Black Mountains, where the dreaded Navajos lived. On his way there he runs across an injured medicine-man and it was through his comment describes most interestingly the work: "This book serves the double purpose of opening a great bright doorway into the joyous life of the Chinese home, while it also finds a place among the books which teach us the true life of a great people." The illustrations are by Sul Wesley Chan and have a distinct Chinese flavor and, with the numerous Chinese decorations makes it a most attractive volume.

"An autumn wind and a little cool, A little frost and a frozen pool. A heavy frost takes the last green shoot. And the little cricket is dead at the root." (Fleming H. Revell Company, New York.)

THE BOY.
"The boy sees with his eyes, smells with his nose, and hears with his ears."
"Can you think of some other things that cannot see or smell or hear which also have eyes or noses or ears?" (Frederick A. Stokes Company, New York.)

Because it values the enviable position in the play life of those who cherish a taste for good living and have the means to indulge it... because it appreciates that a keen sense of values is invariably the companion of good taste... the Roney Plaza has declined to permit the bright outlook for better times to influence its tariff schedule.

Rates this year at the Roney remain the same, while many physical improvements have been made to enhance the high standards of guest comfort, extraordinary service and brilliant social life which have made it famous.

PHILHARMONIC GROUP WILL PLAY THURSDAY

Georg Lindner To Be in Charge of Concert at Wesley Memorial Church.

The Atlanta Philharmonic orchestra, with Georg Fr. Lindner conducting, will be heard in concert at 8:30 o'clock Thursday night at Wesley Memorial auditorium.

Under the leadership of Mr. Lindner, who is one of the foremost violinists and teachers of the south, the musicians of this organization have made great progress during the last year.

The program opens with Beethoven's Second Symphony, which consists of an Adagio-Allegro movement; a Larghetto movement, sparkling a melody of true beauty; a sparkling Scherzo and a finale of strength and brilliance. Ruth Dabney Smith, gifted violinist, who is concert master of the orchestra, will be soloist in the presentation of Max Bruch's concerto in G minor for violin and orchestra.

The program will close with two numbers by Saint-Saens, the well-known tone poem, Danse Macabre, and Marche Militaire Française from the colorful Suite Algérienne.

1934 Tag Applications Not Being Accepted

The state motor vehicle department announced today that it could not accept applications for 1934 license plates at this time, but urged motorists to make such applications as soon after January 1 as possible.

A statement by Marcus McWhorter, director of the department, said the department until January 1 "cannot accept applications for, nor deliver, 1934 license plates on any motor vehicle that is subject to registration in 1933."

"Under the law any motor vehicle operated prior to midnight of December 31, 1933, must have a 1933 license plate."

The statement said the reduced appropriation for operation of the division in 1934 made the "strictest economy" necessary, and that the usual employment of a number of additional workers would not be possible, to handle the rush to get new 1934 tags during the month of January.

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—(AP)—A better

tone developed in cotton after a somewhat irregular opening today, with March selling at 9.95 to 10.00, on cover, and a little commission house buying attributed to the firmer action of the grain and stock markets. The close was steady at net advances of 8 to 10 points.

The opening was 2 points higher to 2 lower. There was a little buying on the relatively steady showing of Liverpool and the slightly easier tone of the dollar, but this was sold and by a few overnight selling orders from the south and some further scattering liquidation. Demand broadened somewhat after the early opening, and had been absorbed, and the market stiffened up later in the morning in sympathy with the rallies in the wheat and stock markets. December contracts sold up 9.80 to 9.90 in the late trading while May advanced from 10.15 to 10.28 making net gains of 10 to 11 points on active positions. The close was a point or two higher, the top on the spring months, but at the best of the day on other positions.

A rather favorable interpretation of the weekly reviews with reference to general business conditions probably contributed to the steadiness of the later market. While there was a little southern selling here early, offerings from that source were restricted.

The trade was a moderate buyer and there was a scattering demand on the late advance which appeared to be coming partly from Wall Street.

The amount of cotton on shipboard at the end of the week was estimated at 145,000 bales against 179,000 last year.

Liverpool cables reported a quiet, featureless market there, and houses with Liverpool connections seemed to have very few orders. There was a little selling during the early trading through brokers, but this was not operating for Japanese interests.

Reports from the south indicated a continued firm basis and said that the response of farmers to the new cotton week 10-cent loan plan was gradually expanding.

GAINS OF 4 TO 8 POINTS

MADE IN NEW ORLEANS

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 9.—(AP)—Cotton was quiet today and prices were steady. After losing 2 points in early trading values rallied to 10 to 11 points later in the afternoon in sympathy with the stock and wheat. The close was steady at net advances for the day of 6 to 8 points.

The opening was steady with Liverpool cables about as due and sterling higher at 5.16. First trades here showed no change to 1 point down. Later in the first hour the market moved upward on a feeling of slightly with March at 10.02 and May at 10.15 down 2 points from the previous close.

The market rallied in the final hour owing to sharp upturns in stocks and grain and an advance in sterling to 5.17. This caused shorts to cover and prices in the late trading made highs for the day at 10.12 for March and 10.26 for May up to 11 points from the early lows and 8 to 9 points above the previous close. Prices eased off to 2 points from the previous close, March closed at 10.10, up 6 points for the day and May closed at 10.25, up 8 points net.

Porte receipts for 1933 for season 5,070,961; for 1932, 3,554,246; last season 3,495,113. Port stock 4,129,758; last year 4,777,158. Combined stock at New Orleans for 1933, 14,141,341; last year 16,165,341. Spot sales at southern markets 17,792; last year 19,642.

tone developed in cotton after a somewhat irregular opening today, with March selling at 9.95 to 10.00, on cover, and a little commission house buying attributed to the firmer action of the grain and stock markets. The close was steady at net advances of 8 to 10 points.

The opening was 2 points higher to 2 lower. There was a little buying on the relatively steady showing of Liverpool and the slightly easier tone of the dollar, but this was sold and by a few overnight selling orders from the south and some further scattering liquidation. Demand broadened somewhat after the early opening, and had been absorbed, and the market stiffened up later in the morning in sympathy with the rallies in the wheat and stock markets. December contracts sold up 9.80 to 9.90 in the late trading while May advanced from 10.15 to 10.28 making net gains of 10 to 11 points on active positions. The close was a point or two higher, the top on the spring months, but at the best of the day on other positions.

A rather favorable interpretation of the weekly reviews with reference to general business conditions probably contributed to the steadiness of the later market. While there was a little southern selling here early, offerings from that source were restricted.

The trade was a moderate buyer and there was a scattering demand on the late advance which appeared to be coming partly from Wall Street.

The amount of cotton on shipboard at the end of the week was estimated at 145,000 bales against 179,000 last year.

Liverpool cables reported a quiet, featureless market there, and houses with Liverpool connections seemed to have very few orders. There was a little selling during the early trading through brokers, but this was not operating for Japanese interests.

Reports from the south indicated a continued firm basis and said that the response of farmers to the new cotton week 10-cent loan plan was gradually expanding.

GAINS OF 4 TO 8 POINTS

MADE IN NEW ORLEANS

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 9.—(AP)—Cotton was quiet today and prices were steady. After losing 2 points in early trading values rallied to 10 to 11 points later in the afternoon in sympathy with the stock and wheat. The close was steady at net advances for the day of 6 to 8 points.

The opening was steady with Liverpool cables about as due and sterling higher at 5.16. First trades here showed no change to 1 point down. Later in the first hour the market moved upward on a feeling of slightly with March at 10.02 and May at 10.15 down 2 points from the previous close.

The market rallied in the final hour owing to sharp upturns in stocks and grain and an advance in sterling to 5.17. This caused shorts to cover and prices in the late trading made highs for the day at 10.12 for March and 10.26 for May up to 11 points from the early lows and 8 to 9 points above the previous close. Prices eased off to 2 points from the previous close, March closed at 10.10, up 6 points for the day and May closed at 10.25, up 8 points net.

Junior League Marionettes Will Be Shown at Rich's

Beginning Monday and continuing through the two pre-Christmas shopping weeks, Rich's announces a holiday feature which is not only an exciting innovation in Atlanta's Christmas entertainment, but promises to provide thrills galore for grown-ups and youngsters.

This attractive feature is the presentation of the Junior League marionette shows in Rich's Broad street window daily. These dramatizations will be given under the supervision of the Junior League and under the supervision of Mrs. Murdoch Equen.

A loud-speaker installed for the occasion will carry the voices to the street and enable the audience to hear every word of the dialogue on these delightful programs. "Jack and the Beanstalk," the famous fairy tale, will be the subject dramatized for the week of December 11th. "Jack and the Beanstalk" will be shown every day at 3 p. m. The second week of December 18, the performances will be increased to two daily. The morning show at 10 a. m. will be the lovely "Hansel and Gretel" story. The afternoon show at 3 p. m. will revolve about "Red Riding Hood and the bad, bad wolf."

All character parts of the performances will be ably handled by members of the Atlanta Junior League. They read as follows: "Jack and the Beanstalk"—Jack, Mrs. Edward Van Winkle; Jack's mother, Mrs. Wiley Ballard; Buttercup, Mrs. Keith Quarterman; the neighbor, Mrs. Murdoch Equen; the giant, Mrs. Murdoch Equen; the giant's wife, Mrs. Wiley Ballard. "Hansel and Gretel"—Gretel, Mrs. Howard Candler; Hansel, Mrs. Rutherford Ellis and Mrs. Marion Kiser; witch, Mrs. Murdoch Equen; dwarf, Mrs. William Huger; mother, Mrs. William Huger. "Red Riding Hood"—Red Riding Hood, Mrs. Albert Irving; Dame Red Riding Hood, Mrs. John Otley Jr.; Father Red Riding Hood, Mrs. Robert Pagan; dog, Mrs. George Weyman; grandmother, Mrs. John Otley Jr.; wolf, Mrs. Marion Kiser.

Pallo Alto Yule Trees Disappear in Night

PALE ALTO, Cal., Dec. 9.—(AP) Proudly the Palo Alto Chamber of Commerce pointed yesterday to 150 little Christmas trees, neatly planted along the town's main street in Englewood holes for the holiday season. This morning astonished merchants found them all gone. The police are really riled.

MRS W. J. HAYS WINS FIFTH JINGLE PRIZE

By BARBARA BAKER.
Mrs. W. J. Hays, 292 Ninth street, lends a sparkle to the jingle box today and wins the fifth string of colored lights to brighten the tree she has promised to light. The jingle contest, in connection with the Light the Living Trees tradition, sponsored by the Camp Fire Girls and The Constitution, offers a daily opportunity for 15 more persons to win sets of Christmas tree lights. Write a four-line jingle accompanied by the living tree you agree to light a living tree this Christmas and send it to the jingle editor.

Winners of the daily prizes will receive these lights on the fourth floor of The Constitution from the jingle editor.

Mrs. Hays' jingle follows: "Take, take, little tree, many colors sparkling bright; send your beams both far and near, spreading joy and Christmas cheer."

Mrs. Rose Mae Ashby, Atlanta psychologist, will deliver a lecture on spiritual and mental healing at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon in the mahogany room of the Ansley hotel. The public is invited to attend.

C. H. McHenry, who lives near Hampton, was acquitted Saturday by United States Commissioner E. S. Griffith on a charge of conspiring to kidnap Mrs. J. T. Ratliff, a neighbor and a government witness. Mrs. Ratliff had testified about the ownership of a still near-by.

Dr. W. S. Martin, well-known song writer and Bible teacher, has returned to Atlanta for the holidays after spending three months in the west engaged in Bible conference work. Dr. Martin leaves again December 26 for California to fill other engagements.

Civilian Club of North Fulton, composed of citizens of Alpharetta, Roswell and surrounding territory, was presented with a charter at a meeting Thursday night. Dr. Earl Quillian, international trustee, and H. R. Adams, of the Decatur Civilian Club, were speakers.

Oakland City Lodge No. 373, F. & A. M., will hold its communication and election of officers Monday night. After the election the new officers will be installed by Past Grand Master Raymond Daniel, assisted by Deputy Grand Master E. D. Thomas.

Gratitude to those who aided in the annual poppy day sales and made it possible to raise $2,349.84 in Atlanta and environs was expressed Saturday at a letter from R. A. Garner, chairman; Mrs. Arthur H. Hazard, Mrs. George L. Baker and Mrs. Fred Scheer, on behalf of the American Legion and auxiliary.

Routine matters are slated to occupy the attention of the Atlanta board of education at its regular monthly meeting, to be held at 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, at the city hall.

Dr. Lewis M. Gaines, for 25 years a practicing physician in Atlanta, was elected president of the staff of Emory University hospital for the ensuing year at a staff meeting Friday night. Dr. Lon Grove was elected vice president, and Dr. J. D. Martin was elected secretary. Dr. Gaines succeeds Dr. George Bachmann, head of the department of physiology at Emory University.

Atlanta Lodge No. 59, F. & A. M., will hold its communication and elect and install officers for the coming year Thursday night. The lodge was constituted in 1846 and has held meetings regularly since that time, numbering among its members some of Atlanta's pioneer citizens.

Atlanta Young Judahs will meet at the Jewish Educational Alliance this afternoon to select representatives to attend the annual Young Judah conference at Birmingham, Ala., December 24 and 25. A debate on the subject, "Resolved, That an Economic Boycott Rather Than the Re-establishment of Palestine Is the Solution to the Gorman Situation," American basketball team will play the S. I. team at 7:30 o'clock Sunday night, the winner to go to Birmingham as the council's representative.

American Vocational Association Saturday re-elected Ray Pife, of Columbus, Ohio, state supervisor of agricultural education, as president. Vice presidents named included Thomas H. Quigley, of Atlanta, and Paul Chapman, of Athens.

Rev. Jessie D. Booth, the pastor, will preach at both services of the McKendree Methodist church today. Dr. R. L. Russell, presiding elder of the Atlanta district, will hold communion at 7:30 o'clock tonight.

Mass memorial meeting will be held at the Ahavath Achim synagogue at 3 o'clock this afternoon, in remembrance of Rabbi Israel Meir, known as the Chofetz Chaim, of Poland, and Rabbi Moses Mordecai Epstein, of Palestine. Tobias Harry H. Epstein, Tobias Gieffen and A. M. Karpel will speak.

Georgia members of the crushed stone, sand and gravel and slag industries will meet here on December 12, according to an announcement Saturday by the Atlanta Convention and Tourist Bureau. A Georgia district committee for the administration of the codes of fair competition for the industries will be formed. The Ansley hotel is the meeting place.

Professor P. W. Fattif, curator of the Emory University museum, who was accidentally bitten by a copperhead snake Friday, was reported improving Saturday. The professor has often forced insects and reptiles to bite him to prove them not poisonous.

Routine matters are slated to oc-

ous. He was given anti-venom treatment for the flamebreath's bite. He resides at 11 Andrew circle.

Members of the Tenth Ward Civic League Saturday were urged to attend the regular meeting of that body to be held beginning at 7:30 o'clock Monday night at the Capitol View Masonic temple, Stewart and Dill avenues.

Christmas holidays will begin Friday for 50,000 Atlanta school youngsters. Their holiday period will begin their holiday period December 21, it was announced Saturday. Both systems will resume studies January 2, according to present plans.

Fire in trash in a freight car on the Southern railway tracks at Magnolia street Saturday afternoon attracted three fire companies, though no damage was done to the car. Firemen were called because of sparks from a switch engine.

COCA-COLA BUYS $500,000 SCRIP

agreed to post $500,000 with the First National bank and the Trust Company of Georgia, as it is needed to absorb the scrip.

Gilliam explained that the $500,000 was the nearest round figure to the amount of the fi. fa. sale. He said there would be enough money to meet all pay rolls of non-school employees and that the 30 per cent interest on the scrip would be approximately the same figure they would have received under the fi. fa. sale. This amount will pay salaries of school employees through December 15, according to estimates.

Sutton, Gilliam Elated.
Willis A. Sutton, superintendent of schools, issued a statement praising the Coca-Cola Company, and Gilliam also issued a statement commending the company and explaining the operation of the agreement.

Text of Gilliam's statement follows: "Confronted with the necessity of raising money for December pay rolls through the sale of tax fi. fa., which would have worked a hardship on thousands of Atlanta citizens, I am happy to be able to announce that I have today completed arrangements for securing the necessary pay roll funds without resorting to such a drastic alternative, at the expense of such a large portion of our taxpayers."

"Through the generosity of the Coca-Cola Company, there will be made available funds with which to pay all non-school employees of the city. Schools will receive 30 per cent of the amount available to apply on December salaries."

"The Coca-Cola Company will deposit funds up to $500,000 in the First National bank and the Trust Company of Georgia, against which funds the city will issue scrip. At either of these institutions, pay roll scrip properly drawn and indorsed will be cashed, without discount, for any city employee. This applies only to this particular issue of scrip and does not apply to any previous issue."

"Here is what this generous act of this public-spirited Atlanta institution has made possible: "I. It has saved the city from the ity values a complex one, pointing out with references to building that materials have advanced around 40 per cent while wages have gone up "nothing like that much."

"It is much simpler for merchants to advance their prices than for laborers to have their wages advanced. I have often felt that we bankers and other employees of the city, by our own salaries and paid them out of the earnings of other folks," he said, adding, "I have faith in what the peanut is trying to do."

Straightening out the economic situation, Mr. Peabody told newspapermen, must be carried out by an informed man. "No man," he declared, "has come to face such a complicated situation as the present with as much preparedness from as many angles as Mr. Roosevelt. I don't mean one group of experiments is always the same thing that would have been tried by somebody else in the same position but a man of preparedness in authority is up to know more about what he is doing than someone of less preparedness in other circumstances. Mr. Roosevelt has made as few mistakes as any man I've ever heard of."

The world, he said, today is watching four interesting figures, Stalin, Mussolini, Hitler and Roosevelt.

Contrast Is Drawn.
"I cannot refrain," Mr. Peabody added, "from contrasting the record of the three democratic presidents of the past 70 years with the records of Messrs. Harding, Coolidge and Hoover and, therefore, I think, there must be a foundation for faith in a country that went through those 12 years of economic madness."

"I call myself a radical," he added, "because I want to get to the root of political evils."

The retired banker predicted "real" recovery would come sooner in the south than elsewhere because "there is less rebelling to do, because of its climate and facility to raise food stuffs most of the year and partly because I have faith that the educational progress of the last thirty years in the Anglo-Saxon south will bear fruit under the leadership we now have."

He added that one of the serious problems of the depression has been its effect on the educational systems and expressed belief the "sentiment of the people now is overwhelmingly one of faith and hope."

Mr. Peabody said he planned to spend several days here in connection with educational activities in which he is interested and go from here to New Orleans, continuing on the west coast for a rest. His home is in Saratoga Springs, N. Y., although he was born in Columbus, Georgia.

Congressional Record Changes Its Charges

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—(AP)—Uncle Sam, publisher, has had to change the subscription rates for his daily, The Congressional Record. The "lame duck" amendment to the constitution eliminated short sessions of congress and provided for only one session a year. The old subscription rate was $8 for the long session and $4 for the short session. The new rate has been set at $15.50 a month, but The Record has been growing constantly in size.

"The act of the Coca-Cola Company will enable us to issue scrip redeemable in cash at face value. The scrip, in so far as its recipients are concerned, will be the same as a check which they can immediately cash at either of the two banks named above."

"The city draws 7 per cent interest on past due taxes. If we had sold the fi. fa., we would have lost not only the 7 per cent interest up to the time of the eventual collection of the past due taxes, but we also would have lost the 3 per cent interest on these tax obligations. The Coca-Cola Company will accept from the city only 2 per cent for the use of the money which it is providing both to save the taxpayers and to pay the employees. We have paid 6 per cent interest on past issues of scrip. Hence it is readily apparent that the city will save considerable money by this action of the Coca-Cola Company."

"The necessary ordinance will be introduced at a meeting of council to be called early next week, and the scrip for all salaries will be ready on December 20, the regular pay day."

Superintendent Sutton said: "Speaking on behalf of the Atlanta teachers and other employees of the city schools, I wish to express my appreciation of the splendid co-operation of the Coca-Cola Company in making funds available for the city and its pay roll obligations without resorting to the sale of tax executions. I am sure that all of the school employees share in this feeling of appreciation and also appreciate the interest and work of city officials in this matter."

L. S. U. Turns Back Tennessee, 7-0, To Finish Unbeaten; Tech High Rallies To Beat Lanier and Win State Title

FEATHERS HURT, IS CARRIED OFF FIELD AT HALF

Vol's Great Halfback Unable To Finish His Last Game for School.

By Jimmy Jones.

BATON ROUGE, La., Dec. 9.—Calmly Major Bob Neyland sat on the bench here today and watched his University of Tennessee football team conclude the poorest season it has ever seen under his eight-year coaching regime by losing to L. S. U.'s rugged Tiger, 7 to 0.

A heavier and more spirited line rolled the lighter men in the orange jerseys back across the emerald turf in this, the south's farewell football for the year which 15,000 witnessed. There was an unfortunate 5-yard penalty that set the harassed and tiring Tennessee back inside their 10-yard line in the fourth period due to an inadvertent substitution by Neyland and it was the most damaging setback in the 61-yard drive to L. S. U. On third down, big Abe Mickal, who had been running rampant in alternating with Bert Yates on the tail of Biff Jones' famous power play, smashed the ball across and then kicked the extra point.

It decided the final game of the second successful season the Bayou Tigers have enjoyed under Jones' coaching and incidentally concluded the worst Tennessee has had under the triumvirate of Neyland, Parker and Britton.

SPIRIT DEPARTS

There was so much power in the drives of Yates and Mickal off tackle and through the heart of the line that the penalty wouldn't have mattered a great deal but for the time at which it came. The Tigers were clearly the superior of the teams with Beattie Feathers, Tennessee's great back, limping through a first half and then retiring for good.

When Feathers was carried off the field after catching a pass from Brackett ending the first half, the soul of Tennessee had departed. A little later in the third period, the brains of Tennessee's line departed when Sheriff Maples was knocked out.

The burly L. S. U. line and the hard-driving Yates and Mickal made too strong a combination, the Tigers amassing 16 first downs to 3.

Major Neyland was a victim of a misunderstanding in making the substitution that cost the Vols 5 precious yards on that 61-yard scoring drive.

He thought that Mickal had gone out of bounds in making a first down on the far side of the field at the Tennessee 15-yard line and took advantage of what he thought would be a time out to substitute. The officials decreed that Mickal had gone down two yards from the boundary and the consequently time was not out, leaving the 5-yard toll from the poor Vols as a result.

The Vols hung on gamely for three punches from the L. S. U. power play, which was now starring Mickal, and then fell back before that final 4-yard thrust.

HUSKY'S SHOUTS

Major Neyland then realized it was all over but the shouting. He Long's shouting of which he had plenty since L. S. U. did not lose a game. The senator will enter joint suit for the title with Alabama, he announced previously, in event of a L. S. U. win.

Today's loss by Tennessee set something of a record in itself, in that it was Neyland's third of the year, the Vols having previously bowed to Duke 10-2 and to Alabama 12-0. In eight years under Neyland Tennessee has lost but four games.

Neyland took it all in very fine spirit, that of a real sportsman. "We were outwitted," he said. "He was sorry about the substitution, of course, and many spectators and visiting coaches thought Mickal was out of bounds, too."

There was a touch of genuine pathos in Beattie Feathers' farewell to arms. The great halfback was game to the end. He really would not have played at all but insisted.

Tennessee never threatened. Tobey Palmer, sophomore back, got away twice from fake punt plays for good gains, one of which was called back. Brackett played well at quarter.

Major Biff Jones, the quiet, polished army officer, really did the good in a big way down here. Six of his second team and seven of his first are sophomores. So the Tigers should be more of a power next year. Big Jack Torrance at tackle and Kent, the All-Southern center, played fine games on the Tiger line.

Duke Announces Football Schedule

DURHAM, N. C., Dec. 9.—(AP)—A schedule of nine games for the Duke University football team of 1934 was announced today by Wallace Wade, athletic director.

One new foe, Clemson College, is listed, while two teams played last year, Kentucky and Maryland, will not be met.

The schedule: September 29—V. M. I. at Lexington; October 6—Clemson at Durham; October 13—Georgia Tech at Durham; October 20—Duke at Durham; October 27—Tennessee at Knoxville; November 3—Alabama at Birmingham; November 10—Wake Forest at Durham; November 17—North Carolina at Chapel Hill; November 24—North Carolina State at Durham.

Hero of Smithies Rams Lanier Line

Bill Ellis, hero of Tech High's 7-6 victory over Lanier at Ponce de Leon Saturday afternoon, is shown ramming the Lanier line for a seven-yard gain late in the third period. This was just before Tech High started its touchdown drive on which Jack Newlands scored. Ellis kicked the extra point to beat the Poets and give the Smithies the state championship.

Uncle Robby Tells the News—Two Big Bucks and a Turkey!

"Dover Hall. Yes, mam, Dover Hall. Just outside Brunswick. The operator there, ALL Brunswick operators know about Dover Hall."

"Just a minute, then. Brunswick? Dover Hall, please."

"Dover Hall?"

"Yes, this is Dover Hall. Who do you want?" (They have less grammar and more fun at Dover Hall.)

"Wilbert Robinson, Atlanta is calling Mr. Robinson."

"Robby, huh? Wait a minute. Go to the door there and holler for Robby. Just a minute, lady. Just a minute."

"I can wait three minutes. Can you get him in three minutes?"

"Yes, mam. Say, holler for Robby, will you?" (Three minutes pass.)

"HULLO, Hulllo. (The Old Oriole's lungs are still good.) Who is it?"

"It is I, Robby. I mean it's me. What's the news?"

"Say, you just called in time. Hey, get that dog away from that venison there. Get him away, I say. Now, then, what was it? A dog was carrying off a haunch of venison. Oh, yes; well, we just got in. Just as you called we got in. We got two big bucks and a big tom turkey."

"I know, Robby, but what about some news?"

"Didn't I just tell you. Hey, there's that dog again. Why don't somebody hang that venison up in the air? I'm just telling you. Two bucks and a big turkey. If that ain't news, what is?"

"But what about some baseball news?"

"Oh, baseball. Say, you know what? We had a great time at the Galveston meeting. I haven't seen you since then, have I? Say, I must tell you about your boy Jimmy Jones. What a time he had. Say, I rested 10 days after that meeting. We got some good ball players."

"But there is nothing new?"

"Nothing, except the two big bucks and the turkey. We are having a lot of luck. The Colonel is down here. (Reference is to Colonel Tillinghast L'Hommiedieu Huston, the noblest Roman of them all.) The Colonel can still cuss as well as ever. He cusses the deer hunters. But he eats the venison."

"Where's Spencer Abbott?"

"He's in Washington. There isn't any news. Just the two bucks and the turkey. Come on down to Dover Hall. We've got everything ready."

And so that's that, in so far as the baseball situation is concerned.

A FOOTBALL FAN WRITES. I think it will do to publish this letter, with the name of the game deleted. It was part of the mail from those nice people who write, kindly and caustically.

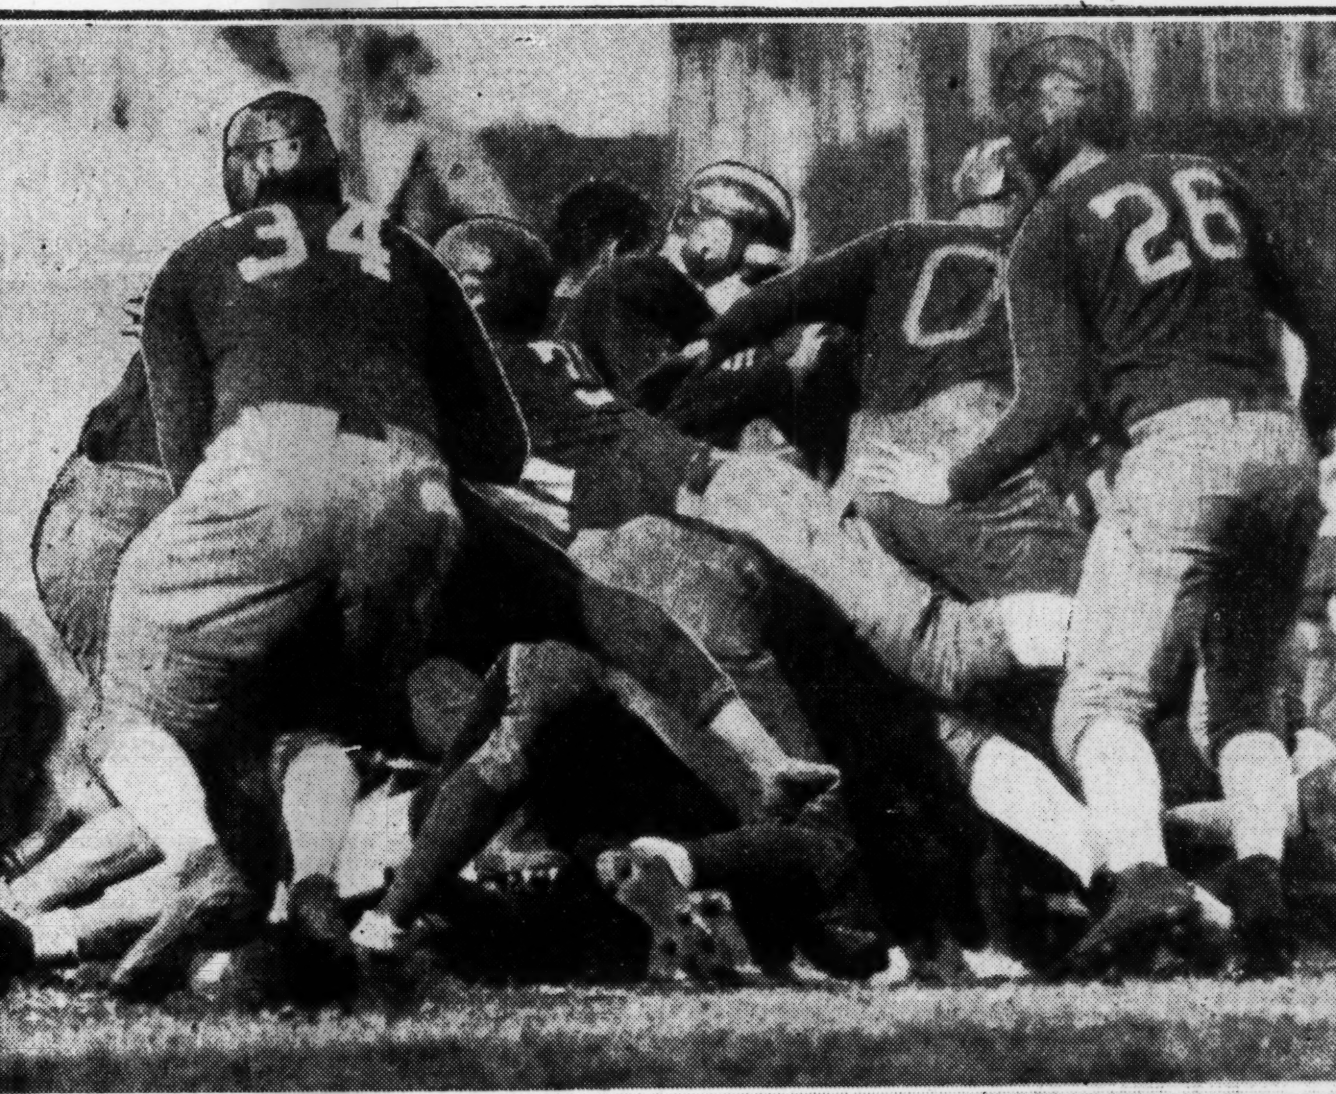

"Please wait a minute before discarding this," he began. "I don't know when I first became a fan of yours. It was back when you were writing for a Nashville paper. Well, anyhow, here's the story I have: He didn't look like the kind of person who habitually pays $2.20 for a football ticket. In fact, he looked as if he'd done some skimping to buy this one. But he had a program.

"His seat and ours were just back of the bench at Grant

SPORTS ATLANTA CONSTITUTION

RALPH MCGILL, Sports Editor.
Grantland Rice - Clarence Nixon - Jimmy Jones - Roy White - Jack Troy - Henry McLemore - Alan J. Gould

ATLANTA, GA., SUNDAY MORNING, DECEMBER 10, 1933.

Howard Haire, "the working man's friend," councilman-elect from the ninth ward and the very able classified ad manager of The Constitution, has been chosen as a member of the Atlanta boxing commission for the next year, it was learned last night. The official announcement is expected within the next few days. The committee will be made up of John A. White, W. T. Knight and Haire.

Howard Haire Named On Boxing Commission

Popular Member of Constitution Joins John White and W. T. Knight on Atlanta Board.

By Ralph McGill.

Howard Haire, "the working man's friend," councilman-elect from the ninth ward and the very able classified ad manager of The Constitution, has been chosen as a member of the Atlanta boxing commission for the next year, it was learned last night. The official announcement is expected within the next few days. The committee will be made up of John A. White, W. T. Knight and Haire.

Haire has always been interested in wrestling and boxing, especially boxing. The writer knows by experience. Never a week passes but that Howard comes into the sports office with an appealing look in his eye. It means he wants tickets to the match.

A GOOD CHOICE. A better man could not have been appointed. Haire is personally popular. His clean, above-board race, which saw him elected in the ninth ward, was his first political appearance. He won on his merits.

The Atlanta commission for the past year, under the able leadership of John A. White, has done much for sport in Atlanta. As much may be expected from the new commission.

The commission has had one steady, reliable producer for four years in Henry Weber, matchmaker for wrestling shows at the auditorium and baseball park. No city in the south has a promoter who rates as high as Weber. He has made himself a real citizen of Atlanta. He has given his services to every civic move of a charitable nature. He came at a time when the commission advised him that wrestling could not be established in Atlanta.

Since that time he has won a following which, in the end, won the matches promoted by Henry Weber. His shows are attended regularly by Governor Eugene Talmadge, Mayor James L. Key and other well-known citizens. Ladies have found that his matches may be seen without embarrassment. He has developed a regular clientele.

The new commission will go into office early in January. And this is a salute to a fine fellow and an able official—Howard Haire, the new commissioner.

EARNED SUCCESS. Weber's success, won through early losses but a persistent presentation of talent, has inspired others to try and cut in on the success which he and Weber has established. But Weber keeps going. He came at a time when the commission advised him that wrestling could not be established in Atlanta.

JACK NEWLANDS AND BILL ELLIS

OWN POETS, 7-6

Perry's Great Punting Features Battle; Large Crowd Sees Game.

By Roy White.

Tech High won the Georgia prep school football championship with a 7-0 victory over Lanier High, of Macon, Saturday afternoon at Ponce de Leon park before a half-frozen crowd of some 6,500 spectators. It was Tech High's first state title since the 1928 season when Gordon Institute was beaten at Ponce de Leon.

Lanier was undefeated and favored to beat Tech High, but the Smithies fought their best battle of the season, which included 12 games, and added another upset to the history-making turbulent year of 1933. Tech High won eight and lost four games this season.

It was Lanier's third successive championship battle and each time they have failed against opposition from Atlanta's Big Three. G. M. A. and Lanier played a scoreless tie in 1931 but G. M. A. played an ineligible player and released their title claim in favor of Lanier. Boys' High defeated the Poets, 20 to 12, last year and now Tech High takes out a 7-0-6 win.

THEY DID IT. Big Jack Newlands and Bill Ellis were directly responsible for Tech High's victory. Newlands rammed the Lanier line for a 4-yard gain and a touchdown early in the fourth quarter and Ellis, with Norman Perry holding the ball, kicked the extra point from placement.

It was one of the few extra points that Tech High has made this year and fully atoned for all those misses, as the state championship hung on the lone point. The score, incidentally, was a reverse of one in which Lanier defeated Tech High in an earlier game this season.

George Edwards, the speedy Lanier halfback, gave the Poets a 6-0 lead early in the second quarter when he raced 28 yards around left end behind line interference to score a touchdown. He crossed the line standing up and no Tech player touched him.

Norman Perry's punting and his return of several kicks was outstanding. With 12 punts he averaged over 40 yards and one went out of bounds on Lanier's 1-yard line late in the third quarter. Three others went well over 50 yards and he outpunted Edwards and Ed Jones, of Lanier, by some 6 yards per boot.

SMITHIES OUTPLAYED. Tech High was clearly outplayed during the first half. The Smithies gained only two first downs and threatened to score only once during the half when the ball was driven to Lanier's 8-yard line. The Poet line rallied and staved off a touchdown.

Coaches Tolbert, Alexander and Dows evidently gave the Smithies a pep talk during the intermission, for both their line and backfield play seemed to improve 100 per cent in the second half.

Late in the third quarter Perry punted out of bounds on Lanier's 1-yard line. The Poets tried an end run from a punt formation but Tech High's line was alert, and Edwards barely got the ball into the end zone. Edwards was rushed on his punt and it sailed 15 yards out of bounds and Tech High was given its second opportunity to score but a punt lost the chance for good. He punted 50 yards out of danger for Lanier.

The Smithies were not through and refused to give up even though the game was fast coming to an end. After an exchange of punts Tech High started their championship drive from the 40-yard line. Schutte passed 23 yards to Coyle as the starter.

Best attacks on the field. He kicked off balance and crashed through the center for 4 yards and a touchdown. Ellis' placement finished the story.

The fans were treated to one of the greatest line exhibitions that has been seen here this season. The run-back attack overpowered the Smithies except for Edwards' 28-yard sprint and he was given perfect blocking that required four players to block out the Smithie end and tackle while on his jump.

Lanier took advantage of its only scoring threat and Tech High made good on one of its two real offensive jaunts.

Lanier made five first downs in the first half against two Tech High, and the Smithies made five in the second half against two for the Poets, to even the gains for the afternoon.

Berryman Hinson, All-Southern per tackle, who has not scrambled since November 24 played one of the best games on the field. He kicked off twice over the goal and covered Perry's punts usually well.

Twice Hinson tackled Edwards in his tracks and another time he slowed the Poet back up so that the return was negligible. On defense few plays got by his side of the line.

He was not alone in the Smithie stardom as Pittman and Cronie were particularly good in covering Perry's punts. In fact the entire Tech High line and Edwards in the backfield were outstanding for the Poets.

Lanier kicked off. Smith kicked 35 yards to Scutte, who returned to Tech's 35-yard line. Two line plays failed and Perry punted 45 yards to Edwards, who returned to Lanier's.

TWO NOW TIED IN MIAMI PLAY

CORAL GABLES, Fla., Dec. 9.—(UP)—Johnny Revolta, youthful pro, of Menominee, Mich., and Ralph Guidahl, of St. Louis, runner-up in this year's U. S. open championship, tied for the lead with 143's today when the Miami Biltmore $10,000 open golf tournament passed the halfway mark.

Guidahl toured the course in 72 and then was knotted for the lead later in the afternoon when Revolta completed the 18-hole round with a par 71. A year ago at this same point Revolta led the field by a single stroke.

PERFECT CARD. Willie MacFarlane, the Tuckahoe, N. Y., professional, took an early lead as he turned in a 77 but this, added to his sensational 67 yesterday, only was good enough to place him in second place with an aggregate of 144.

A four-way tie existed for third place as Paul Runyan, White Plains, Gene Sarazen, Coral Gables, Fla., Al Watrous, Detroit, and Tommy Armour, Chicago, completed play with a total of 145.

Denny Shute of Coral Gables, the British open titleholder, had a bad day and turned in a 77 to place him below the leaders with a total of 148. Shute yesterday shot a 71 that put him in a four-way tie for the first round leadership.

Johnny Goodman, U. S. open champion, slumped and added a 79 to his 71 of yesterday.

Guidahl turned in a sparkling 72 today, one over par. He went out in par figures and then missed out as he came home one over at 37.

Revolta's putting enabled him to turn in a perfect card. He had eight one-putt greens and on the 18th he sunk a six-footer to give him an inward total of par 36.

MacFarlane, who smashed the course record yesterday with a 67, was off on his putting game today. He went out in 35 and back in 39, missing four-footers on the eighth and ninth holes.

Sarazen, after a shaky start, came back strong and carded a 73 that left him in a tie for third position.

On the second and third greens he took three putts, but held a 10-footer for a birdie three on the fifth. On the ninth he again took three putts, thus giving him an outward total of 37, two over par. But an eight-foot putt for a birdie 4 on the 18th helped him come back in par 36.

The tournament, for which $25,000 will go to the winner, will end tomorrow with 36 holes of golf.

The leaders included: Gene Sarazen, Coral Gables, Fla. 72-73—145; Denny Shute, Coral Gables, Fla. 71-72—143; Al Watrous, Detroit, Mich. 72-73—145; Mike Brady, Coral Gables, Fla. 72-73—145; Fred McManis, Charlotte, N. C. 72-73—145.

Harrison Named Ansley Park Head

N. C. Harrison was named president of the Ansley Park golf club at the annual meeting and election of officers Saturday at the club. Harrison succeeds Dr. Dan Sage, who has served as president for the past three years.

Edgar Neely was elected vice-president and one board director will select a secretary-treasurer in the near future.

Ed Merritt was elected for a two-year term to succeed him on the board of directors. Charlie Strong was selected for a two-year term also. Dr. Perin Nicolson and J. R. Jones are other members of the board.

Three Dixie Stars Play in North-South

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—(AP)—Three players who have agreed to play on the south team are George Barclay, of South Carolina. All-Southern conference guard; Stanley Bach, University of Kentucky, a halfback, and Bill Phillips, of Auburn, also a halfback.

The players will report to Stumpy Thomson, former Georgia Tech back, who will handle the southern team, on December 14 for practice. Jack McBride, former Syracuse star, will coach the northerners.

TROJANS RALLY AND WIN, 13-7

By Brian Bell.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 9.—(AP)—Southern California came from behind today to defeat Washington, 13 to 7, and go into a tie with Stanford and Oregon for the football championship of the Pacific Coast conference.

The final game of the season left the leaders deadlocked, each with four victories and one defeat. Some 35,000 spectators saw the season's end.

The Trojans won the game in the third period when the elusive Cotton Warburton scored two touchdowns, cashing in on mistakes of the Huskies. The visitors had stepped out in front on a touchdown in the second period, a pass play from Walter Hansen to Bill Smith netting 59 yards.

Jimmy Phelan's players led, 7-0, at the half.

The scoring chance was lost temporarily when Paul Sullosky fumbled on the goal line and the Trojans took the ball a foot from scoring territory.

Clemens kicked out, but Jay Hornbeck lugged the ball back to the 15-yard line. This drive finally wound up on the 3-yard line, a fourth down pass from a fake kick formation landing the ball in the end zone.

With the ball on the Huskies' 41-yard line, Hansen passed to Smith, who eluded the Trojan defensive backs and ran 39 yards for a touchdown and kicked the extra point from placement.

A poor punt gave the Trojans the ball on Washington's 34-yard line early in the third period, and with Warburton carrying the ball it was moved to the 9-yard line. A fourth down pass was intercepted by Hansen.

Washington was penalized 5 yards for holding on the play and Southern California took the ball on the 4-yard line. On the third play Warburton went over the goal line.

Feathers, Crawford and Hupke Named on Players' All-America

BUCKLER, LUND AND WARBURTON REST OF BACKS

Captains All Over Nation Select Best Players During Season.

By William Ritt,

Central Press Sports Editor.
Here is the All-American football team for 1933, as picked by the players themselves:
ENDS—Skidany, Pittsburgh; Ted Petoskey, Michigan.
TACKLES—Fred Crawford, Duke; Charles Ceppi, Princeton.
GUARDS—Bill Corbus, Stanford; Tom Hupke, Alabama.
CENTER—Charles Bernard, Michigan.
QUARTER—Irving Warburton, Southern California U.
HALF—Beattie Feathers, Tennessee; Jack Buckler, Army.
FULL—Frank Lund, Minnesota.

Believing that the players, themselves, are best fitted to judge the caliber of the teammates and opponents The Constitution, through the Central Press Association, has polled the captains of all major eleven to determine their choice for an all-star football lineup.

Since it is manifestly impossible to acquire the vote of every varsity player only the captains were requested to send in their choices. In several instances where a major team has no captain the coach was asked to substitute his choice.

Each captain was asked to name the players with whom he played against or with whom, in his opinion, merited All-American mention.

The result is an All-American aggregation which compares favorably with any that could be selected by any staff of football experts, coaches or officials.

LEADING WINGMAN.

At the end the captains have chosen the two wingmen who were outstanding throughout the season—Skidany, of Pittsburgh, and Petoskey, of Michigan. The brilliant performances in each game of these two men, and their great ability to gain recognition as the most powerful tackle of the season. A fitting mate is Ceppi, of Princeton, who was a stone wall in the Tiger line.

At guard the captains have placed Corbus, of Stanford, who was outstanding at his position, and Hupke, of Alabama, the other guard, turned in another great season and made the "Bama line one of the most formidable in the south."

BERNARD, CENTER.

At center is Bernard, of Michigan, whose choice was a foregone conclusion. There just wasn't any other player who rated with this great Wolverine throughout the year.

At quarterback we find the coast's prize pigskin product of the season—Warburton, of Southern California, who, by midseason, had proven himself the pick of the signal callers and added to his prestige in the closing games.

At halfback is Army's aggressive, speedy Buckler and the all-but-undisputed Feathers of Tennessee. They would win a place on any football team.

At fullback is Lund, of Minnesota, who, while all seasons, has been getting no better than a tie in four of its games. Without Lund Minnesota's season would have been a bad one.

The Constitution and the Central Press Association here wishes to thank the many team leaders who participated in the poll for their assistance, for the time and effort they so willingly gave in making the 1933 All-American team a truly representative one.

Incidentally, in all but three cases, but one vote separated the players who made the first team from those who are listed as second team choices. The three exceptions were Bernard, of Michigan; Feathers, of Tennessee; and Lund, of Minnesota—these lads scored two or more votes better than their nearest competitors.

Sun Almand Meets Romanoff Tuesday

Sun Almand, a popular favorite with the Bellwood fans, will take on George Romanoff in the feature bout of the Tuesday card of the Bellwood Athletic Club and will test to the limit the ability of Romanoff to put into practice the holds which he demonstrated and explained last Tuesday.

Sully Hartin, unbeaten in four fights at Bellwood, opposes Gentleman John Mauldin in the other one-hour match. Plenty of rough action is in sight.

Young American, who has made himself very popular at Bellwood in two appearances there, faces Bulldog Gust in the 30-minute opener. It will be the Bulldog's first fight at the arena at 738 Bankhead avenue.

Marist, Decatur, Griffin Share in N. G. I. C. Stars

Gainesville Gets Two Places on Constitution's All-Star Selections.

By Roy White.

Selection of an All-North Georgia interscholastic conference football team, with the aid of several of the coaches, was not the difficult task this year that it has been in the past. It was due to the outstanding players in their respective positions that the difficulty was eliminated.

Marist, Decatur and Griffin shared top honors with three each, while Gainesville won the other two places.

Fred Ward, Marist guard; Bob Barrett, Marist end; and Charlie Burgess, Decatur halfback, were unanimous choices on all selections. Carroll Thomas, Decatur end; Bennett, Gainesville tackle; and Smith, Gainesville quarterback, won a majority of the selections and narrowly missed being unanimous choices.

CLOSE CONTENT.
Contesting for the center position was very close between Huck Broyles, Decatur, and Roy Bowen, captain of the Marist team. Broyles was injured early in the Gainesville game, which Decatur lost, and that probably accounted for his being nosed out by the Marist center. Both were good offensively and defensively. Bowen particularly was good at backing up the line.

Thomas, Decatur, and Barrett, Marist, were the end selections, and they were the best in the conference without a doubt. Their selection was easy.

Bennett, Gainesville, and Shivers, Griffin, won the tackle places, with Hunter, Marietta, and Richards, Decatur, getting their share of votes. Bennett was outstanding a season and together with Smith, at quarterback, were the main cogs in Gainesville's upset victory over Decatur.

WARD UNANIMOUS.
Ward, Marist, a unanimous choice, and Gassart, Griffin, were chosen for the guard. Simon, North Fulton, and Carmack, Decatur, also were very much in the voting.

Smith, Gainesville; Burgess, Decatur; Foster, Griffin, and Womack, Decatur, composed the backfield, with Gant, Decatur; Mauldin, Gainesville; McBrayer, Marietta; Anderson, Marist; and Flynn, Decatur, getting many votes.

Play in the N. G. I. C. this year was closer than ever before, and Marist, Gainesville, Decatur, Griffin and Russell all had particularly good teams. Gainesville applied the big upset in winning 6 to 0, from Decatur, while Marist defeated Gainesville 7 to 6, in their closest game, to win the crown.

Members of the N. G. I. C. stepped out of their class as Marist played both G. M. A. and Boys' High, and Decatur played Tech High. Marist held the Cadets scoreless as the Big Three won from all other teams.

SCHEDULES.
In the 1934 schedules now being completed, Marist plays Boys' High, Tech High and G. M. A., and Decatur meets Tech High and probably one of 1933 season was a good one, but prospects for 1934 are even brighter.

The ALL-N. G. I. C. team, as selected by the writers with the aid of the coaches, follows:

ENDS—Thomas, Decatur, and Barrett, Marist.
TACKLES—Bennett, Gainesville, and Shivers, Griffin.
GUARDS—Ward, Marist, and Gassart, Griffin.
CENTER—Bowen, Marist.
QUARTERBACK—Smith, Gainesville.
HALFBACKS—Burgess, Decatur, and Foster, Griffin.
FULLBACK—Womack, Decatur.

Methodist
Only one set of games will be played in the Methodist leagues during this week. Tuesday all tests will rest, and the championship will be taken up again on Thursday. The feature game will be the one between Jackson Hill and Haygood. Both are strong teams and should show to good advantage.

First Church will endeavor to continue its series of undefeated victories at the expense of Trinity. The Grace team, both of which played the game last week and lost in the second extra period, will rest this time, the girls returning on December 21.

SHIELDS RANKED AT TOP AGAIN

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—(AP)—Frank X. Shields, the tall New Yorker who is counted on by Davis cup officials as a stalwart of the 1934 team, today was ranked at the top of the eastern tennis players for the second straight year by the Eastern Lawn Tennis Association.

Although he did not compete in the association's grass courts championships at Rye, Shields was the outstanding American player through the late summer, sweeping through the five big eastern grass court invitational fixtures without a setback.

He was defeated by Jack Crawford in the semi-final round of the national, but partially atoned for that by winning from the Australian in a special series at Chicago a few days later.

NATIONAL TO ACT.

Under the circumstances his ranking was a foregone conclusion and forecasts similar action by the national committee, which rated him only fifth in the national list last year.

Sidney B. Wood, Jr., another Davis cup hopeful for next year, and winner of the eastern title at Rye, strangely enough was relegated to third position in the list. The place behind Shields went to Gregory S. Mangin, national indoor champion. Wood was ranked second in 1932.

Baroness Maud Levi, of New York, supplanted Mrs. Dorothy Burke at the top of the women's list, followed by Mrs. Agnes S. Lamm, of Rye, Mrs. Harry C. Brunie and young Norma Taubele. Mrs. Burke, who did most of her playing abroad last year, was not ranked.

COMMITTEE.

The ranking committee was composed of Powell W. Holbein, Percy L. Kynaston, S. Wallis Merrihew, Hugh P. Shilstone, A. F. von Lhermann and W. M. Fischer. Adele C. Cragin, Mrs. Jeanette C. Hitchcock and Marie Wagner acted as an advisory committee on selecting the leading women players.

The first ten:
Men: Frank X. Shields, Gregory S. Mangin, Sidney B. Wood, Jr., Hugh P. Shilstone, A. F. von Lhermann, Percy L. Kynaston, S. Wallis Merrihew, Hugh P. Shilstone, A. F. von Lhermann, and W. M. Fischer.

Women: Baroness Maud Levi, Mrs. Agnes S. Lamm, Mrs. Harry C. Brunie, Norma Taubele, Mrs. Carolyn S. Hirsch, Carolyn Roberts, Grace Surber, Mrs. William V. Heier, Alice Francis and Lorene Lebowitz.

Juries: Joseph L. Abrams, John B. Behr, William Simpson, Frank J. Berich, Gerard B. Podesta, Alfred L. Jarvis, John H. Hinton, Harold Schein, Maria Freudenheim and Stanley Pitt.

Boys: Lyman W. Grossman, Jr., Henry H. Danks, Jack Fottin, Peter Jack 3rd, Charles T. Mettman, Robert A. Low, Morris Kantorovitz, Joseph Khabak, Joseph Greenberg and Warren O. Cagney.

Rollins Fencers Meet Tech Team
Georgia Tech's ROTC fencing team will match foils with the squad from Rollins College of Winter Park, Fla., Friday, in the first intercollegiate fencing match ever staged in Atlanta. The match will be held at the Tech Y. M. C. A. auditorium, and will begin at 8:15 p. m., immediately after the football banquet.

Last year Tech defeated Rollins, 9-8, at Winter Park. Tech returns a veteran squad this year, losing only Harding from last season's team.

Swanson, of Georgia Tech, was defeated only once in the foils event in intercollegiate competition last year when Tech encountered South Carolina. William and Mary, and V. M. L. besides Rollins.

Richard T. Morenus, still at Seneca, New York city, and Gravich, Paris, coaches the Tech team. William L. Roney, former captain of the Penn State fencing team, is the Rollins coach.

Lieutenant Parter, of the U. S. A., will referee.
The probable Tech lineup:
Folios: Swanson, Fox, Seydell, Mallo, Schwartz, Williams, Parker, Suarez, and Clair.
Epee: Seydell, Swanson, Mallo, Schwartz.
Sabre: Fox, Arias, Swanson.

Civic League
Four battles that promise to be hotly contested are on the schedule for Thursday's series in the Civic League at 104 Y. M. C. A. as two of the games bring first round winners together and the others find clubs battling to break into the won column.

In the opener at 7 p. m., Kraft Cheese plays C. & S. Bank, its second contest. Lines Supply will battle last year's champion, Dental College, to maintain a perfect record.

The complete schedule follows:
Kraft Cheese vs. C. & S. Bank, 7 p. m.
Dental College vs. Lines Supply, 7:30 p. m.
Fulton National vs. Southern C. of Pacy, 8:30 p. m.
Coca-Cola vs. Bellamy, 8:40 p. m.

ST. LOUIS CARDS SIGN GONZALES

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Dec. 9.—(AP)—Sale of Catcher Mike Gonzales to the St. Louis Cardinals was announced tonight by George M. Trautman, president of the Columbus Red Birds, champions of the American Association. Gonzales will be coach and assistant to Frankie Frisch of the Cardinals. He has been coach and catcher for the Red Birds.

Trautman announced a series of 11 exhibition games with Cincinnati, Detroit, the Red Sox and the Phillies during next spring's training season in the south at a point yet to be selected. Games with the Minneapolis Millers at Montgomery, Ala.; with Nashville, and with Rochester and Buffalo of the International League were also announced.

Others whose names are expected to figure prominently in the indoor campaign are Johnny Morris, of Louisiana State; Gene Yenze, of Pennsylvania; Johnny Owens, the new colored "find" of Ohio State; Ralph Metcalfe, seasoned campaigner of Marquette; Bonthron, Cunningham and Joe McCluskey.

The season starts January 6 with the Knights of Columbus meet in Brooklyn, and will include the Millers, Boston A. A., N. Y. A. C. A. U. and I. C. A. A. A. events.

Sandlot Teams Meet On East Point Grid

The East Point sandlot eleven will meet the Atlanta championship sandlot eleven on Russell High field at East Point December 22, according to announcement Saturday. The Atlanta champion will be determined by a tournament which has been in progress for the last few weeks.

BULLDOGS OPEN COURT PRACTICE UNDER ENRIGHT

Only Two Veterans Return as Georgia Opens Practice Next Week.

ATHENS, Ga., Dec. 9.—With only two veteran players returning and with an alarming scarcity of experienced material, Georgia this week officially began preparations for the opening of the 1934 basketball season, scheduled to begin late this month.

Brown Wilder, regular guard, and Rutherford O'Kelly, letter center, are the only veterans of previous Bulldog campaigns returning. Captain Leroy Young, All-Southern guard; Stokely Pound and Joe Chandler were lost by graduation. Virgin Moore, of Atlanta, is believed lost, although Southeastern conference officials will pass on Moore's case within the near future.

SPECIAL RULING.
Moore, a former Atlanta Athletic Club star, attended Emory University before coming here. A special ruling made him eligible for play here last winter, but it is considered unlikely that he will be allowed to play this season.

Coach Rex Enright, who took charge of the team immediately after he returned from California Thursday, is somewhat gloomy over prospects for the season. He admits that if Moore should become eligible that Georgia would have a fairly good team.

The big problem at present is developing a guard, a center and two forwards to team with Brown Wilder, the only player on the team who has his position clinched right at present. Coach Enright, whose team won Georgia's first Southern conference game title his first year as head coach in 1931, hopes to develop four good players from the ranks of sophomores and reserves.

CHAPMAN RETURNS.
Buck Chapman, who played center in 1932 until an emergency appendicitis operation sidelined him for the season, is counted on strongly for a guard position, although he may continue at his old center post. Chapman may be put at either guard or center candidates come through, for Yank Ludwig, dependable guard of last season, will not play this winter. Ludwig will spend the remainder of school year in order to recover from a knee injury he suffered during the football season.

Flip Costello, Rickie Anderson, guard, and Lee Bruno, guard, are reserves of previous years. Anderson may be shifted to center. Bruno's playing is somewhat doubtful, since he has been troubled with a knee injury all fall.

SOPH PROSPECTS.
Seven sophomores are among promising candidates for the team at present. Frank Johnson, football guard, is a forward in basketball. Al Mazzo and Hoyt Chastain are other promising forward candidates from last year's freshman team.

Dan Rowden, an Atlanta boy, is a sophomore center, while Cantor, the tallest man on the squad, may be the center. Hal Gibson, Hal Gibson, center, Julian Baxter are other sophomores aspiring to first-team berths.

PLANE MEETS GOPHERS IN '35

CHICAGO, Dec. 9.—(AP)—Minnesota and Tulane have agreed to meet in football at Minneapolis in 1935. The game will be the third on Minnesota's schedule and will replace Pittsburgh, which will finish its two-year contract with the Gophers next year.

Marquette and Centre College have tentatively agreed to meet in football at Milwaukee, next October 20. Only the approval of the Marquette board, which was considered certain, was necessary to clinch the game.

Boardwalk Wins Tanforan Feature

SAN BRUNO, Cal., Dec. 9.—(AP)—Holding the lead in the stretch, Boardwalk triumphed in the finish to win handily by a length from Tanforan, the feature race today at Tanforan track and a $1,500 stake. She covered the mile and a furlong in 1:51 flat, just 2 1/2 seconds faster than the track record, Bonny Grafton was third.

The winner paid $11.50, $4.40 and $2.00 for the first, second and third places. Tanforan, a $3 and $2.00 and Bonny Grafton, $3.20.

COLORED CHAMPS.

MARSHALL, Texas, Dec. 9.—(AP)—The Wiley University Wildcats today shattered hopes of the hitherto undefeated Tuskegee Institute football team, taking the national negro intercollegiate championship by defeating Tuskegee here, 13 to 0. Wiley scored both touchdowns in the second period, the first score on a series of passes and the second on a punt play. Tuskegee did not threaten at any time.

Chamblee

Chamblee High school basketball team won two games from Conyers at Conyers, Tuesday night and against Tucker at Tucker Friday night.

Chamblee will meet again with Conyers Friday, 30 to 12, but the boys had hard fighting, leading only 13 to 13 at the half and losing 20 to 28 in the second half.

Atlanta Pros Open Here Friday Night

Atlanta's new entry in the professional basketball league, which will open the home season next Friday night at the city auditorium against the Birmingham Reds. The squad includes several former college and Athletic Club stars. They are, left to right, front row, Roy McArthur, former Georgia Tech star; Jonah White, former U. S. B. star and Detroit Tiger outfielder; Jack English, former Tech High star; Pat Terrell, former Georgia Bulldog. Back row, Nolan Richardson, former Georgia star and Detroit Tiger baseball player; Bill Perkins, who led the Southern conference scoring as a member of the Georgia Tech team in 1931; Pat Stephens, former A. C. star forward, and Curtis Watkins, former member of the Providence Steam Rollers. The team will play as a member of the newly formed professional basketball league.

JACK TWAY WINS HIGH GUN HONORS

For the second consecutive week Jack Tway won high gun honors with a handi-pump prize shoot yesterday. Hams were the prizes in both shoots.

The beautiful Capitol Gun Club, located on top of a hill, was the scene of a produce crack shoot yesterday. There was a grocery shoot at the West End Gun Club, formerly the Capitol View Gun Club. The name was changed to avoid confusion between the two clubs. The grocery shoot continues today at the West End Club, located at Fort McPherson, beginning at 10 o'clock.

A strong wind whistled across the hill at Capitol View but did not prevent Bill Parker, president of the West End Club, from breaking his first 25 straight. He was followed by Jack Tway, who has broken 25 before.

SHOOT IN WIND.
It required crack shooting to break them all in the wind. And both Parker and Tway were shooting with the skill of champions. Parker's achievement was all the greater, considering he had never broken 25 before, and the day "pigeons" were ducking and weaving in the air.

The sportsmen attending got a great kick out of the prize won by J. R. Cotman, a fine shooter. Cotman received two packages of "Pep," as consolation prize.

There were some 19 shooters on hand yesterday, including two pros, Captain Hicks and W. Huff. Hams, socks, flour, coffee, butter, preserves, and other foodstuffs were awarded as prizes.

WINNERS.
Prize winners were Tway and Riley, Charley Black, Guy Melchor, H. D. Morgan, J. H. Gray, J. K. Gray, J. R. Cotman and Bill Parker. Shooters who did not win anything at all were presented with cans of coffee by Messrs. Jack and Charley Tway, George Cushing, Archie Comer, Ashby Taylor and Jack Tway all shot from scratch.

The scores: Jack Tway, 46x50; Jack Troy, 57x50; Charley Nunnally, 51x50; Bill Parker, 53x50; C. W. Tway, 46x50; Dr. Riley, 47x50; J. R. Cotman, 46x50; J. K. Gray, 44x50; Guy Melchor, 42x50; Archie Comer, 41x50; Ashby Taylor, 40x50; H. D. Morgan, 40x50; J. K. Gray, 39x50; George Cushing, 14x50; J. H. Gray, 39x50; R. J. Minnihan, 34x50.

Captain Hicks was talking to O. R. Keeler after the shoot. "Do you know what I did on my vacation?" "What?" "Shoot! And shoot, and shoot. I am not swearing. I shot my vacation away."

It was a fine shoot and there were prizes for all. You couldn't ask for more.

MRS. BLUE WINS.

PINEHURST, N. C., Dec. 9.—(AP)—Mrs. H. B. Halbert, J. Blue and Helen Morrison, both of Pittsburgh, won the tournament of the silver foil Women's Golf Association, here this afternoon, ending 37-35 in the best ball event. Helen Waring, Pinehurst champion, and Mrs. J. K. Love, Johnston, Pa., were one stroke back.

PIRATES BATTLES TEXAS ELEVEN HERE SATURDAY

Game Will Be Sponsored by Jaycees for Christmas Stocking Fund.

By Roy White.

A double-header, featuring the 135-pound sandlot championship and Boys' High and House's All-Stars, will formally close Atlanta's annual football schedule Saturday afternoon at Ponce de Leon park. The grand finale will be sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce and all proceeds above actual expenses of the game will go into the Junior Chamber's Christmas stocking fund.

A preliminary to the double-header will be played at 10 o'clock Saturday morning when the 120-pound sandlot championship will be decided at the ball park. The morning game will be free to the public, but the afternoon game will be played for charity. The sandlots play at 10 o'clock and the other will start at 2:30 o'clock.

Saturday's games mark the close of one of the best prep and sandlot football seasons ever held in the city. It was started on September 16 when Tech High played Etowah, Tenn., and every Friday and Saturday since that time has been crammed full of football ranging from six and seven-year-old kids to the collegiate games.

WORTHY CAUSE.
It is the first time that such an elaborate football program has been planned for the public and the proceeds will go to a worthy cause. Both football games should be well worth the price of admission in addition to the cause for which it is being sponsored.

Hundreds of the city's football fans have been unable to witness any of the sandlot games during the season, but Saturday's double-header, it will be a fine opportunity to see the youngsters battle for the championship as well as witness one of the interesting games of the year.

Boys' High holds two decisions over Houston in charity games. In 1930 the Purples defeated an all-star aggregation, 6 to 0, in a charity game in Houston. The 1930 all-star team was composed of stars from the four high school teams in Houston.

Last year Houston's four teams played one quarter each and again Boys' High won out by a 6-to-0 score and also won the southern prep championship.

Houston's team Saturday will be composed of the city's outstanding prep stars, who have been working together for some three or four weeks.

TICKETS ON SALE.
Tickets for the game will be placed on sale Monday at the Junior Chamber of Commerce office, 200 N. Peachtree St. High, Fulton High, North Fulton High and all of the Junior High schools. Good Ole Times and Ochsner have pledged their support of the movement and will aid in the ticket sales at the schools. Student tickets will be 35 cents if purchased here in Houston. Adult tickets will be 75 cents.

Governor Talmadge and Mayor James L. Key, together with their wives and other officials, will be honor guests at the game and also will be represented at a welcoming for the Houston team.

A parade has been arranged for 10:30 o'clock Saturday morning. Members of the Junior Chamber football committee includes Duncan Peck, president; George Jancy, secretary; and other officials. Other members: Allen Barr, Arthur Heleman, Brandes Lesene, Jack Patterson, Ennis Parker, Jake Crouch and Frank Richards.

The Birmingham squad includes Ben Chapman, New York Yankee outfielder; Slick Vincent, former Alabama star; Bill Eismann, Syracuse; Battling Bozo, the fighter, and other stars.

A preliminary boys' game will open the card at 7 o'clock, followed by a girls' game and the big game is scheduled to begin at 9:30 o'clock.

Harry Richman, team manager, has announced the following line-up for Saturday: Slick Vincent, pitcher; Slick Vincent, pitcher; Slick Vincent, pitcher.

For the first time in four years, members of the freshman team were ruled eligible for varsity letters, and two freshmen were chosen. The freshmen will forego their right to claim the freshman numbers for the year awarded in order to receive the major letter.

Those selected on the team are: ENDS—Bailey (Sophomore) and Sutton (Senior).

TACKLES—Slaughter (Senior), Hay (Senior) and Alexander (Freshman).

This is the third consecutive year that Turman, Irwin and Stubbs have been chosen of the All-Emory team. Maddox and Slaughter were selected on the team last year.

The championship of the intramural and Seniors each won one of the two games. The game for the title was cancelled. This is the second year that the championship has been divided, as a playoff game between the freshmen and Seniors had to be cancelled last year.

S. S. A. A.
The National Amateur Athletic League of the Southern States will meet at the Southern States Hotel, Tuesday night, at 8:15 p. m.

From indications Mr. Vernon should clip the Oakland City Methodists, and Eppert should trim the Central Baptist for Chas. but not without a struggle. Only two boys' games will be played.

One game is scheduled, Inman Park meets the Junior Methodists in the first game of the evening, starting at 7:15 o'clock.

New Rambler Coach

Elmer Layden, of "Four Horsemen" fame, who has been named as successor to Coach Harkley (Hunk) Anderson as football coach at Notre Dame. Layden was selected for the position, as Anderson and Jesse Harper, director of athletics at the university, resigned. This action followed a most disastrous football season. Associated Press photo.

OLD DAMON, VERSATILE, WAS IMMORTAL TRAILER

Whether they are sitting on a log patting their dog, or resting comfortably before an open fireplace, pines its logs crackling, you will always find, somewhere, outdoor men proudly extolling the merits of their dogs.

Faiths have developed over disparaging remarks about dogs. Endless controversies have arisen. Discretion is the better part of valor where a man's dog is concerned.

And so the story comes around to the saga of Old Damon, the versatile. There was a dog.

The facts in the case are gleaned from the seemingly unimpeachable testimony of Lee Maddox, dean of the Putnam county for hunters, and Asa Marshall, an able lieutenant whose ability in the field is only outdone by his political abilities.

There is something about an open fireplace after a long hunt when men can stretch out and rest. The gradual warmth is conducive to reflection. And mostly always the talk gets around to a dog of the mind, dead past. Hushed talk about the virtues of a good dog whose feat of valor surmounts the passing of time and live on affectionately in the memory of his master.

JUST PLAIN HOUND.
Now, Old Damon, the versatile, peace to his bones, was just a plain hound. He wasn't a specialist. There may have been better coon dogs and better possum dogs and, of course, there were better fox hounds and better bird dogs. There were dogs quicker on the scent, faster on the trail, perhaps. But for singleness of purpose and versatility, well, there was no dog to Old Damon. And since, long since, he has gone to that haven beyond bones and blood and peace and rest are the great rewards of a dog's life.

Should Mister Lee mount horse and set out in the direction of the river bottom, Old Damon would sell out ahead and by the time his master arrived would be virtually certain to have a coon scampering for its life. And if, perchance, a rabbit or a possum or a fox crossed his path, Old Damon would ignore it completely.

OF SINGLE BENT.
Old Damon would concentrate the four senses on what instinct told him. Mister Lee was after and nothing could swerve him from his purpose. Not even such delectable game as a rabbit or a possum or a fox.

But should the master throw leg across his faithful carrier and head for the ridges of an evening, Old Damon would go religiously about his duties and by the time the huntsman reached the scene would have a coon headed for the last roundup.

In the daytime Old Damon was as versatile as they come. Rabbits, squirrel, quail or whatever game was available would find Old Damon ready for the trail.

He was an unusual squirrel dog. Maneuvering him in the manner of any squirrel dog, Old Damon would go beyond that and continue his own sooties until he had found three or eight squirrels treed. Both his owners agreed that he probably would have died of chagrin if he had treed but one.

DROVES OF RABBITS.
Rabbits came to the hunters' guns in droves when Old Damon was roaming the swamps and the creek banks or the briar patches.

In the absence of pointers and setters, Old Damon, according to his faithful owners, was always ready for bird hunt.

He would pick up the scent of a coon. If the coon had been there and gone elsewhere, he would keep at his trailing until he found his hiding place.

Old Damon did not point in the best manner of the bird dog. But his method was effective.

He never effectively mastered the point. But he would stop stock still, wag his tail and give voice to a soothing cross between a whine and a bay which served the two-fold purpose of bringing his master up to the kill and at the same time quieted the bird's nerves, so they would not fly prematurely. He would not retrieve—probably because he objected to the feeling of feathers in his mouth, a not uncommon sensation experienced by some hunters on the morning after—but would find the dead wounded bird and stand by with quiet dignity until the hunter came up to claim his game.

IGNORED RABBITS.
On expeditions into the field for birds, Old Damon would not give chase to a rabbit even if the rabbit was inclined to cuff at him, his owners solemnly relate.

As the years wore on, Old Damon became slow of foot but the old brain never slowed down. In his later years he developed the habit of sitting down firmly beneath a tree, and in which the quays had taken refuge, and crossing his front paws. This, the owners assured, was an absolute infallible guarantee.

It is suspected that while Old Damon's bird hunting was considered his greatest accomplishment, the faithful hound, deep in that profound heart of his, probably considered the trailing of birds as "bissy" and did it only to please others.

Mister Asa was Old Damon's master at the time the worthy canine went to the Valhalla of faithful dogdom. Mister Asa related that a buried Old Damon with fitting solemnity, set a headstone, sang a little and preached a little.

And why not?

HUNK ANDERSON, JESSE HARPER HIGHLY PRAISED

Notre Dame President Issues Statement While En Route Home.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Dec. 9.—(AP)

Elmer Layden, one of the famed "four horsemen" of Notre Dame, is coming back to the campus of the golden dome as athletic director and head football coach. Jesse Harper and Harkley (Hunk) Anderson, who responded to the university's call three years ago when Knute Rockne crashed to his death, are definitely out.

Layden will return to handle both his duties next spring, armed with a two-year contract at $10,000 a year. With him as assistant football coach will come Joe Boland, one of the "seven mules" of the "four horsemen" eleven. The resignations of Anderson and Harper are effective at once. Layden takes charge February 1.

The sweeping, drastic change in Notre Dame's athletic leadership, news that leaked out yesterday, was officially confirmed today as the Rev. Charles L. O'Donnell, president of the university, returned to the campus after a trip from Rochester, Minn., where he convalesced after a long illness. Layden accepted the post after a conference with the Rev. John F. O'Hara, acting president, at Indianapolis and the die was definitely cast.

LETTER OPENED.
As a flood of inquiries had descended upon the officials at Notre Dame, seeking verification of the report, the once mysterious sealed letter which had been designated for release tonight was opened. This was shortly after confirmation of Layden's appointment and acceptance had been made.

But all it contained was a note of appreciation for the services of Harper and Anderson. Both were praised for their endeavors for the school. Although in Chicago, Father O'Donnell admitted he was disappointed with the results of the 1933 football campaign, in which Notre Dame won only three games. He said he felt the team should have done better.

The text of Father O'Hara's announcement, confirming the change, was as follows:

"The University of Notre Dame has accepted the resignation of Jesse Harper and Harkley Anderson as athletic director and head football coach, and has signed Elmer Layden for a contract that governs both positions. The university also has approved the selection of Joseph Boland as assistant football coach."

LAYDEN ELATED.
At Indianapolis, Layden, who leaves the head football coaching job at Duquesne, Pittsburgh, said he was elated by his new job.

"Naturally, I feel honored," the scholarly looking fullback marvel of nine years ago, said, "who wouldn't, being called to such a post at his Alma Mater. I'm afraid to think of the responsibilities it involves—trying to uphold Notre Dame traditions not only as they exist at Notre Dame, but also as they are being exemplified by scores of splendid men, who are making football history all over the country. I have the greatest admiration for my predecessor, whose resignation placed me in the position of making football history all over the country. I can promise to do my best, and the Notre Dame authorities tell me that is all that is required."

BACH NOT MENTIONED.
Joe Bach, who assisted Layden at Duquesne, was mentioned for a job at Notre Dame. He would be offered a connection if he decides to break away from Duquesne. Many figured Bach would win second place in a leading candidate for the head coaching position at Duquesne to succeed Layden. No mention was made either of Max Edwards, now assistant coach at Purdue, Edwards, in Chicago, said he had not been approached and planned to stay at Purdue.

The campus was in the throes of excitement at the news of Layden's appointment and acceptance were confirmed. Few of the student know him personally, but all are familiar with his prowess of the gridiron. Layden, from for directing athletics at Indianapolis to St. Louis where he is to coach a team in a charity game tomorrow.

"Sitting Pretty" Fox Offering Is Tuneful, Witty, Colorful

With Ginger Rogers, the redhead, revealing that she is one of the most fascinating players in Hollywood, and with Jack Oakie, Jack Haley, Gregory Ratoff, Thelma Todd, Lew Cody and others providing splendid supporting performances, "Sitting Pretty," at the Fox this week, reveals itself a real snappy, fast-action comedy with lots of catchy music and hundreds of those gorgeous girls.

The picture is the story of a song-writing team who try to break into the big money on the movie lots. Of course, at the end, they crash with overwhelming success and the picture closes with a song production that is reminiscent of those great numbers which aroused so much enthusiasm in "Footlight Parade" a few weeks ago.

Ginger Rogers sings—and rolls her eyes—through "Did You Ever See a Dream Walking?" in a way to warm the cockles of the coldest heart and the ensemble background given for this number is one of the most gorgeous ever seen. Hundreds of scintillating girls parade before great music, with huge black and white, tri-colored plume fans, in an effect that leaves Sally Rand far behind as an also-ran in sensational beauty.

Besides the big hit numbers, "Dream Walking," other song successes in this film include "Good Morning Glory," "Many Moons Ago," "I Wanna Mean-der with Miranda" and "You're Such a Comfort to Me."

Jack Oakie is the unreliable member of the song-writing team, while Jack Haley leaps into star prominence by his splendid performance as the hard-working and faithful partner. Thelma Todd is the vampish movie star who first helps them to success and then lets her infatuation for Oakie break up the friends.

Just how they get happily drunk and crash an important party and how this accident leads to their ultimate success provides the clever climax to the plot, while Ginger Rogers is the girl who sticks to them through hard times and lean until she shares their success as the wife of—well, wait and find out. But the boy's name is Jack.

The Fox presents this week a group of short subjects that are well in the spirit of the approaching holiday season while Jimmy Beers at the big organ turns on the musical faucet in an arrangement of those peppy, get-happy tunes that have made him the most popular theater organist in Dixie.

"Jimmy and Sally" on Screen At Paramount This Week

Skilful, tuneful and delightful! That's "Jimmy and Sally," the new Fox Film release which opened at the Paramount theater yesterday and proved to be a highly diverting and entertaining comedy romance with music.

Screenland's Offerings for the Week in Atlanta

At Loew's Grand this week they are presenting "Should Ladies Behave," which is the screen version of the stage's "Vinegar Tree." Lionel Barrymore and Alice Brady are seen in the principal roles at left top. Right top is from "The Invisible Man," truly a marvelous film, made from H. G. Wells' story and showing this week at the Georgia. At lower right Jimmy Dunn considers something pleasant in "Jimmy and Sally," current attraction at the Paramount. The couple on the stepladder paying attention to nobody else, are Ginger Rogers and Jack Oakie, who play important roles in "Sitting Pretty," a comedy and music offering at the Fox. Lower right shows May Robson and Jean Parker as they appear in "Lady for a Day" which is playing a return engagement—incidentally its fourth week—at the Rialto.

Movies Invented Just For "Alice" Merrick Avers

By MOLLIE MERRICK.

(Copyright, 1933, by the Norma American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.)
HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Dec. 9.—If you've ever wondered just what story, play or theme was the ideal vehicle for the camera—if you've ever pondered it without finding the absolute answer—wait until you see "Alice in Wonderland." Then will you realize that the camera and the silver screen were invented, possibly, to give a practical world insight into the mad and gay fantasies of Lewis Carroll's mind.

You will come to the conclusion that cameras were made to take you through the looking glass and down the rabbit hole. And the art of picture making seems to reach its height, not when a man and a woman are holding a highly sophisticated argument in the setting of a very modern drawing room, but when a little girl drinks a magic fluid out of a bottle and grows taller and taller and taller before your very eyes until the table, which was a normal thing to her before, becomes so small she can scarcely find it with the toe of her shoe.

And when that same little girl eats a bit of magic cake and shrinks to a postage stamp dimension where the foot of that table becomes a mighty thing which she would have to climb laboriously over—well, you sit back in your theater chair and say: "At last movies have hit the only story which movies—and movies alone—can perfectly make!"

Director Norman McLeod has made

S. R. O. by Ralph T. Jones

With today that section of this column which has been sub-headed "Diary of a Pre-Viewer" is discontinued. Inasmuch as the old pre-viewer has undertaken to review all the local picture offerings for the Saturday and Monday editions of The Constitution, it would be redundant to review the same pictures in this column likewise. Probably the Pre-Viewer won't be missed, but if he is, look to his daily reviews and let's hope he gives you a fair idea of the entertainment you may see.

I don't remember a picture that aroused keener anticipations, in so far as I am concerned, than "Alice in Wonderland." I haven't seen it, but the delight that Lewis Carroll's book has always brought presages an extension of delight when I see his fantastic imagination take visual form. Inasmuch as I have never yet met the literate person who didn't love "Alice," it is probable that the Paramount theater will enjoy a new box office record when the film is shown there Christmas week.

Tried to place a bet yesterday, but couldn't find a taker. I wanted to bet that "Lady for a Day" will do more business on its return engagement at the Rialto theater this week than it did on the third week of its original showing.

Speaking of the Rialto, Manager Murray doesn't always live up to his advertising. Last week his marquee proclaimed that "Man's Castle" would be there "forevermore" and he's taken the picture out after a mere two weeks.

Personally I don't care to have brilliant mind-readers prying into the recesses of my subconscious. They might find out some secrets. But if you like to have questions after your past or future, about love, business or your home life, answered with startling evidence of credibility, go to Loew's Grand and see Sinnett, the Mentalist, this week.

Another good bet this week is that "The Invisible Man" at the Georgia will provoke more discussion than any screen offering in months. The camera tricks used in making this picture are clever enough to start endless discussions and leagues of fruitless conjecture.

When you visit the Fox this week notice particularly the performances of Jack Haley and Ginger Rogers in "Sitting Pretty." If these two don't impress you with a vast improvement in their technique and personalities, they don't affect you like they did the

Grand Has Smart Feature In 'Should Ladies Behave'

"Should Ladies Behave?" the feature attraction of the week at Loew's Grand theater, is a brilliant comedy of modern life, with some of the cleverest satirical characterizations of the season. The picture co-stars Lionel Barrymore and Alice Brady and is a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production. The story is taken from the successful stage play, "The Vinegar Tree," by Paul Osborn, and was directed by Harry Beaumont.

In addition to this great feature, the Grand this week presents Sinnett, the world's most famous mentalist and mind reader. Sinnett appears in person twice daily, at 2:45 and 9:15, and answers all questions in an uncannily perspicacious manner. In addition to his personal appearances he will answer questions which may be left in the lobby of the theater at any time.

"Should Ladies Behave" centers around the belief of a romantically frustrated wife, who married a man 20 years her senior, that a certain famous painter, visiting her home, is desirous of renewing a romance of their youthful days. Actually the painter is infatuated with the woman's 18-year-old daughter while at the same time he is trying to break off an affair he has had with the wife's sister.

Then there is a young boy in love with the daughter and the old husband, a wise old fellow who understands the mistake he made in marrying a woman too young for him.

The story is brilliantly told and the acting of Alice Brady as the wife is something long to be remembered, while Lionel Barrymore, as the too-old husband, gives a performance that ranks with the finest work he has ever done.

Conway Tearle, as the painter, could not have been better cast, while Mary Carlisle as the daughter, Katharine Alexander as the sister, and William Janney as the youthful lover, are perfectly cast. And, of course, no butler could surpass Halliwell Hobbes.

In addition to the scintillating comedy of the feature, the Grand has an excellent group of short subjects, including an "Our Gang" comedy, Metrotonews, etc.

We are justifiably proud to announce the coming of "The GOOD COMPANIONS" to the BUCKHEAD THEATRE

Doubly proud when this theatre can boast audiences which can properly appreciate the subtle charm of this picture.

It is with a feeling of twice justified pride that we bring "GOOD COMPANIONS" of the screen and the Good Companions of our audiences together.

The hunger for freedom, the longing for romance that lies in all our hearts will find fulfillment in this story of "THE GOOD COMPANIONS" who together found happiness and success.

You will renew your dreams with Susie Dean, a girl to charm any heart; with Inigo Jollifant, the carefree; with Miss Trant, the adventuring old maid who was, after all, not so old; with Jess Oakroyd, who dared a strange world.

Let's go adventuring down the road to romance. Let's join these good troupers as they grin in the face of fate and toss a coin—their last—with Lady Fortune.

Enjoy the visualization of J. B. Priestley's great novel, hear its tuneful songs and breathe its gay spirit.

Letters to Santa Claus

Children Writing Best 50 Letters Will Ride in Parade and Get Toy Out of Santa's Sack.

The first five letters have been chosen by Santa as the best for today and the children who wrote them will receive a letter from the parade director.

Dear Santa Claus: I am a little red-haired girl 3 years old. I want you to bring me a real baby brother. If you haven't got one, be sure and leave me a negro doll and a large doll carriage. I have some dolls you brought me last Christmas. Please don't forget me and I sure want to ride with you in the parade.

Love from JANE BEAUFORD,
352 South Caville avenue.
Dear Santa: I would be so happy if I could be in your big Christmas parade with you. I am 7 years old and go to school every day. My little sister, Beverly, wants to be in the parade, too, but she cannot write so you see I am writing for her, too. She's only three. If you will let me be in your parade, I will be so happy.

Now Santa, I can tell all the other boys about your reindeer. Please just tell my mother if I can be in your parade and I'll wear my new shoes, too.

My little sister wants you to bring her a big doll and please bring a pair of skates for me.

HARVEY LINDSEY JR.,
405 Fourth street, N. E.
Dear Santa: I may be a little late with my letter but I hope I'm not too late to ride with you in the parade as I want to, oh, so much. May I, please? Say yes.

Santa, I want an electric train and a cowboy suit, a gun and a chair. Please bring my baby brother a wind-up train and a horse and ball. Please don't forget any little boys and girls anywhere. I hope you can read this as I am only 7 years old and in the second grade. I will do better next Christmas.

Oceans of love,
HUGHAN NUNN,
944 Los Angeles avenue.

Dear Santa: I am eight years old and in the third grade. I would like a two-wheel bicycle, also some boots for Christmas. But most of all I want to ride in your sleigh with you in Atlanta. Let me know so I can come over.

Your little boy,
MACK BETHUNE,
Douglasville, Ga.

Dear Santa Claus: It sure has been a long time since last year and I sure do want to see you. Santa, please don't forget me. I want you to bring me a doll and also a doll carriage.

I have begged my mamma and papa to bring me to town to see your parade. Hoping to see you in your parade.

Love, BETTY COURRY,
131 West Lake avenue.

The next letters, while not winners, are deserving of publication:

Dear Santa Claus: I am 9 years old and my sister is 12 years old. I want a siren and sister wants a light and Jackie wants something to ride and I forgot I wanted a typewriter and I think that sister will want a typewriter, too.

You are the sweetest man on earth.

From Betty,
SONNY FORTINBERGER.

Dear Santa Claus: I just can't hardly wait till December 15 to see you in the big parade. And I sure would like to ride with you and sit in the front seat by you. My daddy takes The Constitution and I have been reading about the big parade. The Constitution has planned for the poor children. Santa, I want you to bring me a sidewalk bike. Santa, please remember the poor children. I am nine years old and in the third grade at Adair school. Good-bye, Santa, and please remember me by letting me ride in the parade.

Yours,
JACK FORBUSH,
892 Murphy avenue.

Dear Santa: Please bring me a rubber doll with clothes and bed, a real wrist watch, a pair of goggles size 2 1/2 or 3, a doll carriage, a doll house and rooms with furniture, a pair of gloves, a bracelet, a ring and a pocket book. Will you please bring all these things to me. Thank you ever so much.

I have a little niece. She is about one year and one month old. I wish you would send her a baby rattle, a doll, a dress, a blanket, cap and shoes. Her name is Mary Lillian Graybed.

Sincerely yours,
DOLA GRAYBED,
Ft. N. C.

Dear Santa Claus: Hope to ride with you in the parade. I will first describe myself so if I get to ride in your sleigh you will know me. I have light brown hair, blue eyes and blue for my eyes, which is 9. I go to school in Conyers and in the fourth grade. I make A's on everything. I like reading best of all. Please bring me some toys which you think I would like best.

Your friend,
MARGARET BRITT,
Conyers, Ga.

Dear Santa Claus: Oh, I cannot hardly wait till Christmas Eve night comes. Oh, I love you so good that you are so good to me so I want you to bring me an air rifle and a box of shells. You know I want to be a real hunter, and some pecans, oranges and apples.

Yours truly,
GUY HARRIS,
Dallas, Ga.

My Dear Old Santa: I am writing

Santa Chooses Her for Parade

Here's one of Santa's chosen children. Little Miss Helen Vinson Clanton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Darwin Clanton and granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Vinson. Little Helen is going to have lots of confetti to throw at old Santa and will get a toy from him. She is as excited as can be and can hardly wait till the night of Friday, December 15, when she will realize her ambition of being in Santa Claus' parade.

All Dressed Up

Here's a captain! And what a boy! L. O. Mooney Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. L. O. Mooney. He is all dressed up and he will have somewhere to go and that place is in Santa's bus in Santa's big parade.

Three of Santa's Little Pals

Bobby, Danny and Joe Morris, children of Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Morris will have a lot to tell their little playmates, for they have been chosen to ride in the big Santa Claus parade Friday night, December 15. They will get a toy right out of old St. Nick's bag.

Drum and Bugle Corps To Parade

The Drum and Bugle Corps of the American Legion Post No. 1 of Atlanta as it appeared in the 15th national convention of the American Legion in Chicago October 4. This drum and bugle corps will perform in Santa's parade Friday night, December 15.

Prizes for Parade

In order that The Constitution's big Santa Claus Parade may be one of the most beautiful and impressive affairs that Atlanta has ever seen, prizes for the best units will be awarded as follows:

BANDS

There will be three cups. First prize, second prize and third, awarded to the best uniformed, marching and performing bands. All bands must be playing when passing reviewing stand at Five Points, where judging will be made.

GIRL SCOUTS

There will be three cups awarded. First, second and third prizes for the best drilled and appearing troops in the parade. All troops entering this competition will be judged as they pass reviewing stand at Five Points.

BOY SCOUTS

There will be three cups awarded. First, second and third prizes for the best drilled and appearing troops in the parade. All troops entering this competition will be judged as they pass the reviewing stand at Five Points.

CAMP FIRE GIRLS

There will be three cups awarded. First, second and third prizes for the best drilled and appearing troops in the parade. All troops entering this competition will be judged as they pass the reviewing stand at Five Points.

CLOWN COSTUMES

There will be a first and second prize for the children under 16 years of age wearing the funniest and most original clown costumes. These prizes will be awarded as contestants pass reviewing stand at Five Points.

BICYCLE CONTEST

There will be three cups. First, second and third prizes awarded to the boys or girls on bicycles who have their bicycles decorated in the prettiest and most original manner. These awards will be made as contestants pass reviewing stand at Five Points.

MERCHANTS' WINDOW DISPLAY

The Constitution will award two cups. First prize each to the store decorating their windows in the prettiest and most original manner. There will be one prize for department stores and one prize for smaller shops. All stores wishing to decorate their windows for this competition are requested to get in touch with the parade director. Judging of the windows will take place at noon Friday, December 15. There will be other prizes for other competitions which will be announced later.

Sells Paper for $10

Governor Talmadge, after joining the "Big Brothers," phoned Clark Howell Jr., business manager of The Constitution, and sold him the first paper to come off the press for $10. The governor will also sell papers in his "home ward" the eighth, on Sunday morning, December 17. If you live in the eighth ward, when the governor calls, do your best—it all goes to charity.

Gets Toy From Santa

Here is little Bobby Moore, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert, who is all thrilled over the prospect of riding with Santa in the big parade. Santa has a nice policeman's outfit to give Bobby—right out of Santa's toy sack.

Big Brother Councilman

Howard Haile, councilman-elect of the ninth ward, is a "Big Brother" and will help swell the fund for the poor by selling The Constitution "Big Brother Edition" on Sunday morning, December 17.

What's the Name?

This young man was so excited and so elated over being in the big parade that he forgot to give the parade director his name, so will his mother

Big Brother Captains in 9th Ward

Major W. J. Redfern, talking to the seventeen captains appointed in the ninth ward to call on every home, leave a Constitution "Big Brother edition" and ask for donations for the Big Brother fund. Every cent derived from the sale of the papers will be devoted to charity. Major Redfern says "we are out to work and get all we can on Sunday, December 17. I am sure we are going to beat any other ward in the city." Several other ward majors have accepted the challenge and are out to beat him.

To Be With Santa in Parade

Here are Virginia Bradfield, Rosa Lee Freeman and Dolores Moorefield, all three of whom have been chosen to ride in the big Santa Claus parade and get a toy right out of Santa's bag. The mothers of these three children are requested to phone Santa Claus headquarters and receive instructions as to where and when the children are to report.

To Ride With Santa

Is this little Bobby Hill? If it isn't, whoever it is will be please phone Santa Claus Headquarters at The Constitution so that the parade director may tell him where to report so that he may ride in the big bus with Santa and get a toy. If it is Bobby Hill, then Bobby's mother is requested to phone.

kindly call Santa Claus headquarters at The Constitution to identify him, where she will be given instructions as to when and where to report in the big Santa Claus parade.

Herald for Santa

Barbara Lucille Thompson, seven-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Thompson, 57 Claire drive, is another of the youngsters who will be one of Santa's heralds and will ride in the American Legion bus right in front of Santa Claus.

ATLANTA, GA., DEC. 10, 1933.

THE PRESIDENT APPROVES.

The nation-wide attention being attracted to the unique and elaborate program of Christmas celebration and charity being sponsored for Atlanta by The Constitution and the civic organizations which are co-operating is attested by the telegram of President Roosevelt to General George L. Baker, the general chairman of the charity ball feature of the program.

The president says in his telegram, "I hope very much that this event will be an outstanding success and will establish a record not only for relief money obtained but one of service of which all associated in its promotion and participating in its celebration may be justly proud."

That this call of the president will be answered by the staging of not only one but three of the greatest events in the city's history, is already assured by the overwhelming response given by the public to the announcement of the Santa Claus parade, the first annual charity ball, and the formation of the Big Brother organization.

Friday night's parade will see the line of march through the downtown streets turned into an eerie canyon filled with a myriad of multicolored lights and flares and down which will flow a dancing procession of hobgoblins.

In it will be combined the spirit of Mardi Gras, Halloween and Christmas, and it is certain to attract the greatest outpouring of Atlanta's people in the history of the city.

Directly following the parade and its accompanying merrymaking will come the city's first annual charity ball—an event which promises to be of unparalleled brilliance—and then two days later the Big Brothers will go to every home in Atlanta with a copy of the Big Brother edition of The Constitution in order to swell the fund to be used to prepare a Christmas basket for every poor family in the city.

Already the program has assured Atlanta of the greatest Christmas in its history in so far as civic participation in the real spirit of the Yuletide is concerned.

In view of the president's cordial interest as expressed in his telegram to General Baker, every man, woman and child in the city should do his or her part towards making the series of events a program which will constitute a real message of Christmas joy to the rest of the country.

GENERAL BUTLER'S ADDRESS.

In the address of Major General Smedley Butler at the auditorium this afternoon, Atlantians will have opportunity to hear a virile speaker whose unique and forceful personality adds interest to what he has to say.

General Butler, who will discuss matters of current interest, is brought to Atlanta by the Georgia department of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, and he will be accompanied by Commander-in-Chief Van Zandt, of that organization, who will also speak this afternoon.

There is no more picturesque former member of the fighting forces of the United States than General Butler. During his long service in the marines he was under direct fire for 120 times, and is one of the few American soldiers to have won the medal of honor twice, in addition to 16 lesser decorations. His fighting qualities have not deserted General Butler since his retirement to civil life. He seeks his objectives now as earnestly as he did when in uniform, and the fact that he is of the type of speaker who hews to the line and is willing to let the chips fall where they may, invariably makes what he has to say of genuine interest and entertainment.

The auditorium should be filled to overflowing this afternoon. The loudspeakers which were installed for the address of President Roosevelt, and later for General Johnson, are still in place, and every word spoken will be heard in any part of the building.

UNFAIR TO THIS SECTION.

Earnest effort is being made by members of congress from the south Atlantic and gulf states, and by business interests in these states, to have a man from this wide stretch of territory named to the vacancy which will occur on December 31 on the interstate commerce commission.

The only member of the commission at present from the south is from Tennessee, an inland state, the freight interests of which are markedly different from those of states bordering the seaboard. The territory from Norfolk to Galveston, containing as many major ports as all the other coastal states of the Union and with large agricultural and manufacturing interests, is without direct representation on the board.

The result is that, whether intentional or not, this great section has suffered from an unjustifiable discrimination in freight rates. The handicap that these discriminatory rates have proven to industry in this section is forcefully outlined in an article, appearing on the opposite page, from Traffic Manager E. L. Hart, of the Atlanta Freight Bureau.

The difficulty faced by our manufacturers in attempting to reach northern markets with their products, as outlined by Mr. Hart, extends as well to the natural resources of the southern coastal states.

The situation is aggravated by the requirements of the NRA codes, none of which accord any appreciable differential in labor scales for southern industries. The northern competitors of southern manufacturing and mining plants have claimed favorable rates before the interstate commerce commission in the past on the ground that cheap labor in the south has made the cost of production less than in the north.

The NRA has largely done away with this advantage, and emphasizes the need for a representative of the south Atlantic and gulf states on the commission so that this new threat to southern industry shall be properly realized.

The danger of continued discrimination against this section is aggravated by the fact that the border states of Virginia, Kentucky and certain portions of Tennessee have been accorded a lower relative level of rates to and from the north than the states generally termed the southeastern states.

The south has been practically ignored in the selection of members of the interstate commerce commission since its creation in 1887. In its practically half a century of existence there have been only four southerners, one of whom was a Georgian, among the 41 men who have composed its membership.

It is only fair and just to the great stretch of territory reaching along the south Atlantic and the gulf that it be recognized in the filling of the approaching vacancy on the commission, and the business interests and congressional delegations of the states affected should exert every effort to that end.

WOMEN ON JURIES.

Members of the Woman's Democratic Club of Ware County may be among the first to serve on a Georgia jury, if they follow the advice laid down by Mrs. J. A. Rollison, the president of the club. She advocated this service by women in her address made before the meeting held in Waycross last week, and was backed in her proposal by Senator Susie T. Moore, state senator from Tilton, who told the members of the club, in an interesting and informative speech, why women should employ the franchise.

Senator Moore referred to the vast change in the political structure of the nation since the advent of suffrage, and appealed to Ware county women to exercise this franchise.

In former days if a woman were asked if she believed in the suffrage movement, she southern women blushed for the simple reason we felt afraid that our friends were picturing us as doctored in trousers and beaver hats. Now, when we ask a woman if she is a regular voter and she says "I'm not interested, I have never voted," we at once know that that sister is still in hoop skirts.

The Woman's Democratic Club of Ware County is the first permanent organization of its kind in Georgia, and has wielded a powerful influence in the political life of the county. For several years Mrs. Rollison has urged the women of her club to work for a bill granting the women of Georgia the right to serve on juries. Ware county feminine democrats could not get upon their feet fast enough to give indorsement to the proposal made by Mrs. Rollison at the December meeting.

A REMARKABLE RECORD.

A remarkable story of a municipality's care of its dependents is contained in the report, appearing elsewhere in this issue, of the special committee headed by Alderman J. Frank Beck, which has supervised during the past two years the feeding of Atlanta's unemployed.

In former years the city has cared for its needy through the warden's office, but the growth in unemployment during the first two years of the depression made it necessary to create a new group to secure, cook and dispense food to thousands of men, women and children each day.

Under the direction of the committee appointed by the mayor, the auditorium annex was turned into a great dining hall, being equipped with tables and benches furnished by the park department. Ranges, heaters, office furniture, telephones, lights, heat and other necessities were furnished free by Atlanta corporations at the request of the committee.

Seven hundred and fifty loaves of bread per day were donated by the baking companies of the city and the commission houses and grocery stores made regular contributions of food of all kinds. Such purchases as were necessary were made at prices far below the average.

A dormitory was furnished with army cots and blankets secured from Fort McPherson.

The tremendous task faced by this committee is revealed by the report that during the month of November 103,892 meals were served to hungry men, women and children. These meals, well balanced and well cooked, cost on the average less than one cent each.

Federal figures on the cost of feeding the destitute throughout the country show that various cities are paying from 5 to 15 cents per meal, figures that attest the earnestness and efficiency with which the committee, under the able leadership of Alderman Beck, went about its duties.

Such a record of service could have been set up only through an outstanding realization of responsibility, and Alderman Beck and the other members of the committee are entitled to the deep appreciation of the people of the city for their splendid efforts.

ADVICE TO ATHLETES.

Many football coaches gave to their men to read this season a recent magazine article by Benny Friedman, now one of the greatest professional players and a former All-American star at Michigan.

It contained some of the most significant statements ever written about football. It presented a remedy for one of the features which attracts some unfavorable comment.

It was in the nature of advice to the star football player especially and to all football players in general. It dealt with the future of the player in life after college. And for his example Friedman chose not a theory but himself.

Friedman defended football as the greatest of games, one which enabled a young man to make contacts, which taught him discipline, the value of team play and of co-operation and decency.

He had no criticism to make of football. But he had much criticism to make of the young men who carry football on with them after college.

Friedman pointed to himself as an example. "After ten years I am making about $10,000 a year playing professional football," he said. "But this can, at best, go on for only a year or so more. And then I will be left exactly where the fellows who graduated when I did were when they got their diplomas. They will have gone ahead in some profession or in business. Their ten years will have established them. I will be starting ten years behind them."

Friedman advised all football players to forget all thoughts of football after college. He warned against trying to "cash in" on a football reputation.

Graduate and go to work was the thesis which Friedman advanced. He advised going to work and sticking to the job no matter how little it paid. Because, he said, it will develop and pay money when football reputations are worthless and gone.

Much of the criticism that has been leveled at football has come because of the failure of many of the outstanding stars of the game whose national publicity made them national figures. They failed largely because of stability of position.

Plain John Smith might fail for the dozens and no one be the wiser. But the football star remains public property. Hence the wisdom of the coaches in having their young men read the advice, which was to forget all athletics, get a job and stick to it.

PARK HIGHWAY ASSURED.

A mountain highway, second in scenic beauty to none in the United States, is assured from Washington through Virginia and North Carolina almost to the Georgia line, through the announcement of the public works administration of the appropriation of $4,000,000 for the construction of the national parkway drive connecting the Shenandoah park in Virginia with the Great Smoky Mountain park in North Carolina and Tennessee.

The new highway will be approximately 350 miles long and will connect highways already existing in the Shenandoah and Great Smoky parks. It will have a right-of-way of 200 feet and will be higher in altitude than any other highway of comparable length in the country.

The development of this highway is another step in the federal program for the development of national parks and forest reserves in the eastern part of the country on an equality with those of the west.

All of the great national parks first created by the federal government were located in the far west. They are inconvenient of access to the large majority of the population of the country which lives east of the Mississippi river.

Just the opposite is true of the Great Smoky park, one of the largest to be created, which is within overnight ride of two-thirds of the population of the country. When the program of development of this park now going forward is completed it will furnish to the territory east of the Mississippi the same park facilities that have existed for many years in the western part of the country.

A HAPPY SUGGESTION.

Appearing Saturday before a meeting of the Uncle Remus Memorial Association, Dr. M. L. Brittain, president of the Georgia School of Technology, suggested the erection of a monument commemorative of the life and works of Joel Chandler Harris. Report of the meeting appears elsewhere in this issue.

Citing that the beloved writer of the Uncle Remus stories "did more to bring this city and state to the attention of the world than have accomplished through the material wealth we have gathered together in this generation," Dr. Brittain points out that such a memorial would be in keeping with those erected in honor of noted writers in other countries.

He calls attention to the fact that in a park in the heart of Madrid is a memorial in honor of Cervantes which contains not only a marble statue of this noted Spanish writer but of his characters as well—Don Quixote to be seen on Rozinante and Sancho Panza appearing with his donkey.

A memorial containing the figures of Joel Chandler Harris, Uncle Remus, Brer Rabbit and Brer Fox would be a fitting and everlasting monument to the genius of the Georgian which won world-wide recognition.

The book of the future will have a washable cover, says a London publisher. That's about the only way modern literature may be kept clean.

Washington is not what it used to be, says Mrs. Dolly Gann. No, Mrs. Gann once caused some worry about where to be seated; now they will not give her standing room.

The nose of the Statue of Liberty is four feet and six inches long. Liberty should always win by a nose.

Human nature is so constituted that you seldom hear of a person refusing to accept undeserved praise.

The things that you do not want are usually the kind that come the easiest.

Maybe it's a good thing some people do not preach what they practice.

Wouldn't it be a fine thing if stop signs could be attached to the mouths of people?

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN.

Secret Documents.

A tremendous sensation was caused in France and throughout Europe a few weeks ago by the publication in a prominent and always scrupulously careful newspaper, Le Petit Parisien, owned by the Dupuy family, of a set of secret instructions supposed to have sent out to Nazi agents abroad. The long and short of the document was that Nazi agents were instructed to talk peace as much as possible abroad, in newspapers, speeches, books and magazines, so that Hitler and his government would be free to pursue their aim of arming Germany for war purposes. The German government repudiated the document, said it had never issued anything of the kind and challenged the Parisian newspaper to publish a photostatic copy of the original.

It now transpires that the documents which laid bare the Nazi program, was obtained by the Petit Parisien from a German diplomat in a distant post. This man was specifically instructed to corrupt the press in his locality. But the German government was right in disclaiming responsibility for it. Indeed, it was not the government itself, but the Nazi propaganda bureau headed by Herr Rosenberg who sent out those instructions.

There may not be much difference between the Nazi propaganda bureau and the German government. There is enough for the government to put up an indignant front and to deny responsibility. Hitler was on sure ground when he made the denial. The following day he had his first interview with a French journalist, M. Brinon, of the Matin, who was told that Herr Hitler wants nothing but peace with France, thus confirming the tactics of talking peace and preparing for war.

Jeweled Idols.

Thieves have just raided the famous Temple of Dakshi Neshwar, near Calcutta and stripped the idol of Kali, the Hindu goddess of destruction, of jewels worth a round hundred thousand dollars. The jewels stolen included a gold crown, a pearl necklace, a number of gold ornaments in the shape of human heads and a jewel-encrusted sacrificial knife. The goddess Kali is credited with unusual powers, and the numerous idols maintained through the country have always been considered safe from vandalism.

So terrible is the vengeance of Kali supposed to be that nobody has ever dared to approach her idols within 10 feet, let alone touch them. Consequently temple priests have only placed perfunctory guards over the idols under the guise of religious observance. The jewels in the Dakshi Temple, dispatches inform us, were venerated by millions of Hindus.

The Goddess Kali, is known as the "Dark Mother" and is depicted as black, four-armed, with matted hair and fang-like teeth. She wears a necklace of skulls and a girdle of snakes. Her sacrifices are made to her until the British stopped that business. Goats now take the place of humans one night a year, the darkest night in November, when thousands of goats are immolated on the gory altars of Kali. Her emblem is the swastika.

Scotch and Water.

The Daily Telegraph reports as follows: "Scotsmen are the greatest consumers of water in Great Britain! They lead by example of gallantry per head—but they use it primarily for washing."

The implication of this joke is that the Scotch don't drink any of their water. What a Scotsman would complain of is that the Daily Telegraph has deliberately ignored a time-honored tradition of the English press when it discovered anything out of the common about Scotsmen. For once, there is no hint of meanness. Indeed, there cannot be, for according to that paragraph the average Englishman is actually made out to be cleaner than the average Englishman, not meaner.

Aid of the Press in Law Enforcement Cited by Judge Wood

Editor Constitution: I wish to thank you for your two editorial references to the work which we are doing in the criminal court of Atlanta. John Simon's view expressed in your article on the law prohibiting the operation of automobiles on our public streets and highways by drivers while under the influence of intoxicating liquor.

In this line of matters with which the court deals, we find that the support of the newspapers is most helpful. It not only encourages officers to do their duty, but it also acts as a great deterrent to others who, without their attention being drawn to the seriousness of offenses similar to the one in question, are often careless and thoughtless with reference to the observance of the law.

I greatly appreciate your kind reference to our work.

JESSE M. WOOD,
Judge, Criminal Court of Atlanta,

Mississippi Valley Body Voices Strong Opposition To St. Lawrence Treaty

Editor Constitution: Strong delegations, representing 21 Mississippi valley states, unanimously adopted the following declaration re the St. Lawrence treaty at the Mississippi Valley Association convention, St. Louis, November 27-28.

In the main, the press reports merely referred to the damnable device, for that reason I am quoting the action here with:

"We reaffirm in principle our faith in the people of the St. Lawrence valley. We oppose the ratification of the St. Lawrence treaty now pending before the United States senate, until its inequities shall have been corrected; until American citizens have been protected; until the markets for American agriculture and industry shall have been made secure; until gains to American labor by American money go to American labor and American sovereignty over Lake Michigan is preserved."

WALTER PARKER,
New Orleans, La.,
December 8, 1933.

A Requiem

"The Christmas in the southland,
The Christmas, blow;
The dear, old sunny southland,
Blow winds, blow;
But reverently and softly
For in the dear old southland Slept the 'man in gray.'"
His faded flag around him,
His shield upon his breast,
And living hearts about him;
His soul's at rest.

Then reverently and softly,
Soft and low,
A requiem for Blow winds, blow.
—KATE P. FLEMING.

That Stolen-Apple Flavor Is Gone

Everyday Questions

BY DR. R. PARKER CADMAN.

Glens Falls, N. Y.
Don't you agree that youth should have its chance? Some of the older folks around me are always finding fault because I advocate this idea.

Certainly youth should never be afraid of life nor cease to find in its early outlook all the possible dimensions which cultivate character and deep-seated satisfaction. But don't burn the candle at both ends nor waste precious powers on worthless pursuits and fugitive objectives. The simple truth is that youth does not last, and if artificially stimulated it is apt to make a fool of the older people who have never matured are just ripe fruit—that and nothing else.

At 30 to 40 you will move into a new phase of life from which there is no escape because nature does the moving. The shining candles built in the sands of youth will disappear under the tide of time. The exuberant hours must give place to those of calm reflection. The first fine careless raptures have to subside. If you have employed their golden opportunities to evaluate rightly what you are and for what you are intended, an honorable age beckons you on; and will make your mature period more enjoyable than your changeless springtime.

Those who cannot feel the bliss of growing older and nearing the great adventure beyond are the souls who wasted youth in frivolous pastimes and in foolish or illicit pleasures. So dance, laugh and sing as merrily as the Maytime birds. But never forget that now is your golden chance to store up memories and cultivate habits which will illuminate your coming years.

Of all the brutal aspects of war I consider bombing by airplanes the worst. Cannot the nations abandon it by common consent? They have attempted to do so, and the probabilities are that eventually aerial bombing will be abolished. Sir John Simon's view expressed in 1923 that such indiscriminate destruction is a reversion to the cruelties of the Middle Ages does gross injustice to the period. No ferocious invention of the demands of armed conflict equal the rain of high explosive missiles out of sky. It is as though hell had captured the heavens.

The reservation Great Britain asked for at the disarmament conference is that this detestable practice should be reserved for police purposes in remote regions of rebellion. Doubtless distant tribes on the frontiers of the British empire can be kept in order more speedily, efficiently and cheaply by a small air force than by the dispatch and maintenance of costly land expeditions. But what of it? After admitting all the apologists for the use of air force have claimed the total abandonment of bombing from the air is of such vital importance to the world as to outweigh all other considerations of effectiveness in Iraq, India or anywhere else.

No country on earth has suffered a greater diminution of its resources than Great Britain by reason of the introduction of armed conflict in the air. Its "invincible streak" of blue sea is negligible so long as airships are in the air. Here London in a few hours, it would seem, would be reduced to a heap of ruins. It is infinitely more important to keep the aerial realm free of this damnable device, and for all other countries, including our own, to do the same.

Holds Sale of Fi. Fas. By City Not Necessary

Editor Constitution: There is no reason for the city to issue "scrip" to pay city employees or school teachers.

The federal reserve act provides "the banks have power to make loans to state, county and city or any municipal division thereof on six-month warrants in anticipation of collection of taxes."

In face of this law, why should the city pay off employees and school teachers in scrip, which they must discount in trade. "Scrip" is only "warrants" payable when taxes come in. It is horrible to sell tax fi. fas. on homes and close out their owners to "money sharks," when a delay of six months by federal bank loans under President Roosevelt's recovery plans will save them.

Cotton Committee Expresses Thanks For Aid Rendered by The Constitution

Editor Constitution: If men, as well as organizations would show appreciation we would have a happier world. I am writing to thank you sincerely for your gracious reception and aid given members of this committee, Commissioner of Agriculture Adams, and Director of Extension Harry L. Brown, when we called on you sometime ago, asking your interest and aid in promoting the plan advanced by the American Cotton Cooperative Association, and the Georgia Cotton Growers' Association, for aiding and relieving cotton farmers.

In less than 30 days from the time the first article was published in The Constitution the government decided to put into effect at once the loan of 4 cents per pound of cotton, holding options on more than 2,000,000 bales of cotton.

I feel that The Constitution deserves not only our thanks, but those of farmers and all possible interests of the south.

I have received nearly 1,000 clippings from newspapers in the cotton belt commending the government for granting this benefit to the south. Our committee continues its organization for rendering further aid as opportunity offers.

JOHN A. MANGET,
Chairman, Georgia Farity Price Committee for Cotton,
Atlanta, Ga., Dec. 8, 1933.

The Awakening Prayer (Dedicated to America)

O God, we know Thy hand is power;
Thyself alone we live alone.
Thy word is the backbone of Thy throne,
Thy will is all above.

Dear Lord, we once were filled with pride
And thought we'd live alone.
Thou hast the children—there are a guide—
Our wrongs you're surely aware.

Dear God, forgive and let us show
How much of Thee we need.
And feed the children—there are a guide—
To know not of our greed.

Dealers Ready For Annual Meeting Today

The annual report of retiring President B. V. Stodghill to the annual meeting of the National Automobile Dealers Association Friday evening, December 15, Atlanta Athletic Club, will feature, among other things, legislative work, city tax matters, traffic and parking matters, city drivers' license laws, work of the association in connection with the NRA, membership in the National Automobile Dealers' Association, membership meetings, connection with the Atlanta Retail Merchants' Association, contact with other business and civic associations, daily new car registration lists, protective features, personal service to members, cooperation received from the Atlanta newspapers, and financial condition of the association.

During the business session which will start promptly at 8 p. m., officers and directors will be nominated and elected for 1934.

Following the brief business session a banquet will be served, accompanied by a program of musical and song numbers. Immediately following the service of the dinner and elaborate entertainment program will be put on under the direction of Al Belle Isle, chairman of this feature.

Ford Introduces New Line of Cars For Coming Year

DETROIT, Mich., Dec. 9.—The new Ford V-8 for 1934 is on display in more than 7,000 Ford dealerships throughout the United States. Edsel B. Ford, president of the Ford Motor Company, announced Saturday.

As revealed here by Henry Ford and his son to several newspaper correspondents, special writers and photographers, the new Ford has greater power, more speed, quicker acceleration, smoother performance, more miles per gallon, especially at higher speeds, and quicker starting in cold weather, plus refined body lines and a new built-in system of clear-ventilation body ventilation.

The improvements in engine performance are the result of the use of a new dual carburetor and dual intake manifold which increase the engine's power approximately 12 per cent and provide a remarkable improvement in pickup.

"The new car is the best car the Ford Motor Company ever built," the Ford president said. "Basically, it is the same car as the hundreds of thousands of other Ford V-8s now on the road. It simply incorporates numerous improvements in engine and chassis design, the new body ventilation system and refinements in body styling and appointments which have been brought to a proper stage of development during the past year in our engineering research."

The new Ford ventilation system, which is built into the body, permits clear vision, prevents drafts and provides the desired amount of fresh air in any weather. Individual control is provided for both front and rear side windows.

When ventilation is desired the window glass is raised to the top. Then the handle is given an additional half turn. This slides the glass back horizontally to form a narrow slot between the glass and the frame. Through this slot air is drawn out by the forward motion of the car.

This simple ventilation system maintains a draft-free circulation of air and prevents fogging windshield and windows in cold or stormy weather. Both windshield and cowl ventilator can be opened to supply additional air for warm weather driving.

The distinctive lines of the Ford V-8 have been refined in the 1934 car by a newly-designed radiator shell, grille and other features. Interiors reveal new tufted upholstery and garnish moldings, a convex-type head lining, new instrument panel, arm rests, door pulls and hardware. Sun visors are provided in all closed cars, those in the de luxe cars being of swivel type to prevent glare both from the front and sides.

Fenders on de luxe cars now are in color to harmonize with the body color. Vinyl colors are optional. A new enamel finish is used on all bodies. This has greater wearing qualities, a more enduring luster and requires only washing to restore its brilliance. Bodies are of steel, electrically welded one-piece construction.

Eleven body types are available. Included are both standard and de luxe types of the Tudor, Fordor, 5-window coupe, the de luxe roadster, phaeton and 3-window coupe, as well as the cabriolet and victoria. The victoria body has been newly designed, to afford additional room and storage. A large luggage compartment is provided in the rear.

All body types are equipped with safety glass windshields, while the de luxe body types are fitted with safety glass throughout.

The new carburetor system and other engine refinements not only give better gasoline economy, but also insure smoother operation at all speeds and particularly at normal driving speeds. With the new carburetor is used a dual intake manifold, which divides the varied gasoline equally to each cylinder, very materially improving engine performance and providing quicker starting in cold weather. Gasoline economy is increased two or three miles per gallon. Test runs show that the new engine will give 20 miles per gallon at 45 miles an hour.

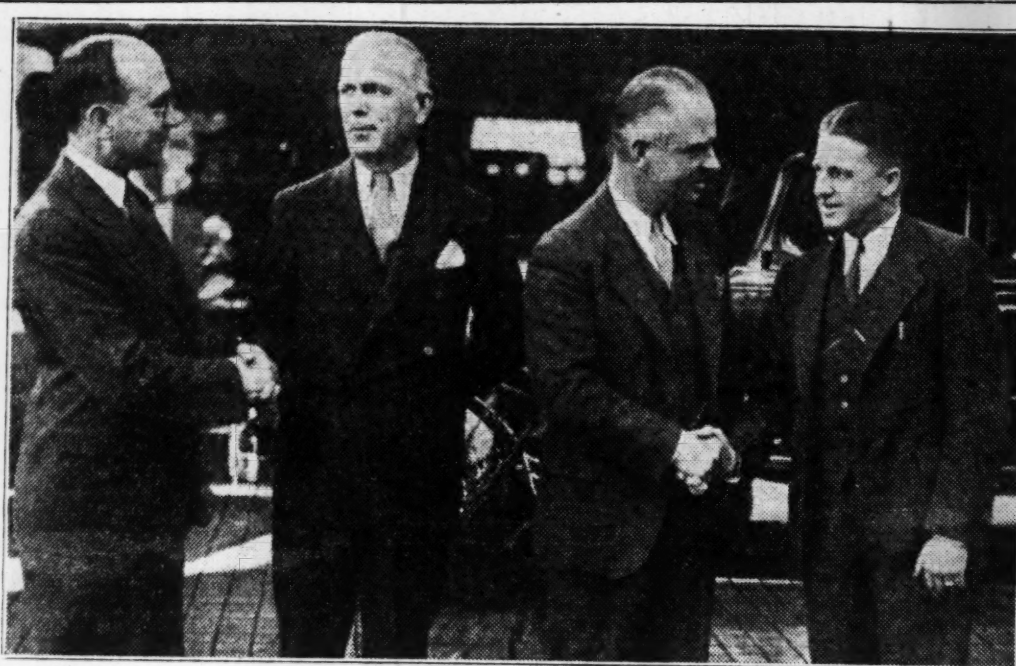

Ford spring design takes advantage of the principle of the transverse spring. It provides the utmost stability and safety, the practical minimum of unsprung weight with the least possible frame distortion. The Ford spring design tends to prevent the body from tilting on uneven roads. Owners can be taken safely at relatively high speeds.

Both front and rear springs are placed crosswise. This transverse design permits free and easy action of all four wheels, because the springs are attached to the axle at the outer flexible tips. This type of construction retains the important advantages of the solid axle and yet minimizes road shocks transmitted to the frame and body because the shocks are absorbed first by the most sensitive part of the spring.

The rear spring on the 1934 car has been redesigned to provide smoother riding. Improved double-acting hydraulic shock absorbers which act independently of weather or road surface conditions are used. Best cushions have deeper, softer springs. New type individual bucket seats are used in the Tudor.

Driving ease also has been increased by the use of new 15-to-1 steering gear ratio. The frame is of the double X-type, with the X member running to the rear of the frame to give greater strength. Brakes of the mechanical type with 160 square inches of braking surface. Other features of the chassis are a silent

New Men Welcomed to Boomershire Staff

Atlanta Ford Dealers Inspect New Cars

Gets First Ford Order

Ernest G. Beaudry, president of the Ernest G. Beaudry Motor Company, popular Atlanta Ford dealer, is shown looking over the first order placed in the Atlanta territory for a new 1934 Ford. This order was given to Mr. Beaudry several weeks ago by the Southern Cultivator and calls for delivery of a 1934 Ford V-8 Tudor to be delivered at the conclusion of a contest they are now conducting.

Chevrolet Starts Production On Nineteen-Thirty-Four Models

Chevrolet is now in production on new 1934 models as the beginning of next year's program. M. E. Corle, general manager of the Chevrolet Motor Company, announced today.

Employment is nearly normal in the large plant in Detroit, the foundry in Saginaw and the carburetor and die casting plant in Bay City. The other manufacturing plants located in Flint, Detroit and Toledo have already half their regular employees back at work and the production at the various assembly plants is starting slowly.

"We are, however, fully staffed with our regular employees, who are being summoned back to work as needed," Mr. Corle stated.

Radical styling and engineering changes, with increased speed and economy, are promised. Independent front wheel suspension, providing a cushion ride with "knee action" springs, recently announced for all new General Motors models by President Alfred P. Sloan Jr., will help make the 1934 Chevrolet the most extensively improved annual model since the car was stepped up to six cylinders in 1928, according to the Chevrolet executive.

"Manufacturing operations are being pushed ahead with all possible dispatch to get a full quota of regular Chevrolet employees on the pay rolls with a minimum of delay," Mr. Corle stated. "As soon as sufficient display cars to stock the company's 10,000 domestic dealers are in the field the public showing will be held," he said.

In the first 10 months of 1933 the synchronizing transmission, torque tube drive, three-quarter front axle, one-piece welded steel spoke wheels and 17x5.50 tires.

Dodge Sales Stay Up, Reports General Manager

There is little doubt now that the Dodge dealer organization is firmly set to establish the all-time record for sustained late-season sales activity—and that the car-buying public is supporting the effort in a manner that must be as pleasing to Dodge factory executives as it is significant to the industry at large.

The week ending November 25 is the latest example of the condition that keeps Dodge dealers' showrooms open and salesmen busy at a time of the year when automobile sales, in former years, were few, and in a relative sense far between.

Anyway, the news is that for the week ending November 25 Dodge dealers have so far reported 3,933 retail deliveries for the first 25 days of November, 1933, and the week ending November 25, 1932, shows an increase in Dodge passenger car sales of 48.2 per cent, in Plymouth sales of 48.2 per cent, and in Dodge truck sales of 70.1 per cent.

"A lot of people," Mr. vanDerZee says in his weekly survey, "are still looking to us for an explanation of why it is that Dodge dealers, at this time, continue both passenger car and truck sales in satisfactory volume. The explanation is really simply: the dealers and their salesmen can give it as authentically as we here at the factory. Intelligently directed sales effort has something to do with it, no doubt. But there is another element which is to the credit of the engineers who have a hand in shaping our products from year to year—who took care to incorporate in our present models an array of mechanical and comfort features that were not found this year in other makes—and will not be found in the majority of cars the public will be asked to buy in 1934."

"I am not going to encroach on editorial courtesy by listing those features for publication; that is the function of Dodge advertising—intentionally a function that every Dodge dealer and salesman will assume with pleasure. What I am trying to drive home is that automobile buyers are learning to put certain performance and mechanical considerations ahead of the mere question of vintage. Our dealers' sales certainly bear me out in this opinion."

BILT-MORE PACKERS RESUME BUSINESS

J. T. and W. F. Turner, originators of the Bilt-More Packing Company, manufacturers of Bilt-More brand Brunswick stews, have reorganized the company and expect to have Bilt-More brand stews back on the market in the near future.

Six Hundred Attend Meeting To Hear Auto Code Explained

The interest manifested by dealers and salesmen in the automobile dealers' code, which recently went into effect, and the wholehearted co-operation they are giving this part of President Roosevelt's plan for recovery is evidenced by the fact that nearly 100 dealers and 500 salesmen from the Atlanta district attended a meeting last Monday evening to hear an explanation of the advantages of the code to the public, the salesman and the dealer.

The automobile dealers' code has been hailed throughout the country as one of the finest codes developed under the NRA. It is absolutely fair to the public, the salesman and the dealer, as is evidenced by the fact that within a comparatively few days after the code was filed at Washington, and a hearing held, at which the code was ably represented by the consumers' advisory board, the code was approved by General Johnson and forwarded to President Roosevelt, who promptly affixed his signature.

The code provides for administration by the industry, and in line with its provisions a district executive committee has been set up to administer the code in the Atlanta district; the committee being headed by J. M. Harrison, of Atlanta, with 13 other dealers from Atlanta and surrounding territory serving with him. The dealers in this district are co-operating wholeheartedly in putting the code into effect, having increased wages and shortened hours, as provided by the code, and having put their salesmen on a guaranteed drawing account, which is another requirement.

The automobile dealers' code is strictly in line with the aims of the NRA, some of which are to eliminate unfair, cut-throat competition, giving business a chance to operate at a reasonable profit and thus be able to pay decent, living wages to employees.

Perhaps the section of the code of greatest interest to the public is that pertaining to used car allowances. No fairer plan than this provided in the code for arriving at used car allowances could have been devised. The following statement by Mr. Vesper, president of the National Automobile Dealers' Association, along this line is of interest: "Students in economics consider the method of establishing definite trade-in allowances on used cars, as provided under the code as being of great benefit not only to the trade, but a guarantee of protection and ultimate benefit to the automobile buyer. The new automobile buyer, in the future, will know exactly what he is paying for a new car. Control of allowances that dealers may make for used car trade-ins does not impose any hardship upon the buyer. On the contrary, code provisions definitely protect the buyer. Take, for example, the method of pricing his old car. It assures him that he will get its real value. The price is determined by previous sales of cars identical as to make, year, model and type. The allowance price will be an average of what these similar cars sold for during the preceding 30 or 60-day period. However, before averaging these sales, the 20 per cent that sold at the lowest prices are eliminated. The restraining hand of the representative of the consumers in the NRA deliberations, is plainly discernible in the safeguarding this routine sets up to protect the car buyer's interests."

"Hereafter, there will be three major considerations for the buyer in making his purchase—the merit of the car, the price, and its value at the price. Inflation for trading purposes are bound to be eliminated. The basis of trading will be much fairer to the buyer than before, because in the past he had no way of knowing how the new car should be priced, nor how the trade-in deal was figured. This is a new deal for the buyer, one much more sound and one which would seem to be infinitely more satisfactory to him."

GATE CITY COUNCIL NAMES NEW OFFICERS

Annual roll call of members and election of officers for the ensuing term featured the meeting of Gate City Council, Junior Order United American Mechanics, Friday night. In addition to the regular order of business a short program and smoker was given in honor of Judge E. D. Thomas, state councillor.

The following officers were elected: C. V. Jordan, junior past councillor; R. Q. Gunter, councillor; R. M. Knight, vice councillor; J. H. King, recording secretary; W. A. Duke, assistant recording secretary; R. M. Mitchell Jr., treasurer; J. B. Brad-

Dormitory Burns

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Dec. 9.—(P)—Fire of undetermined origin last night partly destroyed the 12th James Hall girls' dormitory, one of the largest buildings on the campus of Tuskegee Institute, with a damage estimated at $50,000.

Mitchell Opens Used Car Lot

Mitchell Motors, Inc., used car dealers of 270 Peachtree street, have opened a used car lot on Spring street directly behind their showroom. This gives the company a large location, extending through from Peachtree to Spring streets.

'Freckles' Entertains Children

"Freckles," nationally famous chimpanzee, which can be seen daily at Sears, Roebuck & Co., takes an afternoon off and entertains the kiddies at the Shrine Hospital for Crippled Children. Freckles has appeared in many motion pictures. He will be at Sears until Christmas, and his first performance is at 11 a. m. daily.

On the Air Today

CHURCHES—"The Heart of Religion" will be the topic discussed by Dr. Witherspoon Dodge during his Radio Church broadcast over WGST at 10 a. m. He will be followed by a half-hour of religious music from the Salt Lake City choir and organ. At 11 o'clock Dr. Felton Williams will be heard from the Wesley Memorial church on "The Omnipotence of the Unseen."

PHILHARMONIC—Ossip Gabrilowitsch, distinguished pianist-conductor, will be the guest of the New York Philharmonic concert, which will be broadcast over the Columbia system and WGST this afternoon from 2 to 4 o'clock. He will offer the Mozart concerto in D minor and Weber's "Concertino" for piano and orchestra while the orchestra under the direction of Bruno Walter, who will direct his last concert of the year on this date, will perform works from the same composers.

NEWS OFFICE—Interesting happenings in a newspaper office that the public doesn't hear about will be recounted by Roy Robert, of The Constitution staff, during the "Santa Claus in Blue" broadcast over WJTL this afternoon at 6 o'clock.

AMERICAN REVUE—Ethel Waters will feature hits from "As Thousands Cheer" during her portion of the "American Revue" program this evening at 8 o'clock. Co-starred with Miss Waters are George Beatty and Jack Denny and orchestra. The program is on WGST.

"DEAU IDEAL"—Another episode in the career of Jeb Stuart, Confederate leader in the War Between the States, will mark the "Roses and Drums" broadcast this afternoon over a Columbia network and WGST at 4 o'clock. The romantic adventures of Betty Graham, charming Confederate spy, and Captain Wright, of the north, will be continued.

SEVEN-STAR REVUE—Nino Martin's interpretation of the Tosti serenade, "O Dolce Meraviglia," Jane Froman's rendition of "Washington Blues," and Erno Rapee's orchestral reading of "Turkey in the Straw" will be highlights on the WGST program from 8 to 9 o'clock this evening.

DRAMA—One of Joseph Conrad's most exciting stories, "The Duel," will be presented in play form by the Columbia Drama Guild during their broadcast over WGST tonight at 7:30 o'clock.

JEFFERSON STANDARD Reports an Increase

The Jefferson Standard Life Insurance Company, of New York, has reported a 10 per cent increase in its net income for the year ending December 31, 1933.

In addition, the Big Bethel choir has been drafted for a special program of Christmas carols in addition to the spirituals for which they are so well known.

Every cent taken in will go to the Christmas fund of the Legion.

Tickets are being sold by Legion members who hope to tax the tremendous seating capacity of the auditorium. The fact that tickets for children sell at only 15 cents, with those for adults at 25 cents, makes it possible to secure blocks of tickets for distribution at no great expense.

Governor Thawley and his official staff, attired in full regalia, will attend in a body. The governor has agreed to make a talk on "The Spirit of Christmas."

Christian Churches Will Hold One-Day Convention Dec. 15

The annual one-day convention of the Christian churches of this district of Georgia will be held at the First Christian church Friday, December 15, with sessions at 10 o'clock, 1:30 o'clock and a fellowship supper at 6:30 o'clock. Rev. C. H. Stauffer, pastor of the participating church, is chairman of the promotional committee which has arranged the details of the convention.

The team leader for the day will be Miss Anna M. Clark, of the United Christian Missionary Society, who is doing a splendid work among the girls' circles of the local church organization. The theme of the convention will be "Christ, the Pioneer of Life." H. Gray Russell, who has been a missionary to Africa for the Disciples of Christ since 1924, will make several addresses throughout the day. Rev. Robert Burns, of the Peachtree Christian church, will deliver an address as district speaker. Mrs. H. C. Phillips, of the First church, will deliver an address on "Sixty Years of Pioneering." Mrs. L. O. Turner, of the Decatur Christian church, will conduct the conference for women in the afternoon. Rev. Howard Matheny, pastor of the Longley Avenue Christian church, will deliver a message on state missions.

The women of First church will serve a complimentary luncheon at noon. In the evening they will serve a fellowship supper at 6:30 o'clock. This supper will be followed with the program which will be the climax of the day when the missionary, H. Gray Russell, will speak. John Croushaw, prominent layman, will address the convention on the subject, "Turning the Tide of Missions." James Simmons, the representative of youth will speak on "Missions in Building a New World."

This is the eleventh series of one-day conventions conducted by the Disciples of Christ throughout the country and one of 157 such conventions that are sponsored by the United Christian Missionary Society. In one day those attending get a world view of the Christian service they are making possible through the church.

Druid Hills Church Members To Hold Christmas Party

More than 300 members of the Druid Hills Methodist church will attend an old-fashioned Christmas party in the reception rooms of the church on Friday, December 15, at 7:30 o'clock.

The affair will assemble the adult department of the Sunday school, which is composed of five classes, the Men's Bible, Susannah Wesley, Comrades, Young Men's Business and Dr. Hugh Harris' classes. Acting as official hosts will be Colonel W. D. Thompson, superintendent of the Sunday school; Mrs. Alva G. Maxwell, superintendent adult division; Mrs. Hugh Harris, Mrs. Frank Pierson, Judge John S. Candler, Colonel W. P. Bloodworth, Clay W. Penick, Dr. Hugh Harris, Guy Coker, J. P. Barron, Robert Little, J. A. Dunaway, Miss Mary McCallough, Mrs. A. W. Horne, secretary of the adult council, and Mrs. Channing McDonald, church secretary. Mrs. Royal Camp will be in charge of decorations, while Mrs. W. L.

Campbell is chairman of the refreshment committee.

The program will feature a comedy Christmas skit, written by Mrs. Alva G. Maxwell, gifted Atlanta writer, and played by Mrs. Maxwell and Dr. W. Earl Quillian. A mammoth tree, a gift for everyone, and a real Santa will add to the festivities. Dr. and Mrs. J. B. Peters will be honor guests, as will the members of the newly organized Wesley Fellowship group.

Manchester W. M. S.

MANCHESTER, Ga., Dec. 9.—Drawing of names for circle membership featured the December meeting of the Manchester Methodist auxiliary. Installation of officers was postponed until January on account of the absence of president, vice president and pastor. Mrs. J. R. Jackson presided. A fitting Christmas devotion was given, which was emphasized by the pastor, "The Belles" bearing bulletin boards, given by Mesdames M. E. Chambers, Perry Cook, O. J. Beavers, Eugene Brown and George Powers. The souvenirs of the meeting were bells carrying the admonition, "Ring out our imperfections—ring in renewed ambitions." Chairmen for the new year are: Circle No. 1, Mrs. J. N. Johnson; Circle No. 2, Mrs. G. C. Johnson; Circle No. 3, Mrs. George Powers; No. 4, Mrs. Hook Peters.

Methodist Societies Elect Officers

First Methodist W. M. S. elected the following officers for next year: Mrs. J. P. Womble, president; Mrs. Rupert H. Fike, vice president; Mrs. T. L. Wade, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Frank Carter, recording secretary; Mrs. E. C. Jones, treasurer; Mrs. A. O. M. Gay, assistant treasurer; children's work, Mrs. John T. Patton; mission study, Miss May Allen King; literature and publicity, Mrs. J. Victor Jones; Christian social relations, Mrs. C. J. Lewis; supplies, Mrs. J. W. Clayton; local work, Mrs. V. F. Hatcher; world outlook, Mrs. R. M. Taylor.

Druid Hills Missionary Circle No. 10 held its November meeting at the home of Mrs. A. W. Dahlberg on Gordon street. Mrs. W. L. McCord presided in the absence of Mrs. N. E. Morgan, chairman. Mrs. McCord gave a very interesting talk on the devotional reading. An article on stewardship was given by Mrs. J. C. Brown. Mrs. J. C. Postell gave a message on prayer. Among those present were Mesdames J. C. Brown, R. D. Bame, L. S. Tatum, C. A. Jarrell, J. C. Postell, W. T. Buchanan, J. L. McCord, A. W. Dahlberg, Misses Augusta Roselyn and Katie Fenton.

Thirty-four ladies enjoyed the hospitality of Mrs. C. Nat Wallace, who entertained Tuesday at her home on Westwood avenue for Circle 8 of Park Street W. M. S. Mrs. R. T. Connolly and Mrs. J. O. Hardwick were visitors. Mrs. J. J. Rivers, chairman, presided and Mrs. Frank Jones gave the devotion. Mrs. D. M. Therrell completed the year's study of the book of Mark. In reviewing the work for the year, Mrs. Rivers thanked the chairman and members for untiring efforts in putting through a constructive program. Mrs. J. H. Merritt, co-chairman, paid tribute to Mrs. Rivers and in behalf of the circle members presented the chairman with a silver vase. Gifts were brought for the underprivileged child sponsored by the circle. A Bible contest was enjoyed. The January meeting will be held with Mrs. Rivers, the date to be announced later.

The feature of the meeting of the Park Street Methodist Women's Missionary auxiliary was Mrs. D. M. Therrell's talk regarding the "Harmonious Life." Mrs. Therrell was formerly president of the society. The treasurer, Mrs. Luther Medlock, reported that proceeds from the silver tea and from the love offering netted $35.50, which will go to the Day of Prayer special, Paine College, in Augusta, and Stevenson Memorial hospital, Changchow, China. Valuable suggestions were given Christmas shoppers. The World Outlook, an interesting mission monthly magazine, was pointed out to be a lasting and reasonably priced gift. On Tuesday, December 19, the early shoppers may secure a delicious turkey luncheon at Storch's lunchroom for 25 cents, sponsored by members of Mrs. Earl Rhoads' circle. The publicity superintendent, Mrs. William Burns Tucker, took the members of the auxiliary on an imaginary trip to points of missionary interest, bringing out the news in an original manner. The entire list of officers as suggested by the nominating committee, Mrs. J. H. Savage, Mrs. R. L. Ramsey, and Mrs. Warren Bradley, was approved and voted on. The new officers will be installed at the January meeting on the second Monday. Circle chairmen were requested to bring written reports of the year's activities of their circle to this meeting on January 8. An executive meeting was called by the president, Mrs. R. M. Brandon, to meet on Thursday morning at 10 o'clock on December 21 and all retiring and newly elected officers and circle chairmen are requested to be present. Mrs. W. M. Dugger's circle received recognition as having the best attendance during the year at the missionary meetings.

W. M. S. of Inman Park Methodist church met Monday at the church, Mrs. Clarence Bell presiding. The 107th Psalm was used for the scripture reading by Mrs. Bell. The organization of a young woman's circle was announced, with Miss Alice DeJarnett, chairman; Miss Anne Bell, co-chairman. Mrs. J. I. Allman suggested that the society finance the

Every SundayTECH HIGH HAS OPEN HOUSE ON THURSDAY

Twelve seniors of Tech High were asked to attend a meeting at Dr. W. L. A. Sutton's office last Tuesday morning. The talks were very interesting and gave the students a present something of great importance to think about. The twelve most outstanding seniors of each of the Atlanta high schools were asked to attend. There are to be more of these meetings in the future.

Tech High will hold open house Thursday, December 14. The orchestra and glee club will give a concert. All shows and a great many class rooms will be open and in part operation. Speeches will be made by the public speaking class. Representative work will be shown by the English, drawing and history departments. This will be the third exhibit of this kind in the history of the school.

The Tech High band sponsored a dance last Tuesday night at the Shrine mosque. They are trying to make money for their annual trip. The music was furnished by the well-known Dixie Blue Boys.

JOE RYMSKI.

OPPORTUNITY SCHOOL BEGINS TWO CLASSES

The Atlanta Opportunity school has formally begun two new classes for its present students and outsiders interested in the respective classes.

The military department, under the direction of Mrs. Swearingen, has begun a new class of unit. The students have started the making of men's ties. The ties will be made to sell or give as presents.

The second class is one of bundle wrapping. There will be two sessions, under the direction of Mrs. Kitchens, at 10:30 a. m. and 12:15 p. m. This class will be open for out-of-school children, who can enter free of registration fee, for it is a short but intensive course. This class will be very helpful to those who receive no placement during the coming season.

Mrs. Swearingen's military class have made plans for a Christmas tree party, honoring its sponsors, Major R. J. Quinn and H. H. Miller.

The school will sponsor a benefit bridge party at Rich's tea room Thursday, December 14. The tickets will be 25 cents and all alumni are cordially invited.

VIRGINIA GARRISON.

MORELAND HAS PUPILS
MAKE CHRISTMAS TOYS

Low 1-2 has had 100 per cent in making every week since the opening of school.

High 1 is making toys for a toy shop for Christmas.

Low 3 made snow globes to send with their Thanksgiving offering. They also made health books to send to Miss Graves.

The mothers and daddies of Low 4-2 received a lovely surprise when they came to the daddies' meeting last Tuesday night; for they each received beautiful baskets of fruit which the children made.

Low 6-1 was delighted to win the P. T. A. prize at the daddies' meeting Tuesday night.

Each child in High 6 wrote a Thanksgiving letter to their sponsor, Judge Humphries.

Every class received a lovely book, the gift of the P. T. A., for Good Book Week.

Our Thanksgiving offering for the Atlanta Children's Home gave us a great deal of pleasure. We hope it gave our little friends on Hightower road a great deal of pleasure also.

CONSTANCE BAILEY.

CHILDREN OF PEEPLES
OBSERVE THANKSGIVING

The whole school enjoyed the Thanksgiving play on the Low 5-1 and Low 5-2 put on Wednesday. The stage was made very attractive by pumpkins and cornstuffs. They made a real Pilgrim fireplace, a Pilgrim spinning wheel and a Pilgrim log benches were used. There were also chairs, gowns and three-legged stools. The children were all in costume.

Joe Burton sang a beautiful song of Thanksgiving. Original poems were read by a number of pupils from both classes.

After the Lord's Prayer, the class sang "America." Patricia Smith read a poem called the "Land of the Pilgrims."

A Thanksgiving pantomime was put on by both classes, and a Pilgrim "Pilgrimage" was well delivered by Virginia Murray. The classes then sang the song, "Thanksgiving Day Is Here."

Three plays were then put on: "Spartan as Teacher" was first by Low 5-1; "Four Pilgrim Maids" by Low 5-1; and "The Courtship of Miles Standish" by Low 5-1.

The last thing on the program was "America the Beautiful," a tableau.

MAKE FARM BOOKLETS

Low 1 is making booklets on farm life for seed work.

In High 1 the children took a trip to the store. They are now making a little store of their own.

For Good Book Week the pupils of High 2 enjoyed reading their favorite stories.

Low 3 are working hard on reading, arithmetic and spelling. They all hope to be promoted.

High 3 are studying Japan. They plan to make in clay the things about which they are studying.

Low 4 are taking a trip through Norway with the Vikings.

A planer's home is being furnished by Low 5.

A visit from Miss Slocum was enjoyed by High 5.

Low 6 has a Welfare Club. They pay their dues, which are $1 a week, in service, not in money.

Mrs. Watson's class have a 100 per cent in dental certificates.

JOHN MCCARTHY.

FULTON PROGRAM

The Spanish Club of North Fulton High conducted the regular chapel program on Thursday in Spanish.

The Spanish song, "La Rosita," was sung in Spanish by the following members of the club: Gloria Smith, Bill Jacobs, Albert Toney, Charles LeCraw.

They were accompanied by Bernard Ragdale.

The girls' basketball team opened its season with DuPont Hills High on Friday night. Those playing were: Forwards, Dot Brown, Sara Lewis and Roshelle Adams; substitutes, Elizabeth Travis, Matria Fouts; guards, Nell Winslow, Catherine White and Myrtle Crawford; substitutes, Mary Neal, Betsy Springer.

The P. T. A. presented the Boys' Rifle Club and the Girls' Rifle Club with a rifle each. The clubs are making excellent progress in their training.

DOLLIE MAE LOWE.

PLANNED FOR FRIDAY

Thanksgiving contributions were distributed by the Boys' High P. T. A. week before last to those people who were not able to feed and clothe themselves. The class contributing the largest donation are to be given a holiday as a reward for their efforts.

The annual Christmas exercises will be held this coming Friday at the Baptist Tabernacle. The school's best debaters and declaimers will compete for the prizes given them.

The entire school will turn out for these exercises the day before the Christmas holidays begin.

The Dramatic Club presented a very pleasing mystery drama, "The Man in the Shadow," Thursday night, December 7, in the Bass Junior High auditorium. The admission was 35 cents for students and 50 cents for adults.

JAMES KNIGHT.

RECEIVE SILK WORMS

High 6 are happy to have had a share in making a Thanksgiving offering to the crippled children's home.

They are now bringing old toys to be renewed for Christmas by the Salvation Army.

Low 6-0 were very happy to have a visit last week from their class sponsor, Miss Alice Mann.

Low 5-1 are working on Christmas gifts. They are trying to learn that the true Christmas spirit is to give and not receive.

Low 5-2 have started on their Christmas presents for their mothers and fathers. The girls are making Colonial samplers for their mothers and the boys Colonial candlesticks.

Both boys and girls will make blotters for their fathers.

High 4 are enjoying their imaginary trip to Norway. They have made some drawings of the interesting things they saw.

Low 4-0 are enjoying the beautiful aquarium and gold fish presented to us by one of the class, Wilbur Butt.

High 4-0 are decorating their room for daddies' night.

High 3-0 were very proud of the silkworm eggs and cocoons, which they received through the mail last week. A Frenchman, Monsieur Leon de Brabant.

Superintendent's Message

My dear Boys and Girls:

This will be the last letter I shall write to you before the Christmas holidays. It must, therefore, be a Christmas letter. The question I am asking today is whether or not the Christ spirit will be born afresh in the hearts of all our boys and girls. Jesus was born at Bethlehem 1,933 years ago. He was the greatest of the world's great, because His sympathies were broader. His love universal and His sacrifice supreme. Sympathy and love must be expressed in sacrifice. With His birth hope came into the world and a new star came into the sky, and the world has yet to realize the greatness of this hope and the marvelous star which makes up this constellation. Will our boys and girls let the Christ spirit be born in their lives? What is the Christ spirit? Too much for me to tell you in a short letter, but it means happiness and good cheer and hope; it means that we should serve first those that are nearest to us—our mothers, our fathers, our sisters and brothers—that we should make them happy.

Christmas is the home season; its center of interest was a baby, and a baby is loved by all the world—mother and father and sisters and brothers, grandparents and friends. So first of all, the Christmas spirit is the spirit of helpfulness, happy, so I wish for you all the happiness which this season brings.

The Christmas spirit is not only the spirit of happiness, but the spirit of helpfulness. To each of us there comes at this time the opportunity of first having happy smiles upon our faces, glad songs on our lips, and willing service in our hands. Let us exemplify this spirit of helpfulness everywhere we go.

My wish for each boy and girl at this Christmas time is that you may live a very helpful, Christ-like and, therefore, a very happy life.

Always your friend,

WILLIS A. SUTTON,

Superintendent of Schools.

COMMERCIAL SENIORS HEAR WRITER SPEAK

Commercial seniors had as their guest speaker at the assembly Thursday, Mrs. Mildred Seydell, Georgian-American columnist. Mrs. Seydell spoke on "Interviewing Celebrities."

The volley ball tournament ended Monday with A-2 winning first place, A-15 second; B-7 third, and C-1 fourth.

Atlanta High School Press Association held its November meeting at the Commercial with Roger Bond, member of the Central Night school publication staff, as speaker. His subject was "Headlines."

The literary graduates have ordered rings and invitations, and commencement plans are under discussion.

GLADYS LINDSEY.

UNCLE REMUS' BIRTH

The Joe Brown Senior Choral Club completed in the junior high choral contest Friday, December 8, "May Day Carol" and "April Song" were sung by the girls alone while the boys accompanied them in "Pilgrims Chorus" and "One Fleeting Hour."

Today at Joe Brown was held the annual Uncle Remus birthday celebration. All kinds of abandoned toys were brought in and will soon be sent to be mended and repainted.

An interesting program celebrating Uncle Remus' birthday will be held Monday in the auditorium. It will be featured by spiritual songs rendered by the choral club, speeches by the oral English department and R. L. Raper, principal of Fulton High.

Ninety-six Thanksgiving baskets were filled by Joe Brown homerooms.

BETTY MILLS.

PUPILS OF FORMWALT
WILL HONOR PARENTS

Low 3-1 has made a pretty sand table about the Wise Men.

High 3 is planning a Christmas program for the mothers.

Low 2-2 had a Thanksgiving party Wednesday. The mothers and daddies of the children were invited.

High 1-2 are very proud of the three new pictures that their teacher gave them for their room. They are called "The Boy and the Rabbit," "Indian Summer" and "Blossom Time."

High 1-1 had a splendid program last week. Low 6-2, Low 1-2 and High 1-1 won the prizes for having the highest percentage of parents present.

Low 6-1 and High kindergarten won the prizes for the paper sale. (Let's begin saving paper and magazines right now for our next paper sale.)

Low 4-1 and Low 3-2 are at the top of the attendance ladders this week. We congratulate these classes.

DOROTHY WALLACE.

MARGARET BRYAN.

KIRKWOOD CLASS HAS MAGICIAN GIVE TRICKS

"It is more blessed to give than to receive," was carried out by the children of Kirkwood in bringing their Thanksgiving offerings. They tried to make many homes happier through their contributions.

Friday night a visit from Mr. Fields, their sponsor, he brought with him Mr. J. Boehm, a magician, who gave several interesting stunts which the children enjoyed very much.

The girls in Low 5-2 are enjoying a quilting party.

Low 6 and Low 6-2 had a joint Thanksgiving program of songs, plays and poems.

High 6 elected their class officers who are: Anne Osborne, president, and Miriam Nelson, vice president.

FRANCES COFFEY.

GET CLASS AQUARIUM

High 6 pupils are studying the life of Uncle Remus. They have planned a play in honor of his birthday, December 9.

High 5 used some of their prize money to fix up the aquarium and it is quite pretty. Vera Coleman and Virginia Heard brought fish to enjoy the beautiful home.

High 4 have some pretty narcissus bulbs in bloom.

Low 1 are bringing in Georgia clippings, which they are going to put into books. They are also making health posters. They are glad to know that the health of our nation has improved in the last three years.

EVA WOMACK.

GIRLS' HIGH ELECTS
SEVEN SUPERLATIVES

In the annual celebrity contest held at Girls' High on Wednesday, November 17, the student body elected seven superlatives. They were Jean Chalmers, most representative; Margaret Hanes, most intellectual; Jane Turner, most popular; Mary Frances Bush, most attractive; Frances Roane, most athletic; Nancy Jones, most original, and Rae Miller, most lovable.

Candidates in the contest were nominated by the senior class. The entire school voted for the superlatives. Other nominees were: Lena Diamond, Virginia Evans, Martha Sells, Beville Wayble, Bonnelle Brown, Hortense Jones and Frances Kelly.

The senior bridge, sponsored each year by the yearbook, was held Saturday, December 9, at Rich's tea room. Many attractive prizes were donated by the seniors by the leading business firms of Atlanta.

BETTY MATHIS.

BASS SCHOOL ENTERS
GLEE CLUB CONTEST

Bass entered four glee clubs in the city Junior High glee contest held at O'Keefe Junior High last Friday. Mrs. Boyter has worked hard on these clubs and sent them to the contest well prepared.

Bass filled 105 Thanksgiving baskets to be distributed to many needy families. An assembly was held to display the baskets to the students and a prize was given to the most attractively decorated basket in every grade. An interesting program was also given.

Bass will hold a P. T. A. program Tuesday night. Dr. Ashley Jones will be the principal speaker and both glee clubs will sing. Bass is making a great effort to make this program a community-wide event.

COUCH CHILDREN READ
MANY LIBRARY BOOKS

All of us are sympathizing with Jean Dodd who comes to school every day with her arm in a cast. She is a very hard-working child, but when she goes home after school she plays with her brothers and her playmates. It's great fun to swing on a limb, but Jean's limb tossed her off. Better luck next time, Jean.

Jean found a serious ear trouble in this school, was the report of Mrs. B. R. Adams, director of hearing tests. Such a record deserves a Thanksgiving day all to itself.

High 2, High 3 combination class made jolly St. Nicholas out of red paper and white cotton pasted on for fur trimmings.

In Low 3 we are planning to have one of Uncle Remus' stories dramatized for the assembly Friday.

Low 5 have finished a pretty poster of colonial costumes. They were very glad to have won the P. T. A. attendance banner last week.

High 5 are making spatter work Christmas cards. They have planted larkspur and poppy seeds in the garden.

Low 6 is studying the stars.

CHRISTINE PINKSTON.

GEORGIA AVENUE GIVES PLAY ABOUT FRANKLIN

High 6 gave a play in the auditorium last Wednesday on the "Life and Public Service of Benjamin Franklin."

Lois Bough defeated Edward Reich in the 6th elections for mayor. The election was very spirited and the count was quite close. James Hobbs, Mary Ladd, Bennett, Anderson, Davis and Leon Powers were elected to council at the same time.

High 5 are decorating their room for Christmas.

High 4 had their sponsor, Mrs. Thomas Collins, as a visitor on Friday. She entertained the class with Uncle Remus stories.

Low 2 are making Christmas decorations to decorate their room.

High 1 is studying "Uncle Remus." December 9 is Joel Chandler Harris' birthday.

DAISY WRIGHT.

GERALDINE CRAIG.

INMAN CHILDREN PLAN
BIRD CHRISTMAS TREE

S. M. Inman school brought offerings of food for the Sheltering Arms Institution for Thanksgiving.

Low 1 are decorating their room for open house. They are learning some Christmas songs, too.

Maize Almon, of Low 2-2, brought a pretty bowl of narcissus to school for Thanksgiving.

High 2 are planning a tree program for part of the Christmas program. The Humane Society will present a Bird's Christmas Tree to their feathered friends.

Low 1 gave a program about Georgia and combined it with Thanksgiving, for we Georgians have so much to be thankful for.

Bride of Autumn Season

Mrs. Leo Hirsch, who was before her recent marriage Miss Bertha Klein, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Meitzer. Photograph by McCrary's studio.

Miss Barbara Ransom, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Ransom, at the left, and Miss Judy King, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. C. Spurgeon King, are listed among popular members of the season's Debutante Club and have had numerous social affairs given in their honor. Miss Ransom, who is tall and slender, possessing a decided flair for style, graduated from the fashionable Foxcroft school at Middleburg, Va., where she was an enthusiastic follower of the hounds at many of the hunts held in that section in which students of the school participated. An accomplished equestrienne, Miss Ransom is also fond of other sports and during the summer may frequently be seen swimming at the Piedmont Driving Club or at private pools. Miss King returns today from New York city after visits to several former classmates at Finch school, where she graduated last June. Possessing marked qualities of leadership, Miss King brings the advantages of experience to her office of treasurer of the Debutante Club, for she has several times served as president of her school class and has been accorded numbers of other honors by her contemporaries. Just prior to her trip to New York this deb was formally introduced at the brilliant supper-dance given at the Piedmont Driving Club by her brother and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Ben T. Smith, preceded by the afternoon reception given by Mrs. Smith. During the Christmas holidays Miss King will again forsake the debutante parties in Atlanta for a visit to Birmingham, where she will be the guest of Miss Virginia Swann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Swann. ## Mrs. Ardie Ranson Weds Mr. Sweat

The marriage of Mrs. Ardie Ranson to J. J. Sweat was beautifully solemnized Friday evening at the home of the bridegroom on Bankhead highway. A group of friends witnessed the ceremony, which is of cordial interest throughout the state. The decorations in the home featured a color motif of emerald and silver. The bride and bridegroom stood beneath a huge emerald bell suspended from a sunburst design of silver, to take the nuptial vows. The Rev. W. S. Pruitt, pastor of the Bellwood Baptist church, read the marriage service, and Professor A. B. Olsen rendered the wedding music. Miss Mary Ranson, daughter of the bride, acted as maid of honor. The bride chose for the occasion a becoming gown of Eleanor blue satin. Her flowers were a shower bouquet of rosebuds and valley lilies. Following the ceremony, a buffet supper was served. The table in the dining room was centered with a three-tiered bride's cake, embossed in orange blossoms. Mr. Sweat and his bride left for a wedding journey to Florida. After December 25 they will be at home on Bankhead highway. Mrs. Sweat wore a traveling navy blue woolen ensemble, trimmed in gray fur, and a small blue hat.

Georgia W. C. T. U. Editor Writes on Amendment Repeal

By MRS. FRANCES MEADORS BURGHARD, Macon, State Editor.

Now that the repeal of the eighteenth amendment has come, the Woman's Christian Temperance Union will look earnestly for the promised employment for the unemployed, relief for the farmer, a balanced budget, extinction of the bootlegger and rumrunner, closing of speakeasies or blind tiger, for laws to be respected and obeyed; for kidnapping to cease; for you to stop drinking and come home at the proper time, and find their parents at home; for girls to stop smoking cigarettes; for the depression to disappear, and what were those other evils prohibition was said to have caused? Well, anyway, they too, are all to be done away with by repeal—that is, if the leaders of our great nation can make John Barleycorn tell the truth.

Until that time the W. C. T. U., which will not wait until the liquor traffic quits, which has always met "with equal courage dark and light," for it has learned from past experiences that "God never will forget the man who waits for him to wait for it, it will be lit." The W. C. T. U., which has earned the title, "Organized mother love," will continue to agitate, educate and organize for God and home and every land.

The W. C. T. U. in a number of towns had special reasons for being thankful on Thanksgiving Day, since the day of the liquor traffic, "held fast" by that day. That is, they collected and paid into the state treasury as many membership dues by that date as they paid the entire last year. The national W. C. T. U. plans to celebrate the sixtieth anniversary of the historic Temperance Crusade which resulted in the organization of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, at Cleveland, Ohio, next fall, so all W. C. T. U. figures run to sixes or multiples of six this year of 1933. For instance, all members are urged to "work like sixty and win six," then repeat the performance. Ten Macon members have already become "Cleveland Six" members by gaining six new paid members this year. They are, Mrs. D. A. Warlick, president; Mrs. A. W. Voight, treasurer, and her assistants, Mesdames George Clay and George W. Smith, who $10.00 and pleasantly put over the campaign while a number of other highly publicized campaigns were in progress: Mesdames E. F. Newberry, C. N. Hudson, M. L. Odum, F. H. Rappberry, C. B. Harbour and August Burghard. They report that it has never been so easy to collect W. C. T. U. dues and win new members, and more than 50 members promise to pay later. The Columbus, Theresa Griffin W. C. T. U., with Miss Jessie Duncan, treasurer, tied with the Griffin union, Mrs. A. S. Murray, treasurer, for the $7. prize for unions of nearly 200 members.

Atlanta Tenth Ward union, Mrs. W. O. Petty, treasurer, won the $3. prize in the fifty-member contest, and Waycross Mrs. J. J. Bennett, treasurer, the $2.50 in the less than fifty class. Other unions which held fast by Thanksgiving receiving honorable mention are Cairo, Mrs. J. M. Strange, treasurer; Eastman, Mrs. G. T. McDaniel, treasurer; Atlanta, Peachtree road, Miss Annie Cameron, treasurer; Deepwater, Mrs. E. H. Hall, treasurer; Marietta, Mrs. George Moore, treasurer.

Bride Honored.

Mrs. Hal Butts, recent bride, was honored guest at a party given by Mrs. M. C. Snead, Saturday afternoon. The guests included Misses Iva Carroll, Vera Jones, Brock Jeter and Mesdames Helene Hallman, Sarah Crowley, Mary Morris, Jeanette Hudson, Vera Kellum, Margaret Allen, Roberta Barnett, Lillian Smith, M. L. Harrison, Helen Hallman, Sarah Crowley, W. R. Carpenter, Mrs. Butts and Mrs. Snead. The affair was given at the home of Mrs. Snead's mother, Mrs. Fred Beam, who assisted her daughter in entertaining.

Mrs. J. L. Beeson Issues Letter To A. R. Chapter Regents

By Mrs. Logan Carson Rader, of Macon, State Assistant Editor.

Mrs. J. L. Beeson, state chairman filing, lending historical papers, patriotic lectures and lantern slides committee, Georgia D. A. R., issues the following letter to chapter regents with the request that it be read at the December meeting of the chapter: On Thanksgiving Day the Georgia bicentennial came to its close. That does not mean that its inspiration is over or that the fine historical papers it brought forth should be folded and laid away. Let us of the Georgia D. A. R. feel the high, stern-felted beauty of plain devotedness to duty and send to the writer of this letter the fine historical articles that have been written by members of our D. A. R. chapters.

"The national society's rules must be complied with. They are: 1. All papers must first go to the state chairman. She forwards them to the regional chairman, who in turn forwards them to the national chairman. 2. Papers must be typed on one side of the paper only and margin of one and one-half inches must be left at the top, 3. Use white paper 8 1/2 x 11 inches. 4. Fasten at top of paper, using no ties or covers, as they increase weight. 5. At top of first page give name of writer, chapter, state and date of writing. 6. Two copies of each paper are required, the original and one carbon. 7. Do not send genealogical papers. Pictures and programs are not accepted.

All historical papers and patriotic lectures and lantern slides are loaned from Washington, D. C. Mrs. Flora Myers Gillette is the national chairman. Let us of Georgia strive also to win the following prizes offered by the national society D. A. R.: 1. $25 to state having the most papers accepted by the national committee. 2. $15 to state having the greatest number of papers accepted. 3. $50 to state contributing the best lecture; the award to be based upon (a) historical accuracy, (b) literary merit, (c) originality. The lecture must have pictures illustrating it. From these pictures slides will be made by the national committee. 4. $10 to the chapter having most papers accepted by the national committee. 5. $10 to the individual having the most papers accepted by the national committee.

Send to state chairman all papers that have the proper measurements, literary merit, material valuable for programs, that are free from political bias, and that are of national interest. They must be in hand by January 15; they are sent to the regional chairman by February 1, and she forwards them to the national chairman by February 10. The prices of lectures and lantern slides have been reduced to one-half of the former price.

Oglethorpe chapter, Columbus, met at the Woman's Club house, with a number of new members present. The subject of the program for the year is "What Does It Mean to Be an American?" Mrs. J. W. Schuessler gave an excellent review of "The Rise of American Civilization," by Charles and Mary Beard, as the main feature of the program. In commemoration of Armistice Day, Mrs. James Gilbert read "In Flagrante Fidei," and "America's Answer." The chapter voted to send a donation to Constitution Hall as a "birthday" gift to Mrs. Russell William Magna, president general, whose birthday was November 15. Mrs. J. D. Wadsworth, librarian, distributed copies of the D. A. R. magazine among the members. The national publicity bulletin was also brought to the attention of the chapter. A report on better films was made by the chapter chairman, Mrs. Roger Page. Among the communications read was a letter from Mrs. Henry Redding, state genealogist, complimenting the Oglethorpe chapter's year book. A request was made that each member display the flag on Armistice Day. Thirty-three members were present at the meeting and Miss Sara Tule was presented as a new member.

Miss Wheeler Weds Mr. Burke At All Saints'

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Wheeler, of Ball Ground, Ga., announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Maude Wheeler, of Ball Ground and Atlanta, to William Merlin Burke, of Thomas, Ga., the ceremony taking place in the presence of close friends yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the chapel of All Saints' Episcopal church with the Rev. Dr. W. W. Meminger officiating. A program of nuptial music was rendered by the organist, Joseph Reagan.

The bride's only attendant was Miss Myrtle Adams, who wore an attractive gown of eagle blue crepe made along modish lines. Her hat was created of velvet to match her gown and she wore a shoulder bouquet of gardenias and valley lilies.

The bride was attired in a striking gown fashioned of black chiffon velvet and she wore a becoming hat made of black velvet. She carried a beautiful bouquet of orchids. Wilbur Roundtree, of Thomaston, acted as best man.

Immediately after the ceremony Mr. Burke and his bride left for a wedding trip, after which they will return to Thomaston where they will make their home, the bridegroom being connected with the Martha Mills in that city. The bride has a wide circle of friends in Atlanta made during her residence here, where she was prominently identified with this city's music circles, being numbered among Atlanta's well-known teachers of music. For the past year she has been teaching music in Thomaston.

Miss McCarty and Mr. Mooney Wed in Columbus on Dec. 25

Of cordial interest to a wide circle of friends is the announcement made by Frank Allen McCarty of the engagement of his sister, Ora Blanche, to Daniel Wyatt Mooney. The wedding will be solemnized in Columbus, at the home of Mrs. M. D. Gill, aunt of the bride, on Christmas Day.

The lovely bride-elect is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles Clark McCarty, of Fort Valley, and through her lovely disposition and personality has endeared herself to a number of friends. Miss McCarty is descended from well-known southern families, her maternal grandparents being the late James Frank Hudson and Sarah Carr Hudson, of Columbus. On her paternal side she is a granddaughter of the late Little Allen and Hattie Clark McCarty, of Fort Valley, and a great-granddaughter of the late William Bluff McCarty. She is a great-niece of Dr. Walter Clarke, of Columbus, a niece of Miss Mary Flowers, of Atlanta, and a sister of Frank Allen McCarty, Charles Hudson McCarty and Sarah Elizabeth McCarty, of Columbus. She is a graduate of Lanier High School and Gordon College, later attending the University of Georgia.

Mr. Mooney is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Mooney, of Adairsville. He attended school at Adairsville and Georgia Tech. For the past five years he has been employed in the accounting department of New York Life Insurance Company. After their marriage the couple will reside in Atlanta, at 1106 Virginia avenue, N. E.

MISS ORA McCARTY.

Miss Minnie Klotz Weds Mr. Berman.

Of cordial interest is the announcement of the marriage of Miss Minnie Klotz and Ephraim Berman, which was solemnized on Wednesday, November 29, at the home of the bride's brother and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Sol O. Klotz, on Elmwood drive. Rabbi Harry H. Epstein, performed the ceremony, with only members of the immediate families present. The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Sol O. Klotz, and was lovely in a spring model ensemble of hunters green tweed, banded with a luxurious collar of fox fur. Her hat and other accessories were in brown and she wore a shoulder corsage of roses and valley lilies.

The bride is the third daughter of Mrs. Sarah Klotz and the late Hyman Klotz. Of the Trian type of beauty she possessed a charming personality. Mr. Berman is the son of Mrs. T. Berman and the late E. Berman, and holds the position of sales manager of the American Milk Company of this city. Mr. and Mrs. Berman left for their wedding journey through the Carolinas and will be at home after December 4, at 129 Washington terrace.

Stevens-Hayes.

ELLAVILLE, Ga., Dec. 9.—Miss Bessie Stevens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Stevens, became the bride of Walter L. Hayes, of Huntington, at a beautiful ceremony solemnized, November 26 at the Stevens home. The marriage service was performed by the Rev. C. T. Clark, of Leslie, a relative of the bridegroom. The ceremony was witnessed by the immediate families. Mr. and Mrs. Hayes left by motor for a trip through Florida, and upon their return will be at home in Americus, later going to Huntington to live. Of a dainty blond type, the lovely bride wore a navy blue costume with accessories to match and a shoulder bouquet of orchids and valley lilies.

Mrs. Hayes is the third daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Stevens. She received her education at the Ellaville High School and the Georgia State College for Women.

Mr. Hayes is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hayes, of Huntington, Ga. He is interested in extensive farm operations.

Fender-Gregory.

VALDOSTA, Ga., Dec. 9.—Mr. and Mrs. William Lanzo Fender announce the marriage of their daughter, Sara Camille, to James Edward Gregory, on December 3. Mrs. Gregory is a member of one of the oldest and most prominent families in Georgia. She received her education at Lucy Cobb and Brenau, and attended Scoville in New York city. She has travelled extensively in this country and abroad. Mr. Gregory is the son of the late James L. and Mrs. Emmett Gregory, of Chase City, Va., a family prominent in that state. He is a graduate of V. M. I. and also of the University of Virginia. He is connected with the official staff of Liggett and Myers Tobacco Company, and for a number of years has made Valdosta his headquarters during the tobacco marketing season. Mr. and Mrs. Gregory left Valdosta for Wilson, N. C., and will go to points in Virginia on their wedding trip and will reside in Durham, N. C., the headquarters of Mr. Gregory.

Mrs. Woodruff Presents Mrs. Lane Gift for Literature Contributions

At a meeting of the Agnes Lee chapter, U. D. C., Decatur, Mrs. J. Woodruff, state chairman of southern literature, presented Mrs. Julian C. Lane, of Statesboro, Ga., president of Bulloch county chapter, with the silver vase, given for donating the most southern literature to school and other libraries. The contribution was a gift of Mrs. Lane through her chapter, and is much to be appreciated, not only by her chapter but by Georgia division, U. D. C., as their historian.

In addition to her contribution to school libraries, and during her sojourn in Georgia, she presented to "Little White House" library, at Warm Springs, a copy of Chappell's History of Georgia, the first history of the state to give a full description of Warm Springs and Pine Mountain. To President Franklin D. Roosevelt for the White House library. Washington, D. C., she gave her own book, and the Story of the Star-Spangled Banner, autographed and inscribed therein "Whatever concerns 'Old Glory' concerns the president of the United States." For the Hyde Park library, the ancestral home of the president, Mrs. Lane wrote the history of the genealogy of Mrs. Roosevelt's Georgia and southern ancestors, which Mrs. Roosevelt very gratefully acknowledged.

Mrs. Lane is the originator of Georgia's county histories and has rendered wonderful service for Georgia in that connection, and as historian for Bulloch county. Her interest in political affairs, local, state and national, is not less. She is a member of the Georgia state democratic executive committee from the first congressional district and a probable candidate for congress in the next contest.

Miss Louise Cork Habersham D. A. R. Will Wed Mr. Lifsey Sponsors Classes In Griffin, Ga. In Correct English

Griffin, Ga., Dec. 9.—Of cordial interest to a host of friends throughout the state is the announcement made today by Mr. and Mrs. Frank R. Cork, of Griffin, of the engagement of their daughter, Miss Edith Louise Cork, to Joseph James Lifsey, junior.

Miss Cork is an only daughter, is an attractive young woman of individual charm and beauty. She moved to Griffin with her family seven years ago from Atlanta, and attended the local schools, where she took an active part in all school and social activities.

Mr. Lifsey is the only son of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Lifsey. He was formerly of Marshallville, now of Griffin, and since coming here has enjoyed wide popularity.

After their marriage the young couple will continue to make their home in Griffin, to the delight of their many friends. Mr. Lifsey holds a responsible position with Hollberg Hardware Company.

A new morning class in the Miller System of Correct English, sponsored by the Joseph Habersham chapter, D. A. R., is being formed, and anyone wishing to join the class is requested to telephone Miss Laura Bishop, teacher of the class, at Hemlock 3145. The Tuesday morning class completed the 12-lesson course last week and the recently formed Friday evening class is still enrolling members.

Miss Bishop, who is a national staff teacher of the Miller System, states that the system consists of a practical, intensive course of 15 lessons for men and women of the business, professional and social world, progressive teachers, up-to-date parents, etc., in simplified applied grammar, rhetoric, vocabulary, punctuation, common errors and correct pronunciation of 525 missed English words. "These lessons," states Miss Bishop, "have been written especially for busy adults who wish to 'brush up and catch up.' After the Christmas holidays other organizations will sponsor classes taught by Miss Bishop.

Chapel Guild Will Sponsor Christmas Tree at Post Dec. 23

FORT McPHERSON, Ga., Dec. 9. The Christmas spirit is abroad in the land and the army group along with the civilian contingent are making plans for the joyous Yuletide. Members of the younger set are agog with interest over the Christmas tree to be held at the Army Service Club on Saturday afternoon, December 23, at 2 o'clock. The entertainment is the annual affair sponsored by the Chapel Guild and will assemble army children from the garrison.

Mrs. Thomas Samuel Moorman is president of the guild, and she has appointed a committee for the arrangement of gifts, including Mesdames Frank Child, Joseph A. Aman, Thomas H. Ramsey and William Stone. Under the supervision of Mrs. I. A. Sanford the pupils of the post Sunday school will present a program including shadow pictures and Christmas songs. Each pupil of the Sunday school will take part in the pageant and group singing. Mrs. J. H. Marquardt, of Atlanta, who acts as instructor in the Sunday school, will give the story of the Christmas.

The drag hunt to be held at the garrison on Sunday, December 17, will assemble a number of the sport-loving group in military circles. Guests from Fort Benning will be present and the drag will get under way at 9 o'clock. Following the hunt the guests will assemble at 11 o'clock at the Officers' Club for breakfast. Major Francis Fuller and Mrs. Fuller, Lieutenant C. R. Smith and Mrs. Smith will act as the official hosts.

An attractive addition to the army colony in Georgia is Colonel Walter S. Grant, who arrives early in January to assume command of Fort Oglethorpe, to replace Colonel Gordon Johnston. Colonel Johnston is detailed for duty as chief of staff to General Fox Conner, with station at Fort Oglethorpe. He has been exceedingly popular in both civilian and garrison circles and was a recent belle attending the hops at the United States Military Academy at West Point, N. Y.

A controlled ride will be held at the garrison on Sunday morning, December 10, at 9 o'clock. Each Sunday during the fall season the rides have proved popular diversions for a number of the military set.

Tech Woman's Board.

Mrs. Kenneth Thrash will be hostess Tuesday, December 12, at 12:30 o'clock at her home, 719 Fowler drive, N. W., to the members of the executive board of the Tech Woman's Club. Mrs. Thrash will be assisted by Mrs. Lewis Bates. Members of the board will be entertained at a luncheon. Covers will be placed for Mesdames M. L. Brittain, W. Vernon Skiles, William S. Taylor, Herman K. Fulmer, Harold Bunker, Paul French, Kenneth Thrash, Lewis Bates, D. E. Savant, H. W. Mason, F. C. Snow and E. E. Bortell.

Debutantes and Visitor Honored At Tea Given by Mrs. A. D. Adair

Mrs. A. D. Adair was hostess at tea yesterday, honoring Misses Mary and Florence Bryan, Caroline Crumley, Harriet Grant, Betty Schroder, charming debutantes, and Ethel Kelly Royster, of Norfolk, Va., at her home on Peachtree road. The house was effectively adorned with yellow chrysanthemums, and the lace-covered table in the dining room was graced with a silver loving cup filled with yellow chrysanthemums. Silver candelabra held yellow tapers, and the bon bons reflected the golden color motif.

Hostess and honor guests, Mrs. John S. Clark, mother of the hostess, and Miss Rolline Clarke Adair, lovely sub-deb daughter of the hostess, received the guests in the drawing room, which was decorated with palms and yellow chrysanthemums.

Miss Goddard Is Given Roles In Ogontz Plays

Miss Elkin Goddard, lovely daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Goddard, is attending the Ogontz school at Rydal, Pa., where she is doing especially good work in dramatics, which is used as a means of self-expression, clear enunciation and personal development. Miss Goddard has natural, native ability, a fine sensitiveness, coupled with a strong imagination and poetic sense.

At present she is working on a charming little part in "Mankin and Mankin," full of the delicacy and humor which she so readily gives to a part. She has been selected to play the part of "Peg" in J. Hartley Manners' comedy, "Peg o' My Heart," the wistful, whimsical Peg. Last year she had the lead in "The Road to Yesterday" and in two other plays presented by the Dramatic Club, and she carried off the honors. There has hardly been a play at Ogontz school in which Miss Goddard has not featured prominently, and perhaps if she cares to further develop her remarkable talent, Miss Goddard may soar to stellar heights in the dramatic field.

College Belles Return Home This Week

With the gay holiday season just around the corner, so to speak, Atlantans are turning their attention to the return of the members of the younger set, who are away at various schools and colleges, who plan to spend the Yuletide beneath their parental rooftrees. Although it is early as yet for party dates to be definitely announced, it is safe to predict that the season will be a gay one, with every day of the calendar filled with interesting events honoring the returning college contingent and their holiday guests.

Late in this week the first influx of returning college belles will occur with the arrival on Saturday, December 16, of Miss Laura Maddox and Miss Elkin Goddard, who have been attending fashionable Ogontz, at Rydal, Pa. Miss Maddox will visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Maddox, at their Pace's Ferry road home, and Miss Goddard will spend the Yuletide with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Goddard, at their home in Druid Hills.

Misses Ann Alston and Clare Haverly return on December 16 from Ogontz, where they enrolled last September for their first term at boarding school. They will spend the holidays with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Alston and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Haverly.

Adding luster to the list of college belles returning for the holidays is the name of Miss Margaret Musgrave, the pretty daughter of Colonel Thomas Musgrave, U. S. A., and Mrs. Musgrave, who occupy the former home of Mrs. Joel Hunter on Peachtree road. Miss Musgrave is enrolled at the Spence school in New York city, that fashionable finishing school in the metropolis, and she will be accompanied to Atlanta by her classmate, Miss Elizabeth Lent, of Redwood City, Cal., who will be an acquisition to the galaxy of visiting belles attending the festive social events given during the Christmas season. Philip Musgrave, who graduates in 1934 from Colgate University, and Thomas Musgrave Jr., a second classman at the United States Military Academy at West Point, will arrive in December to augment the family circle.

From Vassar will come a trio of Atlantans for a vacation lasting through the New Year, including Misses Mary Large, Louise Richardson and Lucy Yundt. Miss Large returns on Saturday, December 16, and Miss Richardson will accompany her to Atlanta. Miss Yundt will remain longer in the east, but will arrive in the city prior to the holidays to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Yundt, on Seventeenth street. Her twin sister, Miss Marion Yundt, who is enrolled at Garland School of Home Making at Boston, Mass., arrives December 23, and with her sister, Miss Lucy Yundt, will be hostess at a luncheon to be given on December 27 at the Biltmore, complementing a quartet of the debutantes, including Misses Caroline Crumley, Julie McClatchey, Betty Cole and Patsy Thayer.

Miss Heath Merrill, daughter of Mrs. Arthur Merrill, returns from Beaver College in Jenkintown, Pa., on December 21, to spend the holidays with her mother. She will be feted at a series of social affairs, and is numbered as one of the most attractive members of the younger set. Miss Merrill was elected advisor of the student government board this year and was appointed student advisor of the freshman class, in which capacity she presided over the banquet given in compliment to the freshmen by the faculty and council. She received her teacher's certificate last June, receiving a scholarship from the school as a junior and in June of 1934 she will be presented her diploma from the kindergarten primary department. She was elected chairman of the favor committee for the junior prom and is exceedingly popular with her schoolmates.

Miss Julian Boykin, daughter

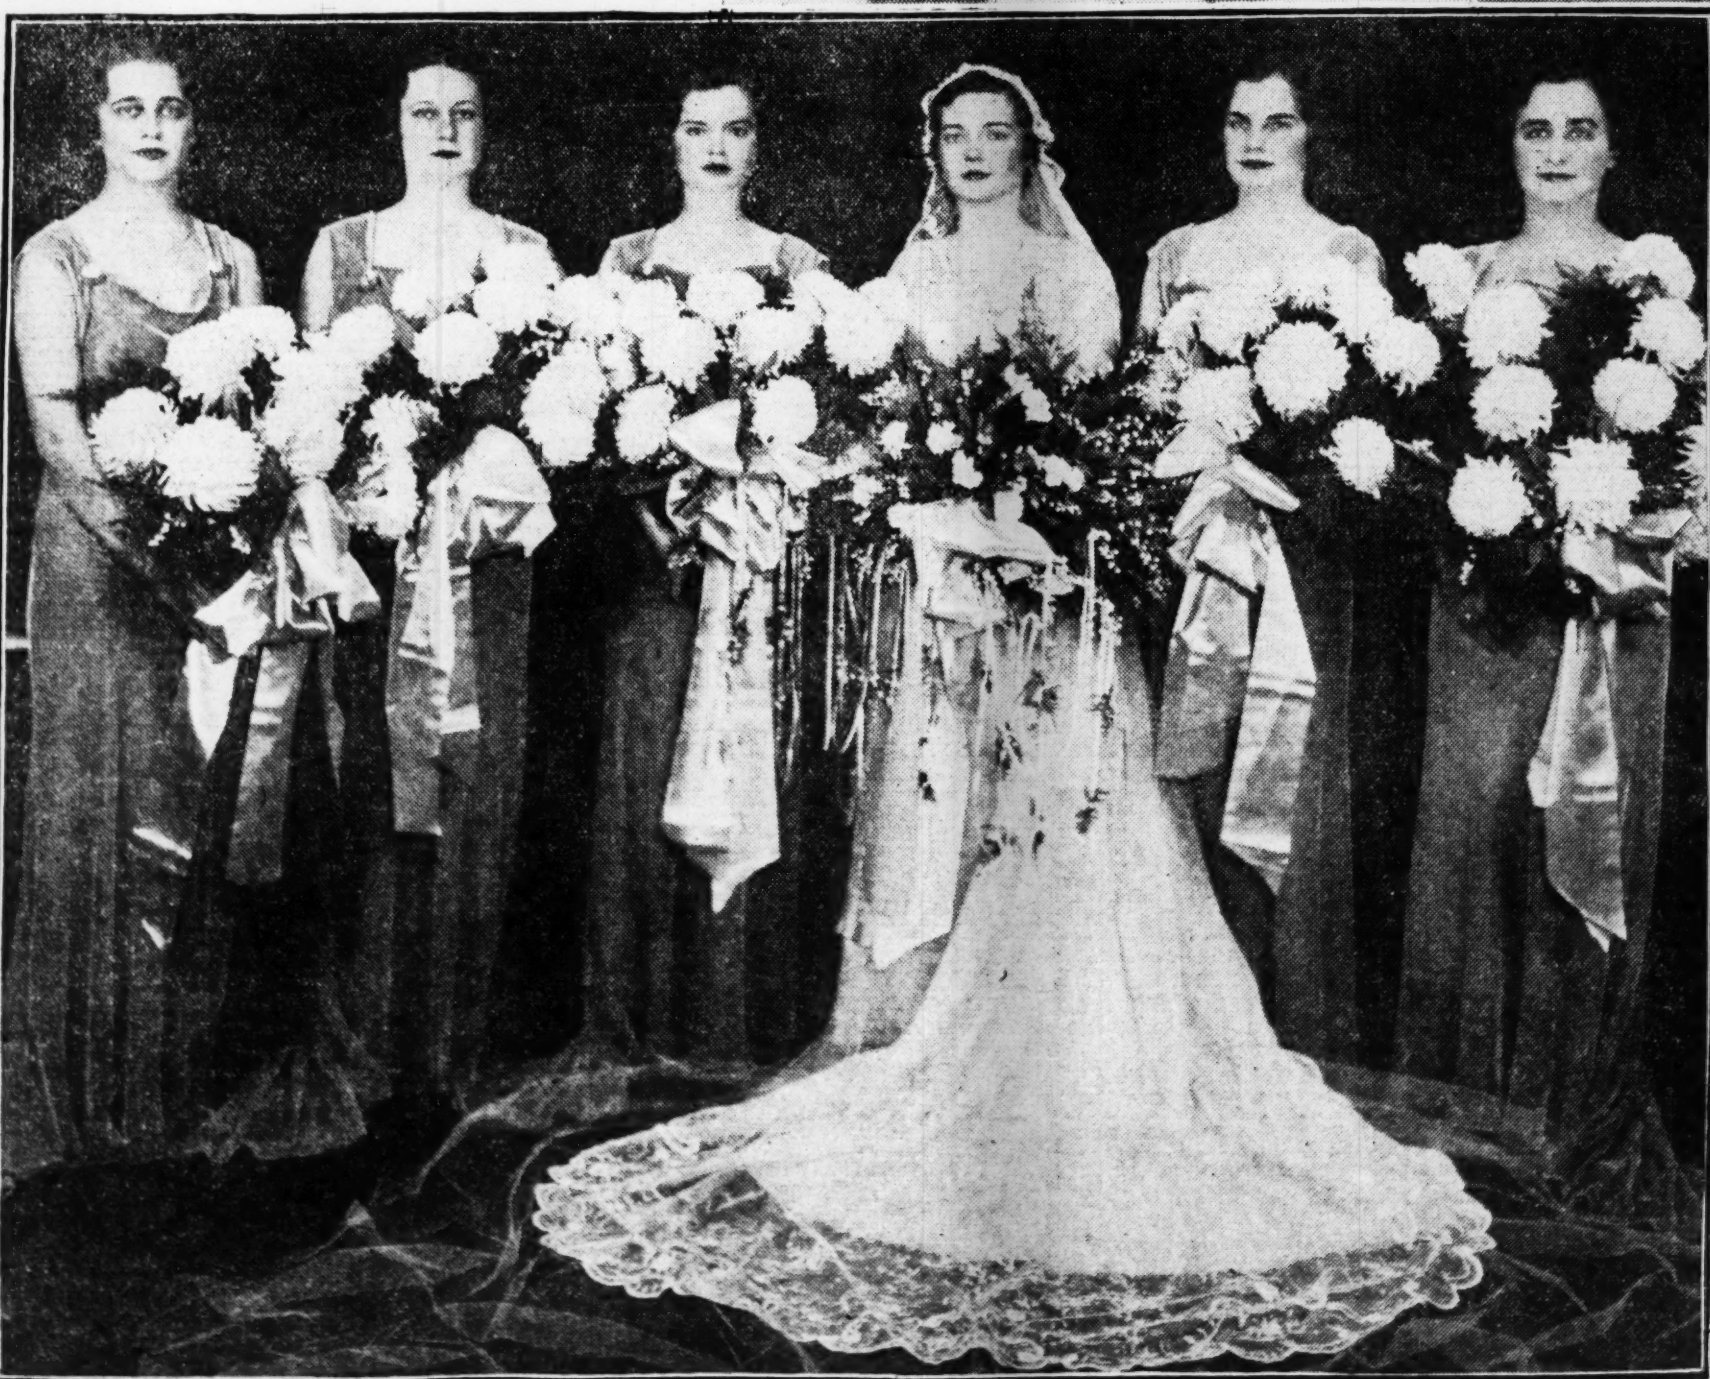

MISS ELKIN GODDARD

MISS GODDARD, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Goddard, is attending Ogontz, and arrives to spend the holidays here. Mrs. Taylor, recently moved here from Moscow, before her marriage was Miss Elizabeth Tuttle, of Montgomery. Mrs. Davis, the former Miss Marion Hull Smith, arrives December 15 to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Smith. Mrs. Hurt is the former Miss Melissa Jack, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. T. H. Jack, of Lynchburg, Va., formerly of Atlanta, and her bridesmaids are Mrs. Morris Brandon Jr., of Atlanta; Miss Jean Watts, of Lynchburg; Miss Mary Spencer Jack, of Lynchburg; Misses Rachel Johnson and Frances Hurt, of Atlanta. Miss Loker, a visitor, is a New Orleans belle, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Loker, and is a kinswoman of Mr. and Mrs. J. Carroll Payne. Mrs. Alex Smith Jr., and Mrs. Charles T. Hopkins Jr. Miss Goddard's photo is by Asano, Mrs. Taylor's is by Bascom Biggers, Foster's studio, Richmond, Va., made Mrs. Hurt and her attendants.

TO THE RIGHT
Mrs. Albert Davis, of Springfield, Ohio

MRS. MARSHALL TAYLOR

Mrs. Charles D. Hurt Jr. and her attendants of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Boykin, who is attending Fairmont school in Washington, D. C., returns Saturday, December 16. Numbered among the interesting social affairs of the holiday season will be the bridge-tea to be given by Mrs. John Morris at her home on Peachtree road on Thursday, December 21, complementing Miss Boykin.

Miss Bee Rich, who is attending Smith College and being showered with honors for her literary attainments, arrives on December 16, and will spend her vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Rich, at their hospitable home on Argonne drive. From the University of Georgia will come a duo of college belles, Misses Dahlis McMurdo, daughter of Colonel H. W. McMurdo, U. S. A., and Mrs. McMurdo, and Miss Mary Bach, daughter of Colonel Christian H. Bach, U. S. A., and Mrs. Bach, who arrive on December 22 to spend the Yuletide with their parents.

Miss Roslyn Pate, daughter of Major Benjamin Pate, U. S. A., and Mrs. Pate, will join the military contingent for the holidays, coming on December 20 from Rome, where she attends Shorter College. Miss Adger King returns December 21 from New Orleans, where she is enrolled at Sophie Newcomb College, to

Xmas Parties Will Honor Miss Knapp

Listed among the prominent December visiting belles in the sub-deb contingent of society will be lovely Miss Betty Knapp, of Washington, D. C., who arrives in Atlanta on Sunday, December 17, to be the guest of her great-aunt, Mrs. Preston S. Arkwright, at her Ponce de Leon avenue residence in Druid Hills. On the afternoon of her arrival, Mrs. Arkwright gives a tea in her honor, and to members of the Emory Glee Club, at Pinebloom, her home in Druid Hills.

On Wednesday, December 20, Mrs. Arkwright entertains at an old-fashioned tea in compliment to Miss Knapp, inviting a group of intimate friends of the mother of the honor guest, and the daughters of these close friends to meet Miss Knapp. Mesdames Jackson Dick, Hughes Spalding, Alfred Kennedy and Clarence Haverly were classmates of Mrs. John Knapp, the honor guest's mother at the Spence school in New York city, and Mesdames Alex Smith Jr. and Charles T. Hopkins Jr. were among Mrs.

Mrs. Calhoun Is Honored At Social Affairs

Mrs. Thomas P. Hinman entertained at luncheon on Saturday at her home on Fifteenth street in compliment to Miss Marion Calhoun, whose marriage to Bickerton W. Cardwell will be a brilliant social event of Saturday, December 16, taking place at the First Presbyterian church on Peachtree street. The exquisitely appointed table was adorned with a blue and white Wedgewood bowl filled with blue delphinium and bouvardia. The place cards bore the silver monogram of Mrs. Hinman, and blue and white Wedgewood china was used on the table.

Miss Calhoun was honor guest on Saturday at the tea given by Dr. and Mrs. Frank K. Boland at the Piedmont Driving Club. Dr. and Mrs. Phinizy Calhoun, parents of the honor guest, assisted in entertaining the guests, including members of the wedding party. Pink Radiance roses, artistically arranged with white calla lilies in a silver bowl, centered the lace-covered tea table, which was placed in a private dining room. Tall pink tapers in silver candelabra were placed at each end of the table.

Miss Mary Adair Howell entertained at a buffet supper on Saturday at her home on Pace's road, complimenting Miss Calhoun. The hostess was assisted in entertaining by her mother, Mrs. G. Arthur Howell, and by her brother and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph W. Cooper Jr. Yellow roses were arranged in a silver bowl on the dining room table, and yellow candles burned in silver holders. Colorful flowers were arranged in the rooms where the guests were received. The guests included the entire bridal party and a few close friends. Among out-of-town guests were Miss Bessie Lee Cardwell, of Hanover, Va., sister of the future bridegroom, and Miss Ethel Royster, of Norfolk, Va., the guest of Miss Josephine Crawford. After supper, the guests attended the dinner-dance at the Piedmont Driving Club.

Mr. and Mrs. Broyles Will Have Visitors.

The daily chronicling of the galaxy of Christmas visitors turns the social spotlight upon the arrival of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Pund, on December 16, to spend the holidays with Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Broyles, at their Peachtree road residence. On Christmas Eve, Dr. and Mrs. Edwin Broyles, of Baltimore, Md., and their trio of charming children will arrive to augment the family circle of Mr. and Mrs. Broyles, and Martha Curtis, Edwin Jr., and Henrietta Broyles will hang their stockings in their paternal grand parents' home.

Mr. and Mrs. Broyles are overjoyed in the anticipation of having their children and grandchildren with them during this festive season, and their presence will prove the inspiration for a great deal of informal entertaining.

Mr. and Mrs. Pund have resided in Akron, Ohio, ever since their marriage several years ago, but on December 26 they will depart for Boston, to establish their future residence in that city. Business interests will necessitate their change of residence from Ohio to Massachusetts, and when they reach Boston they will occupy an apartment in the same building with Dr. and Mrs. William Minnich, those erstwhile Atlantans, who have lived in Boston since last summer.

When the former Miss Susan Broyles became the bride of Peter Pund at a fashionable church ceremony, taking place at North Avenue Presbyterian church, one of her bridesmaids was Miss Caroline Paulin, who afterward became the bride of Dr. Minnich. Needless to say, the childhood intimacy of these Atlantans will be renewed when they are united in Boston.

College Belles Return Home This Week

visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. King, at their home on The Prado in Ansley Park, until the first of the year.

Miss Adele Ruffner, who is attending Fairmont College in Washington, D. C., arrives on Sunday, December 17, and will be numbered among the young belles attending the entertainments planned by the younger set. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Ruffner, are planning a tea-dance to be given as a complimentary gesture to Miss Ruffner at the Brookhaven Club on Wednesday, December 20, from 4 to 7 o'clock, the guests to include the younger social contingent.

Miss Josephine Meador, who is attending Randolph-Macon College in Lynchburg, Va., arrives December 21 to spend the holiday season with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Meador, and Miss Sarah Kenan, who is attending Ashby Hall in Charleston, S. C., returns early next week for her vacation to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Kenan.

Miss Judy Beers, a student at Gunston Hall in Washington, D. C., arrives on December 20 to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Beers. Misses Virginia Merry and Ellen Fleming, who are attending the Florida State College at Tallahassee, will motor to Atlanta with Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Merry, arriving on December 21. Mr. and Mrs. Merry will leave for Florida on December 19 and will return on December 20, accompanied by Misses Merry and Fleming.

Miss Joyce Smith arrives on December 20 from Hollins College in Hollins, Va., and arriving the same week will be Miss Margaret Holcomb, who is attending Sweet Briar College in Virginia. She will visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Holcomb, at their home on Peachtree circle, and will be a popular figure at the social gatherings of the younger contingent.

Miss Frances Lyle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Lyle, will arrive in Atlanta on December 15 from the Alabama Woman's College at Montgomery, Ala., to spend the holidays with her parents at their Brookhaven drive residence. Miss Lyle will entertain at an elaborate tea-dance on December 21 at Margaret Bryan's on Peachtree and Third streets, the guests to include a group of the college set. A gaily decorated Christmas tree will feature the decorations, which will reflect the Yuletide motif.

Miss Elizabeth Merritt, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. H. H. Aske, who has been attending Fairmont school, Washington, D. C., will arrive Sunday, December 17, for the holidays.

Xmas Parties Will Honor Miss Knapp

Knapp's close friends in Atlanta, and they, too, will be invited to meet Miss Knapp. Misses Eleanor Spalding, Clara Haverty, Laura Maddox, Emily Smith, Helen Hill Hopkins and others will assist in entertaining, as will Mrs. J. Carroll Payne, who was a beloved friend of the late Mrs. W. L. Marshall, maternal grandmother of Miss Knapp. There is a tinge of sentiment involved in the giving of the tea, in that Mrs. Arkwright will assemble grandmothers, mothers and daughters among her friends to meet Miss Knapp in the name of the honor guest's grandmother. Her mother, and her legion of inherited friends.

On Thursday, December 28, Mrs. Arkwright will give a dancing party at her home in Druid Hills, honoring this attractive young girl, whose beauty combines blond hair with brown eyes and flawless complexion. The ballroom at Pinebloom will be adorned with decorations suggestive of the Yuletide, and the dancing set of society will be invited to meet the honor guest.

Miss Knapp will visit her lovely cousin, Miss Julia Colquitt, at her home on Habersham road, and will be the guest of honor at the tea-dance to be given by Miss Colquitt and her brother, Walter T. Colquitt Jr., on Thursday, December 21, at Druid Hills Golf Club. Judge Walter T. Colquitt and Mrs. Colquitt, parents of the hosts, will assist in entertaining, and the tea-dance will rank as one of the most important social events of the Christmas week festivities.

Miss Knapp is a daughter of Commander John Knapp, U. S. N., and Mrs. Knapp, who reside in the national capital, her mother having been the former Miss Maitland Marshall. She is a granddaughter of the late Colonel W. L. Marshall, U. S. A., and Mrs. Marshall, the latter having been Miss Elizabeth Colquitt, daughter of the late Senator Alfred H. Colquitt and Mrs. Colquitt. Miss Knapp's grandfather was a famous Confederate officer, the governor of Georgia, served his state as senator, and was one of the most distinguished men of his day, whose memory is respected and revered.

Caribbean Cruise

Is Ideal Honeymoon.

Nothing could be more ideal for a honeymoon than a Caribbean cruise such as that from which Mr. and Mrs. William A. McClain returned during the past week and on which they enjoyed a number of particularly interesting experiences. Following their wedding, the former Miss Catherine Flagler and her husband left for New Orleans, La., where they boarded the steamer, Carrillo, for the 16-day trip. In the dining salon on the boat the bride and bridegroom were accorded seats of honor at the right of Captain George A. McBride, at whose table were seated especially attractive passengers.

Before the boat docked at Panama, Mr. and Mrs. McClain received a cable from Colonel James V. Heidt, United States army, commander of Fort Davis, Canal Zone, who asked to meet them at the dock. In addition to Colonel Heidt, the couple were met with ceremony by Captain T. A. Symington, United States navy, port captain, and were immediately taken to a party given by members of the army and navy sets. The Atlantics were guests in the home of Colonel Heidt, whose sister, Mrs. Abner Calhoun, lives in Atlanta, and who entertained his guests that evening at a party for the army contingent. Captain and Mrs. Symington were hosts at lunch.

eon at the Strangers' Club in compliment to Mr. and Mrs. McClain on the day of the Army-Navy football game, the details of which were broadcast at the club and the moves of the players were shown on a chart.

When the Atlantics prepared to take a sightseeing tour in Tela, Honduras, one of the most fascinating of the ports visited, they encountered Harry Chapman, to whom Mrs. McClain had been introduced last summer at the Piedmont Driving Club, in Atlanta, by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bryan. Mr. Chapman, a talented artist, is engaged in preparing a book of sketches and paintings on Central American countries, where he is spending several years, and he met Mr. and Mrs. McClain when they took the same cruise on their wedding trip. Because of the unsettled political condition in Cuba, the stay was necessarily brief, but an additional thrill was given to the visit by the fact that the vice president of Cuba was shot and killed on the morning of the McClains' arrival, and that all ships were ordered from the harbor before dark as an air raid was expected that evening.

Climaxing the trip was the surprise party at which Captain McBride entertained in honor of the Atlanta couple the last night out. Specially printed menus at each place told that the dinner was in honor of Mr. and Mrs. McClain, while the festive decorations reflected the bridal motif. The piece de resistance of the dinner, however, was the "honeymoon cake," which was proudly borne in and placed before Mrs. McClain. Baked in heart shape, the huge cake was elaborately embossed in pastel-shaded flowers and was centered by a white swan drawn by two other swans, all cleverly executed in icing. Lettered on the icing was "May You Have Many Years of Happiness, 1933."

The guests protested at cutting the masterpiece of culinary art and it was packed by the steward for the couple to bring to Atlanta to cut in celebration of their return.

NRA Salad Recipe Wins First Place.

Salads have gone patriotic, for the latest fad gracing American menus is the NRA salad. The delicious dish was concocted by Miss Ann MacDonell, of Miami, and won first place in the contest staged by the Miami News. Hundreds of menus were submitted to the judges, including Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Edwards, Mr. and Mrs. Don Peabody, Messdames Victor S. Allen, J. L. Billingsley, W. B. Mell, C. J. Logan and E. F. Rainey, of Miami.

The recipe appears below: NRA salad: Three avocados, stalk celery, 4 tender carrots, 2 sweet apples, 1 head crisp lettuce, 12 red cherries, mayonnaise or salad dressing.

Arrange crisp lettuce leaf on six salad plates. Peel avocados, cut in half crosswise and cut one round slice from each half. Trim ends from avocado, set one-half each lettuce plate, and arrange round slice to form a basket handle for each half of avocado.

Fill the baskets with the following: Dice the trimmings of the pear end, three grated carrots, two finely chopped eating apples, heart of one head of lettuce shredded, and two heaping tablespoons of mayonnaise or salad dressing. Put in baskets, heap a spoonful of dressing on each basket, then arrange grated carrots rolled to form miniature carrots, using tiny tips of the green to form the tops for a bunch of market basket carrots. Arrange slits of celery like a miniature celery bunch and for each basket two cherries with a bit of lettuce leaf cut to make leaf and stem as an apple. Lettuce can be arranged for a tie bow on the handle.

This salad is all-American, Miss MacDonell says, and can be eaten by young or old. Pears at different seasons can be utilized, but none as well as avocados. These baskets of avocados can be made and kept quite a while in the ice box without turning dark and retaining their green luster.

Xmas Gifts Appeal Made for Tallulah.

Mrs. Willard McBurney, chairman of gifts for the Young Mothers' Circle of Tallulah Falls school, makes an appeal to all the circle members and friends for gifts to be distributed at Christmas to the worthy boys and girls enrolled at this mountain school. The ages of the students range from 5 to 21 years, and Mrs. McBurney suggests all kinds of toys being acceptable for the younger children, while gifts of a more useful nature are desirable for the older students.

Mrs. McBurney is anxious to have the presents ready for wrapping and tying by Wednesday, December 13, and anyone who can assist in making these 300 Georgia mountain boys and girls happy this Christmas season by giving them presents is requested to telephone Mrs. McBurney, at Cherokee 2653.

Miss Chisholm Makes Bow in Baltimore.

Included in the list of 71 debutantes who made their formal appearance at the brilliant Bachelors' Cotillion, in Baltimore, last Monday evening was Miss Polly Chisholm, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Julian Chisholm, of Savannah. This lovely young Georgia belle has a wide circle of friends interested in her social triumphs and she was commented upon by society writers of Baltimore newspapers as being one of the most charming and popular debuts attending the Bachelors' Cotillion, which is considered the most exclusive and brilliant social function given in Baltimore during the social season.

Seventy-one debutantes, including 10 from New York, made their formal bows to Baltimore society upon this occasion. The New York group and 15 others from out of town were presented there because of their Baltimore family affiliations. Miss Chisholm's mother was before her marriage, Miss Nannie Levering, of Baltimore, and a representative of Maryland's most aristocratic and influential families. Miss Chisholm has numerous admirers in Atlanta, where she has frequently visited Miss Caroline Crumley, president of Atlanta's 1933-34 Debutantes' Club. As guest of Miss Crumley, this lovely Savannah belle was numbered among the important visitors attending the Halloween ball here, given recently at the Piedmont Driving Club, when Atlanta's debutantes of this season made their first formal appearance.

Military Visitors Are of Interest.

Holiday visitors who will be attractive additions to the military colony stationed in Atlanta are Lieutenant Andrai Bratton, U. S. A., and Mrs. Bratton, who arrived during the past week to visit their parents, Colonel Thomas S. Bratton, U. S. A., retired, and Mrs. Bratton, at their Ansley Park residence. Lieutenant Bratton and his lovely wife are en route from their former station in Fort Des Moines, Iowa to their new assignment at Fort Oglethorpe, where Lieutenant Bratton will be on duty with the quartermaster corps.

They were accompanied by their sturdy small son, Thomas Simms Bratton, who will receive his Santa Claus offering and hang his stocking at the wide fireplace in the Brattons' living room. At holiday entertainments he will be in great demand with the ranks of the very sub junior contingent. Adored by both Colonel Bratton and Mrs. Bratton, this army youngster has journeyed throughout the country and possesses marked savoir faire. He is equally at home playing atop an army caisson, greeting guests, entraining for a journey overland or meeting his grandparents upon his arrival in Atlanta.

He is a most loyal little artilleryman, in spite of his father's recent transfer from that branch to the quartermaster corps for a 4-year assignment. Perchance in years to come young Thomas, who bears the name of his beloved grandfather, will follow in his father's footsteps and don the olive drab uniform and the shiny gold bars of a "second looney."

Mrs. Fleming's Taste Shows in Decorations.

The artistic taste of Mrs. Malcolm Fleming came to the fore on Wednesday in the decorations gracing the table at the reception introducing Miss Mimi Fleming to society at the Piedmont Driving Club. Gracing the center of the superbly appointed table, overlaid with a pale green damask cloth, was a mound of yellow chrysanthemums. A silver epergne, overflowing with similar yellow flowers arose from the center of the floral mound. A miniature orange tree, its waxy green leaves forming a background for the highly polished oranges growing upon the tree, was literally ablaze with fragrant orange blossoms.

Four of these miniature orange trees adorned the table, alternating with four antique silver tea and coffee urns, and four silver candelabra holding yellow tapers. Tea and coffee were served in fragile and exquisitely decorated china cups and saucers grouped around each urn. Charming Miss Fleming well-deserved the title of the "Orchid Lady" because she carried a muff of orchids and sprays of these exotic flowers extended from the shoulder of the debutante to her slender waistline.

Stationed at the entrance of the loggia to take the cards placed upon the silver trays were auburn-haired Virginia Ashby Jones and Leelah Adams Sullivan, dressed alike in pale yellow, organically and carrying nosegays of yellow roses. These adorable children claimed the attention of every guest passing through the loggia to the ballroom, and received the homage with smiles and deep curtsies.

Georgia Author Has Interesting Setting.

A new name added to the list of Georgia authors is that of Caroline Hardee Godfrey, whose short story book, "Christmas Candles," has recently been published by Rae D. Henkle, of New York. In private life Mrs. Peter W. Godfrey, of Covington, Ga., this new author's background and activities are as interesting as the narratives in her inspiring little book. Noted for her southern hospitality, Mrs. Godfrey is mistress of three homes, has two adorable grandchildren, takes an active interest in church work, and has been active in club work.

Before her marriage to Mr. Godfrey, as Miss Caroline Hardee, daughter of the late Colonel Lucius Augustus Hardee and Mrs. Hardee, she resided in Jacksonville, Fla., where she made her formal debut and was accorded the social compliments due the representative of such distinguished ancestry. Mrs. Godfrey's daughter, the former Miss Frances Godfrey, is the wife of Samuel Charles Candler, youngest son of Bishop and Mrs. Warren A. Candler, and resides in Covington with her husband and teen-age daughters, Frances Godfrey and Caroline Hardee Candler. Mrs. Godfrey was at one time state regent of the D. A. R., state corresponding secretary of the Georgia division of the U. D. C., a member of the Daughters of 1812, and a member of the Colonial Dames, all of which she resigned to give more time to her deep study along spiritual lines.

For the past few years Mrs. Godfrey has spent a great part of her time with Mr. Godfrey at their plantation, Innisfail, near Madison, Ga., where the chief interests are in farming and peach growing, and where she finds quiet for her writing and study.

Georgia Author Has Interesting Setting

Recently the Godfreys have built a most attractive log cabin near Innisfail, which is constructed in true rustic style and each part of which has an entertaining story. The draperies in the long sun-room are made of fringed burlap sacks, the rugs were made by the farmers' wives on the place from burlap that is effectively dyed, while the andirons were cleverly made from old wagon wheel hubs and tractor spools. The lanterns on each side of the front door were the old lanterns used on the victoria belonging to Mr. Godfrey's family.

The front door of the cabin holds the inscription, "A world of strife shut out, a world of love within," which seems particularly appropriate for the home of an author. The small house is set atop a knoll surrounded by a beautiful oak grove in the center of the 1,400-acre plantation, which is among the historic antebellum places in Georgia. Mrs. Godfrey's town house in Covington has the tall white pillars characteristic of southern homes and is the scene of many happy gatherings of the friends of this popular Georgian. In addition to her prose, Mrs. Godfrey is talented in putting her thoughts into poetry, which has become quite well known, and her writing at present keeps her most of the time either at the Godfrey plantation or at Innisfail, busily engaged in translating her many ideas into words.

Jooss Ballets

Pleases Atlantans.

Glowing accounts of the Jooss Ballets come from Mrs. John K. Ottley and Mrs. Hugh Dorsey, who experienced the pleasure of seeing the marvelous production at the Forrest theater, in New York city. They declare it to be the most striking and artistic production in the metropolis. The music from two pianos is marvelous in theme, and is an essential part of the program. The rhythms are adapted to the plastic rhythms of the dances and to Fritz Cohen are due the arrangements of Lanner's waltzes in "A Ball in Old Vienna," and of Purcell's music in "The Seven Heroes." He comes definitely to the fore as an original composer with his musical setting of "The Green Table."

Kurt Jooss, the director, is in his early thirties, and is hailed in European countries and in Great Britain as the most important figure in the dance world since Diaghileff. A pupil of Laban, in 1924, he started his own troupe, which has maintained its artistic integrity since that date. In 1932, Mr. Jooss took this company to Paris, where on the stage of the Theater des Champs Elysees, he offered "The Green Table" in the international archives of the dance competition, winning the first prize of 25,000 francs, being the unanimous choice of the judges. Jooss is not only director and choreographer of his company, but he is a dancer, taking part in most of the ballets.

Miss Smith Visits Mr. and Mrs. Drexel.

Those close friends, Miss Ellen Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. C. Smith, and Mrs. Anthony J. Drexel III, of New York, the former Miss Helen Alvis Howard, of Atlanta, had no end of interesting news to tell each other when Miss Smith spent last week-end as the guest of the former Atlanta belle and her handsome young husband at their New York apartment. Miss Smith is among the first Georgians to visit the Drexels, whose marriage was an interesting event of the past summer, since they have taken possession of their apartment and since Mrs. Drexel, with southern graciousness, has assumed the role of hostess. The visitor and her hosts were present at the Army-Notre Dame football game and also attended a number of the week-end festivities.

For the past few weeks Miss Smith has been the guest of her former schoolmate, Miss Nona Carwithen, at her home in Philadelphia, Pa., where she has formed the inspiration for a round of social affairs, including several dinner-parties, which Miss Carwithen has given in her honor. These belles and their escorts attended the Army-Navy and Penn-Cornell football games and are in a continual whirl of activity. Miss Smith will return to Atlanta before Christmas to be present for the holiday parties here.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dine at White House.

Particularly impressed by the graciousness and hospitality of President Franklin D. Roosevelt and Mrs. Roosevelt, was Mrs. Lawrence W. Robert Jr., who, with her husband, assistant secretary of the treasury, attended the dinner given at the White House on Tuesday evening. The Chief Executive and Mrs. Roosevelt, according to Mrs. Robert, have the happy faculty of putting their guests entirely at ease and each visitor to the White House feels the charming personalities of the hosts. Mr. Roosevelt looked unusually strong and well, telling Mrs. Robert he attributed his splendid condition to his recent vacation at the Little White House at Warm Springs, Ga., where he "wished he could stay all the time."

Prominent among the 40 guests at the dinner were Director of the Budget Lewis Douglas and Mrs. Douglas, Acting Secretary of State William Phillips; the newly appointed assistant secretary of state, Francis B. Sayre; the president's secretary, Louis Howe; Mrs. William Randolph Hearst, Fannie Hurst, the novelist, and Mrs. W. Byard Cutting, of Washington, D. C. Mrs. Robert was a striking figure in her gown of heavy white crepe, cut on stylishly plain lines and especially becoming to her distinctive brunet type.

The guests assembled in the green room, and when President and Mrs. Roosevelt entered to be greeted by the guests in the order of their official ranking, Mrs. Roosevelt was handsomely gowned in pastel blue, brocaded with silver, and her only ornament was a lovely diamond necklace. Yellow and white chrysanthemums and yellow pompons were arranged to center the beautifully appointed table. The menu included delicious soup, a fish entree, turkey with cranberry sauce and other complements for the main course, a salad, and a chocolate dessert. The ladies retired to a drawing room for their coffee, and after they were joined by the men, they repaired to the ballroom for a musical program given by the Sedalia Singers, of Sedalia, N. C., who are colored musicians singing negro spirituals in true southern manner.

Girls' High Plans Christmas Party.

Girls' High school will have its annual Christmas party Friday morning, December 15, at the city auditorium.

The program will depict an English Christmas. The different departments of the school will be represented with many pupils in brightly colored costumes. The music department will furnish the carolers, in red capes, and the orchestra in rags and tatters, while the physical training department provides the clowns and country dancers, snow maidens and snow men, and assists the dramatic club in presenting a play.

There will be a Christmas tree, at which the girls will play Santa Claus to 150 children who would not otherwise have a happy Christmas. Parents and friends of the Girls' High school are invited to attend. There will be no P. T. A. meeting in December and the P. T. A. is especially invited.

John B. Gordon P-T. A. Program.

John B. Gordon P-T. A. announces the following program for 1934: January, president's message; report fifth district and school policies; February, "Founders' Day," Miss Martha McAlpin; March, daddies' night, Dr. Wallace Rogers; April, "Juvenile Protection," Judge Humphries; May, Adams.

Fulton County Presidents' Club.

Fulton County P-T. A. Presidents' Club will have its regular monthly luncheon in Rick's tea room Wednesday, December 13, at 12:30 o'clock.

BETTY'S BLUE EAGLE

By Russell Patterson

The Boys Retaliate
By Joining the N R A

SUNDAY, DECEMBER 10, 1933

1. BETTY'S efficient secretary gives her the daily merry-go-round off the calendar: Lunch with Bill, 16 minutes; tea with John, 18 minutes; cocktails with Larry, 22 minutes; dinner with Percy—MUST there be dinner with Percy? There certainly must. The code demands a strict schedule.

2. AND does Percy show up, and is Percy proclaiming his policy? As a walking billboard, he is working for the Blue Eagle. (Which is something, because he never worked before for anything.)

3. BETTY likes to lay down the law and split up the clock. But it irks her when the eagle turns around and snaps at her—meaning, when the boys in the stagline flash their NRA vests and stand on their program—no overtime, no waiting, and NO run-around.

EXTRAORDINARY FIRST REVELATION OF PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S ANCIENT AND ROMANTIC FAMILY TREE---Page 4 this issue.

YOU CAN'T EVER ACCOUNT FOR A Woman in Love

THE mythical three Fates—Clotho, Lachesis and Atropos—who spin the destiny of men and women, found the warm sunshine and tropical loveliness of Miami, Florida, much to their liking, so the story goes. The murmuring of the palm trees, swaying gently in the soft Summer breezes, lulled them to sleep. But Margery Yaeger's joyous laughter aroused them, suddenly, and they were angry.

This might be the background of our tale. Anyway, the destiny spun for pretty little Margery, which began with laughter, came to a pathetic end which only the angry Fates could have planned.

Margery is 22 years old. One day, quite by accident, she happened to read, a personal advertisement in a newspaper. She called her sister, Gladys, reread the advertisement aloud to her; "Latin American gentleman, age, 36; height, 5 feet 7; weight 140; brunette type, curly dark brown hair, well built healthy, college education, good manners, sincere, serious, ambitious, has a very good idea to carry out if he can meet a pleasant, respectable, sincere, serious lady or widow with means to become wife or partner. Send photo with first letter if willing matrimony. Address: Carlos Ramirez, 260 West 24th St., New York City."

The two sisters found the notice quite amusing. Then Clotho, the Fate sister who spins destiny, began spinning. Margery sat down and wrote a letter to the Latin-American gentleman. She penned it in a spirit of fun, "just to see what would happen."

Within the week Carlos Ramirez replied. Margery wrote again and again he responded. His letters had some quality which attracted Margery, fascinated her. The correspondence continued and it wasn't long before it had ceased to be just a light-hearted experiment. The frequent letters, with their quaintly worded endearments, filled a void in Margery's heart. Before she knew it Margery was almost in love.

Carlos wrote that his responsible and high-salaried position in New York City prevented his coming to Miami immediately, but he promised he would make the trip at the first opportunity. Margery encouraged him to do so, and looked forward to the day when she would meet him. Unexpectedly one morning the Yaeger telephone rang. Margery heard Carlos's voice. He had arrived in Miami for a visit. He was accompanied by a friend, another Latin-American, by name Ramon Gonzales, who claimed Caguas, Porto Rico, as his home. Margery introduced Ramon to her sister Gladys. For six weeks or so this little foursome went around together and it seemed to be a most enjoyable six weeks for all of them. By this time both Margery and Gladys were ardently in love with their dark-haired suitors.

Quite suddenly one evening, Carlos and Margery and Ramon and Gladys decided they would get married. They told their plans to Mother Yaeger and she was delighted. So within a few days there was a splendid double wedding at the Yaeger home. Margery was genuinely and extremely happy. But the very next day Carlos

confided that he had lost his job in New York and what was more, that he had little money left. He suggested that Mrs. Yaeger, the mother, loan him enough money to buy a little farm in Porto Rico. They could all move there and spend their lives in peace and tranquillity, he said. He painted a glowing picture of love under a Porto Rican moon.

Margery thought it a swell idea, but Mother Yaeger didn't approve; that is, she didn't approve of advancing the money. However, she did advise her new sons-in-law to make a trip to their native shores to ascertain business conditions there and look up just the property they wanted. In less than a week they left, with a bit of money Mother Yaeger loaned them for expenses.

When they departed, although no one guessed it at the time, Lachesis, the Fate sister who cuts the thread of destiny, must have used her scissors. Margery was almost heart-broken facing separation from her Carlos. She wrote him faithfully every day. He answered a few times. Then his letters stopped coming.

Margery became frantic. She imagined awful things had happened to her husband. It got so she couldn't sleep at night. She kept calling for her Carlos, she wept continually. She didn't eat and became ill; so ill that she was removed to a Miami hospital.

Doctors and nurses there tried everything to comfort her. But, alone in her little white room, she cried all the harder. "Carlos! Carlos, my own! Come to me Carlos!" Softly, lovingly she would plead to him. In the next breath she would shriek and storm at him, until the other patients had to put their hands to their ears.

As pathetic a turn as Margery's destiny had taken, even now the cruel, bitter Fates didn't seem satisfied. But maybe they were satisfied a few days later when the doctors held a consultation. The doctors decided it was best to send Margery to Chattahoochee, Florida's asylum for the mentally unbalanced.

The Yaegers received a letter from Ramon Gonzales, Gladys's husband. He wrote that he had found in Porto Rico just the farm he wanted. He asked Mother Yaeger to send him money to make a payment on it, and to purchase stock. She refused.

Gladys received one more letter from her husband. He asked her to send him $50 so he could return to her. She sent it. He did not come back. As this was written, Gladys had started divorce proceedings and Margery—was in Chattahoochee.

Here we have two sisters who found love together, were married together, and separated from their husbands together. One was philosophical about it; she said, in effect, "Well, that's that. I made a mistake." But the other—

Psychologists say there are some persons who can not adjust themselves to a severe blow to their pride, or ego. Such a wound can be disastrous, causing what we call "broken heart." There are many examples; some in fiction. Ophelia, the Shakespearean heroine, for instance; she went stark mad when tragedy entered her life. Unrequited love was too great a blow; it destroyed the delicate balance of her emotional stability.

Highlights of Broadway From the Circle to the Square by JACK LAIT

He Produces

HERE is a temperamental young fellow, a college man with highbrow propensities and roughneck talents, named J. Edgar Harris.

He produces plays. Harris started off like a torpedo with "Broadway" and supplemented with several notable addenda, including "Front Page." If there were ever two more spurious, specious or utterly phoney plays presented than those two, this couldn't be at the moment think of which they might have been.

"Highlights" is supposed to know something about Broadway, after which one of these rhinestones was named, and about which it was supposed to tell. And if Lait knows nothing about Broadway, which has here and there been suggested, it is unlikely anyone will insist that he knows nothing about front pages.

And you may take it from the oversigned that both these dramatic comedies were amusing, exciting and clever, but strictly the boloney.

Press-room

"Broadway" was as much like Broadway as "Front Page" was like the Criminal Courts press-room in Chicago. In that room Lait functioned as a reporter for the Chicago Evening American for years. Out of that room came thousands of memorable stories. And "Front Page" wasn't any one of them.

There passed through the hands of working newspapermen the daily grind of man's inhumanity to man (and woman) as sifted through the fine-grained grating of hard-boiled newsmen—the romances, comedies and tragedies of life in a heterogeneous and polyglot metropolis; the politics and the graft, the finagling and the finessing, the horror and the terror and the grim suspense of a big city's madnerness.

In the Criminal Court Building "run" were the Sheriff's office, the Coroner's office, the State's Attorney's Office, the Grand Jury, the Probate Court, the County Jail—

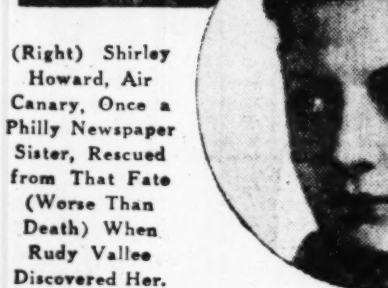

In that old Cook County Jail, Lait witnessed and "covered" 27 executions!

Never Lived

But, what did that Eastern college grad, J. Edgar Harris, know about Chicago Criminal Courts? Nothing! He had the unsophisticated sucker's detached viewpoint about it. And when a couple of sharpshooters distorted the scene, built reporters and editors who never lived or could have lived, invented crimes that could have happened but never did, and doctored them with posthumous nostrums of their own clumsy concoction, Harris fell hard—fell into a fortune.

And why not? He had done exactly the same with a cockeyed pipedream called "Broadway."

Critical

Some seasons passed. Harris had picked a few other masterpieces. His luck hadn't stuck. The same critics who whooped for "Broadway" (at least I bet on "Variety," and its Times Square wise-guy, should have known better) and for "Front Page" (at least Percy Hammond should have known better, for he was a Criminal Courts reporter in Chi with Lait) went critical. And the Harris illusion was busted.

The youthful superman of the theatre became a patsy. Some of the plays he put on didn't even get a square break—they couldn't have been as bad as the reviewers wrote that they were.

Harris ceased to deliver regularly. His ventures were sporadic. Another light on Broadway had been exploded or burnt out.

And then came "The Green Bay Tree"

Masterpiece

The keen ones knew before they had been in the house half an hour that here was an event!

Obviously teetering on a forbidden topic, translucent, fragile and diaphanous, the tantalizing, fascinating fabrice was spun. The hand of a genius guided its thin threads with sure touch through intricate, precarious labyrinths of knots and snarls which would have rent it to rags at the slightest slip.

We held our breaths. This was tightrope walking over Niagara. The man had shown some clever footwork before, but he had romped on thick broad planks and clowned his way. Once or twice before he had attempted delicate dexterity and hadn't made the crossing.

We drew a profound sigh—of relief and gratitude. Numbskulls accuse critics of being soulless embalmers who hope for fresh bodies to use as material for their skill with hypo and scalpel.

The professional stage reporters with whom I have so long worked and of whom I was so long one love nothing more than to discover things that are fine. Only a regular critic can realize how much banality and mendacity and vulgarly passes across the American stage. Only a regular critic can truly appreciate the relief of artistry, quality and ability.

We were thrilled because "The Green Bay Tree" had come through—had passed the pitfalls of temptation, carelessness and clumsiness, and had gone over as another of the rare assurances that the nation's stage is not entirely dependent on bawdy farces, rowdy comedies and raw revues.

We all agreed that "Broadway" and "Front Page" were "good theatre." We all (or most of us) drank six-bit gin during prohibition, too...but we didn't mistake it for champagne. We didn't even mistake Harris's "Uncle Vanya" for champagne, though it fizzed some and had a foreign label. But "The Green Bay Tree"—here was sparkling Burgundy, effervescent, iridescent, intoxicating. It was as heartening a triumph for the New York dailies as it was for J. Edgar Harris. Our reviewers were unanimous.

The Tricks They Use To Crash The Movies

Jean Williams had no luck in Hollywood until she invented the name of Sonia Karlov and masqueraded as a "famous Danish actress." . . . Then the moguls showered offers on her—but she lost out because they got angry when they learned how she had fooled them.

"I WANT a job in the movies!" From the four corners of the earth comes this cry. Apparently nobody is immune to the lure of Hollywood's glamorous industry. Even the smallest, most inconspicuous job is an irresistible lure—each individual apparently figuring that once inside a studio in any capacity he will be "discovered" to be a great player and put into the shoes of Greta Garbo or Clark Gable. Or perhaps he will reveal himself as a great director like Ernst Lubitsch, a great executive like Irving Thalberg, or a great screen writer like Frances Marion.

So the quest continues, thousands upon thousands trying vainly to get some sort of a foothold in a studio. And, of course, every time the papers carry a story about an unknown getting a break, the job hunters start pounding at the studio portals with renewed vigor. Most of them follow the ordinary paths but a few try all kinds of ingenious tricks to attract attention to themselves.

Naturally there is no royal road to studio employment. Recruits for the movie racket are gathered from all parts of the world and in all kinds of ways. Anyone, apparently, might be offered a movie job; no one is certain of getting one. Next to marriage, the cynics tell you, trying to get into the movies is the world's biggest gamble.

But there's one tip which it would be well to heed—don't try any clever tricks. They have been tried for years, but no matter how great the ingenuity it seldom works. Studio workers are pretty wise to such stunts and can spot them in a minute.

AND even should the stunt work, about the greatest reward that can be expected is two or three days' work as an extra at $5 a day. So far there is no record of a single successful member of the film colony who came into the business through a trick.

Those who do manage to get inside the gates through such methods—and a very few do—find themselves outside again in very short order.

One Canadian youth was so anxious to get a movie job that he spent everything, right down to his last dime, in an attempt to get it. First he had some cards printed with a long, impressive English name on them. Then he bought some very dressy-looking clothes. Next he hired an expensive car and chauffeur. Arriving at the studio, he ordered the chauffeur to drive right through the gate without coming to a stop.

Once inside he leaped out of the car and ran into the casting office. But the casting director wasn't impressed. For all of his trouble and expense the youth got one day's work as an extra. That was all.

ANOTHER young man hit upon the idea of writing a "Strange Interlude" letter to an assistant director, whose name he happened to know, the letter reading:

"My dear friend Harry (blah and nerts): Just a note, old pal, to say hello (hope the dope doesn't throw this in the wastebasket). As you know, Harry old pal (the lunk); things have been very bad with me (like thunder they have, but the fathead doesn't know the difference) and I would appreciate anything you can do for me (hope the louse doesn't offer me any of that $7.50 per day bunk).

"I have always admired your handling of production and like to work for you (why, the rat used to be a punk under me—I sure hate to ask him for a job). Heard you were using a lot of people in 'Flying Down to Rio' and thought I would drop my old pal a note (would rather take a beating).

"Have always wanted to connect on the RKO lot (I hope the darn place burns down and you go out on your ear and have to work extra a while). Anyway, old pal, do what you can for me (bet I never hear from the nit wit). Here's hoping your new picture is a dandy (I hope it flops).

"Well, palsy, I think I will close for this time (you son of a sea cook). Say hello to that lovely wife and baby for me (I hope they feel bad). As ever, your pal (what a lie), Eddie Baker."

Baker got a few days' work, but that was all.

One instance of the extent to which some people will go for a crack at the movies involves Richard Dix. Nearly a year ago Dix was awakened from a sound sleep one night. In his bedroom was a man covering him with a very mean-looking automatic.

The lure of Hollywood's glamorous industry has developed the world's strangest technique in job-seeking ---but you're advised not to try it

Velma Gresham incorporated herself for $20,000 and got a lot of publicity . . . but the nearest she got to a screen career was a couple of tests.

"DON'T get alarmed," said the man. "I'm not going to hurt you and I don't want your money or your jewels. All I want is a job in the movies and I know you can get it for me. Furthermore, you had better do it or else . . ."

He has worked as an extra in several of Dix's pictures since then.

Getting a flock of publicity often is sufficient to get the subject inside of a studio, particularly if the subject is a young and pretty girl. But that usually is as far as she goes.

About a year ago a young girl by the name of Velma Gresham hit upon the idea of incorporating herself in order to finance her start in pictures. All of the papers were drawn up and she was duly and legally incorporated for $20,000. The idea was that she would sell 50 per cent of the stock in herself and stockholders would share in all of her earnings.

It was a novel idea and got her considerable space in the newspapers. However, there were no buyers for the stock and the closest every studio in an attempt to demonstrate her ability to the sound department heads. But not once did she get a chance even to emit a cow's moo.

At this point Miss Williams decided to take matters into her own hands. She posted herself outside the gate of the Paramount studio and waited for the right moment. When everything seemed quiet, she sent her dog racing through the gate and while the watchman was trying to corner him she slipped through.

Suddenly she came face to face with Harpo Marx and immediately started howling like a dog. At first Harpo thought she had gone mad but when she explained to him what she wanted, he took her to Franklin Hansen, head of the sound department. There the girl went through her entire routine—but she got nowhere.

One man hit upon the idea of exploiting himself by mailing postcards to the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer casting director. Each card bore the inscription "George is coming." Every day for three weeks these cards arrived.

An Arkansas girl sent in a life-sized picture of herself, in the scantiest of costumes made of ribbon. . . . Everybody in the studio gathered around to look it over—but when they shipped it back, collect, and said nothing about a job.

she got to a screen career was a couple of tests. And, almost as quickly as she came, she faded from sight.

Hitch-hiking from West Haven, Conn., to Hollywood was the first step made by Shirley Williams, attractive 21-year-old girl, toward getting a job in the movies. Accompanied by her dog, this intrepid miss made the long journey with only $2 in her purse.

SHE didn't want to be an actress either. Her forte was imitating animals and she wanted to do that. One by one she visited

THEN George arrived in person and the casting director's interest went out the window. He apparently had little or nothing to offer, not even being a particularly good type for extra work, so he was dismissed without ever getting inside the studio proper.

Then there was the clever Arkansas girl who evidently thought that if studio executives once got a really good look at her a contract would be forthcoming immediately. So she had a life-size picture made of herself wearing a flimsy bathing suit made of ribbons.

The picture was vividly colored and caused quite a furore around the studio. All of the executives and directors were called in to give it the once over. Then it was recreated and shipped back to the sender—collect. And not a word was said about giving her a job.

The stunt which still remains at the top of the records was the one pulled several years ago by Jean Williams, a former Broadway chorus girl. Broadway wasn't very kind to Jean. And neither was Hollywood. Then she was injured in an accident. A sojourn of several months in a hospital followed. Jean put that time to good use. By the time she emerged from the hospital, Jean Williams had been completely forgotten. So the brunet Jean Williams breezed forth as blond Sonia Karlov, "famous Danish actress." Her accent was flawless, too, the result of six months' study.

SONIA KARLOV arrived in Hollywood, engaged a press agent and gave a huge reception. Everyone was fascinated by her. Producers practically stumbled over one another trying to get her name on the dotted line. Cecil B. DeMille was the fortunate one.

Immediately he started issuing glowing statements about his new "find" who was to become a sensation on the screen. Then Sonia was discovered and made a complete confession of her trick.

Think of it, the great DeMille fooled by a little Broadway chorine! But she had her contract and he had to keep her for six months. However, the girl never got a chance to appear before the camera.

Charlemagne, King of the Franks; the American Delano Family Stems from Him.

William the Conqueror, Whose Daughter, Gundred, Married the First Earl of Warren. The American Warrens Married Delanos.

THE PARADE OF THE AGES

The Above Graphic Drawing by Louis Biedermann Illustrates the Romantic March of the Generations from Charlemagne and Alfred the Great, of Old, to President Franklin D. Roosevelt in the White House Today.

from which the President and the street-sweeper have sprung! Their common ancestors, in direct line, go back as far as Hulof, the first Viking Duke of the Normans, born about 860 A. D.; St. Arnoul, Charlemagne's ancestor, 611 A. D.; Guelph, Prince of the Scyrr, 476 A. D., and Priam, King of France, 382 A. D.

The name "Delano" is derived from the little town of Lannoy, a few miles from Lille, France, which was settled by Danish Vikings in the dim dawn of the Dark Ages, and which bore the ancient Roman name of "Almetum." Its Dukes were linked with Europe's greatest royalty. A direct descendant of its first Duke, Hugues de Lannoy, came to America in 1621 aboard the good ship "Fortune." His name was Philippe de la Noye, and all the American "Delanos" are in turn descended from him.

As if this weren't enough, the son of Philippe de la Noye married a Warren girl in Massachusetts—and her grandfather, Richard Warren, had come over on the "Mayflower" in 1620. So two amazingly ancient and famous families were united on American soil—for Richard Warren's blood was a blend of the Saxon King Alfred and the Norman William the Conqueror. Richard was as much the ancestor of "Tom" Delano and Franklin Delano Roosevelt as old Philippe de la Noye himself.

ALL of which makes no difference at all to jovial "Tom" Delano, as he shoulders his push-broom in the keen Nevada mornings and trundles his wheeled cart out to take care of the parks and pavements of his neat home town. "Tom" Delano doesn't care a whit that the blood of Alfred the Great and Charlemagne flows through his healthy and vigorous arteries. It does interest him, though, that his father, and the mother of the President who today is doing such courageous and energetic things, both had the same name—Delano—and were twigs of the same family tree. It sort of lends a personal touch to what "Tom" reads every day in the newspapers.

And, presumably, President Roosevelt isn't particularly awed by his remarkable European ancestry, either. Apparently he's never mentioned it. The Middle Ages are a pretty dead issue. But the President's absorbing patriotism, his obvious feeling of responsibility for the welfare of the whole country, may be due in part to his feeling of kinship with three Colonial families, Delano, Warren and Roosevelt, second in distinction to none—families of fighters, workers and doers, members of which have been on the scene in every crisis in our nation's history!

Not that that is the total story of the President's early-American connections, either. Through intermarriages of both the Delanos and Roosevelts with various "Mayflower" descendants, President Roosevelt is actually descended from no and they've wandered widely. And even if none of these names is your last name, remember that you have maternal ancestors who "lost" their family names when they married, just as the President's own mother—born Sarah Delano—did when she became Mrs. James Roosevelt. Anyone who has done any work in genealogy knows how deceptive last-names may be, and how hard family off-shoots are to trace when it's all left to hearsay. Are you quite sure of your great-grandmother's maiden name?

Thomas Severance Delano, hard-working city employe of Sparks, came within an ace of not finding out about his fifth-cousin relationship to the President. You see, at some time during his 66 years of life he had fallen into the erroneous habit of pronouncing his last name "deLAyno."

The President calls it "Delano," with the accent on the first syllable.

Tom was reading about the President one day, when this little fact was mentioned. Immediately it crossed his memory that his own father, a romantic old sea-captain who had sailed twice around the world on sailing-ships, and had come up into Nevada in the rough early days, had insisted upon calling himself "Delano," too, though spelling it with only one "l."

AND that brought to Tom's mind some correspondence he had had a few years back with some people named Delano who lived in Massachusetts. They had been digging into the family record, and had established Thomas of Sparks as a relative. He hadn't paid much attention to the Easterners at the time and had put the matter out of his mind.

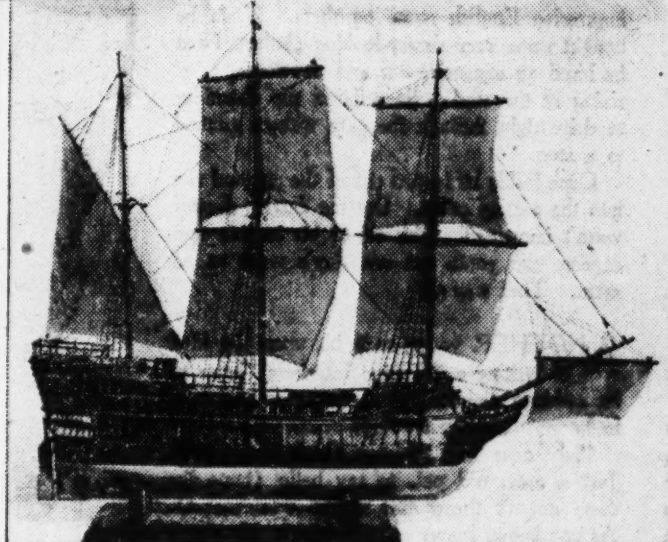

Now he grew interested, and hunted up the correspondence again. After all, he had two sons who—like himself—had followed railroad-ing; and two daughters besides. Grandchildren were coming along. Maybe they'd like to know it, if they were blood-relatives of the "New Deal!"

So that was how Thomas Severance Delano, street-sweeper, established kinship to Roosevelt, and to Taft, Grant, Taylor and the Adamsses as well—and, behind them for countless generations, to his direct descent from the half-legendary medieval figures he hadn't read about since he went to school.

Now, such a "family tree" seems so incredible and surprising, off hand, that people couldn't be blamed for taking it with a grain of salt. So New York investigators who heard of it proceeded to go to the genealogical department of the New York Public Library, and check up. They found it was perfectly true!

The direct royal ancestry of Warren of the "Mayflower" and de la Noye of the "Fortune" was plainly upon record in the most authentic of less than six of the "Mayflower's" passenger list. When his ancestor Philippe de la Noye, the original American Delano, came over on the "Fortune," the second Pilgrim ship, landing the year after the "Mayflower," the family began. All these old families were large, and the sons and daughters married—which brings up an interesting possibility:

You may be related to the President yourself! The thing is entirely possible. Such names as Warren, Delano, Dilney or various other forms to which "de la Noye" was altered; Cooke, Adams, Howland, Allerton, Tilley, Alden, Priest—if they're back in your family somewhere, might well make you a candidate for some degree of distant cousinship to Roosevelt.

Branches of these early New England families are to be found in all parts of the country—for the pioneering blood was in their veins,

IN THE little railroad town of Sparks, a suburb of Reno, where the Southern Pacific trackage pierces the Nevada desert, there's a municipal street-sweeper who takes an almost proprietary interest in the doings of the White House.

His name is Thomas Severance Delano, Jr., and he's a husky, healthy Westerner, 66 years young. He's a former railroad engineer. The reason for his interest in White House affairs is this:

"Tom" Delano has lately found out that he is a fifth cousin of our President, Franklin Delano Roosevelt.

The same records which established this relationship, also prove that "Tom" Delano, the street-sweeper, is as much a "Mayflower" descendant as President Roosevelt himself.

More than that—the same extraordinary early-American family which produced "Tom" Delano and Franklin Delano Roosevelt, also gave them a kinship with no less than five previous Presidents of the United States! They were John Adams, John Quincy Adams, Zachary Taylor, Ulysses S. Grant and William Howard Taft.

President Roosevelt himself, of course, is a sixth cousin of yet another President, the late Theodore Roosevelt. But that was on his father's side. The Delano connection is on his mother's side, the President's mother having been Miss Sarah Delano. "Tom" Delano, of Sparks, Nevada, doesn't acknowledge any relationship to "Teddy" Roosevelt except as a very remote in-law.

But that's only a small part of the story—the American part. A yet more romantic series of revelations, clearly established by genealogical proof, shows that the two American ancestors from whom "Tom" Delano and President Roosevelt are jointly descended had amazing—almost incredible—pedigrees of their own!

And Richard Delano's father was Nathaniel Delano, 1695-1770, who married Elizabeth Durfee. She bore him 13 children.

And now we get to the meat of the story.
For Nathaniel's father was the famous Lieuten-than Delano fought in the Pequot War, the very first war on this continent.

BUT Nathaniel's youngest brother, Thomas was President Roosevelt's direct ancestor. And Nathaniel's eldest brother, Jonathan, Jr., was President Grant's direct ancestor. All three go back to the amazing marriage that united—or reunited—the blood of Norman and Saxon kings.

And, finally, Lieutenant Jonathan Delano's father was the original "Fortune" emigrant, Phillippe de la Noye, nine times a father.

It's by the various marriages of these many children that the linking of the Delanos to the Adamses, to President Taylor, and President Taft, comes about. That of Roosevelt, Grant and Thomas Delano of Sparks is nearer.

there are Grant children, and Roosevelt children, three, alive and flourishing today—including little "Sistie" Dall, the President's pet granddaughter, who frequently lives at the White House and keeps it very cheerful by her presence.

If any of the above names is in your own family—you may belong to this great American clan yourself—and have its medieval blood in your veins, besides Roosevelt relationship.

and was a miner himself. At 15 he fell in love with Annie Ram-dohr, but they didn't marry until 10 years later, which was in 1892.

They moved to Wadsworth, near Reno, the next year. Old Captain Delano went with the young couple. The Captain lived to a good old age; his tombstone reads: "Born in New Bedford, 1832; died in Sparks, 1916." His father had been Richard Delano, third of the name, of Massachusetts.

"Tom" was a yard worker for the Southern Pacific, shoveling coal at $2 a day. Then he rose to be a locomotive fireman, and finally an engineer.
By this time, the division headquarters was at the new town of Sparks, and for 20 years Delano drove his locomotive out of Sparks. His sons became railroaders; Thomas the Third is a clerk today in the Southern Pacific offices at Sparks, while Frank Delano is a Southern Pacific conductor. The younger daughter, Elsie, is the wife cluding that of street-sweeper and caretaker of city parks—his present occupation.

The best way to trace Thomas Delano's extraordinary pedigree is to trace it backwards.
His father, as noted, was Captain Thomas Severance Delano, born in 1832, and his mother Sarah Mulligan.

The Captain, in turn, was the sixth son of Richard Delano, III, born in New Bedford in 1793. Richard, too, was long-lived—died at 79.

And Richard's father was Richard Delano II, or Jr. He was born at Fairhaven in 1767, and married Drusilla Freeman.

NEXT WEEK—The amazing medieval forbears of President Roosevelt and the Delano, Warren and Roosevelt families—one of the strangest and least-known chapters in American history, proving that the Pilgrim Fathers in certain cases weren't mere "commoners," but men of truly ancient and noble blood, whose origin was that of achievement and conquest. Students of eugenics, viewing President Roosevelt's courageous deeds today, will say:
"No wonder—it's heredity!"

SECKATARY HAWKINS AND HIS FAIR and SQUARE CLUB

MYSTERY ON THE RIVER BANK.

MONDAY.—Today we boys held our club meeting as usual, right after school, and Doc Waters came down to the clubhouse.

"Don't mind me, boys," he says, "I just came to watch you hold a meeting—it's been so long since I saw one."

We boys all liked Doc so much, because he really is the one who gave us this clubhouse and almost everything that's in it. He is the only doctor in our little town, and he is a bachelor, and he sort of watches over us boys. Our mothers and fathers know Doc Waters keeps his eye on us, and that's why we can always get out and come down to our little clubhouse on the river bank to hold our meetings. There was very little spoken at our meeting, the boys all answered the roll call, and paid their dime-a-week dues, as we always do on Mondays.

TUESDAY.—Doc Waters came again today. He sat through the whole meeting and listened to everything that was said. But we boys stick together pretty well, and we didn't talk about anything except club matters. None of us want to worry Doc with our troubles. So we kept quiet about the troubles we've been having lately. After the meeting adjourned Bill Darby took the boys down to the hollow for a game of snatch-ball. I stayed in to write the minutes of the meeting. While I was writing I heard Doc Waters moving around out in the meeting room. I got up and walked to the curtains that hang in the doorway to my writing room. Doc had the cupboard door open, and was moving some things about on the top shelf.

"I see you fellows are out of iodine and adhesive tape," he said, as he saw me watching him.

"Yeah," I said, slowly, "we need some more."

"Well, I'll send up another supply," he said, closing the cupboard door. "And, before I go, Hawkins, you might as well tell me how you came to use up the last of the old supply. Been having some fights, lately?"

I looked at him hard for a second. Then I had to smile. "There's no foolin' you, Doc," I said. "Yes, we've had a fight. I didn't see it, but Bill Darby got a cut on his forehead. We used the last bit of iodine on his cut. We don't know who did it, but I think I'll be able to tell you that pretty soon, Doc."

"Now, look here, Hawkins," said Doc, "we've been pretty good friends these last few years. You know I'd do anything I could for you. But Judge Granberry knows I kind of keep a look-out over this clubhouse and you kids, and every time something happens he calls me. Now, he heard about Bill Darby's hurt. Most likely Mr. Darby called him up. Anyway, he told me to come down and warn you that if there's any trouble coming, you boys are to stay on the right side. You know what that means?"

"Yeah," I said, "it means that we never start a fight. We only defend ourselves when some other fellow starts it."

Doc nodded. "Yeah," he said, "that's it, exactly."

WEDNESDAY.—Last night Lew Hunter tapped on the window while I was doing my home work in my dad's library. I slipped on my coat and my old plush cap and went out.

"What you want, Lew?" I asked. He said: "Come on down to the clubhouse with me; the preacher wants some sheets of music which I forgot to bring back from our meeting today—they are on the old organ in our shack."

Well, I said I would go. We went down and I unlocked the clubhouse and turned on the lights. We got the music sheets. They were on the music stand of the old battered organ, where Lew was practicing them today. We hurried out and I locked the clubhouse again.

"Thanks, Hawkins," said Lew as we hurried down the path, "but I hope your pop doesn't find out that you sneaked away tonight for me."

I laughed at Lew. "Don't worry, Lew," I told him, "my pop knows you live with the preacher, and when I tell him that you just had to get that music."

But I didn't say any more. At that very moment we both stopped and stared at a light moving slowly down the river. It came from the upper bend all of a sudden, and now it was slowly making for the Pelham landing. As it drew nearer we could see it was a motor boat with its motor shut off. The light was a lantern in the prow. It stopped at the Pelham wharf. We could not make out who was on the boat, or what the boat really looked like. We stayed and watched the light for about 15 minutes. Then, suddenly, we saw the lights of a steamboat slowly turn the lower bend of the river, coming up our way.

It seemed that the persons in the motor boat across the way grew suddenly alarmed—anyway, we heard the motor of the boat spring into action, and the light on the boat's prow swung around and she sailed away upstream before the steamboat could reach her. We didn't know what to think. We waited until the steamboat passed us. By this time the little motorboat had almost turned the north bend, and the sound of its engine had died out. We recognized the old steamboat—it was the old Kentucky Belle, which travels sometimes to Paducah and sometimes as far as New Orleans. She sailed past gracefully and silently—all but the "ah-sh-shing" from her smokestacks. I got a kick out of her at that—there's something great about a steamboat plugging up the river in the we held our meeting after school, and I told Shadow Loomis what Lew and I had seen. Just as I was finishing up, in comes Briggen, the Pelham leader. He told us about the mysterious motor boat. I told him we had seen it twice. He said he was sure it was from Watertown, and that the Gideon gang were laying some dark—her lights reflecting in the water and all that. And then we went home.

THURSDAY.—Last night Lew Hunter and I met down on our old river bank and waited. I told him I wanted to watch the Pelham wharf again, and maybe he could help me figure out why that little motor boat with its lantern in the prow was coming down this way. I wasn't sure it would come again, but I just figured it would. And sure enough it did. At almost the very same minute that it came last night, it showed its lights around the north bend and made for the Pelham landing. It seemed to be waiting for something. A light suddenly sprang up in one of the windows of the shack in which is the headquarters of Briggen, the Pelham gang leader. And just as quick as that window lighted up, just as quickly the motor boat started its rat-tat-tat and turned about and went back up the river. We saw a figure come out of Briggen's shack and run down to the landing, followed by three others. They stood on the little wharf and looked at the boat going around the north bend. Then they went back up to their shack. Lew and I started for home again. "Mysterious," says Lew. "Interesting, anyhow," I said.

THURSDAY NIGHT.—Today

and of a trap for both the Pelham crowd and our club as well. He said he wanted to make some kind of a bargain with our club that we stick together and fish this gang from Watertown. I told him we would do the fair and square thing by him. No sooner had he left than Little Tim's grandmother came into our clubhouse. All of us boys had just been getting ready to go out, but we stayed to hear what she had to say. She said Little Tim had been trying to get out of the house, but she wouldn't let him. Each night at 7 o'clock he began trying to get out. But she always held him. And then, after 7:30, he no longer wanted to get out.

"I am so afraid," she said, "that he is trying to get back to those boys in Watertown with whom he played the last few months. You boys must not let him. If you see him, you must send him back home to his old granny—he hasn't any pappy nor mammy to look after him, poor boy!"

We told her how much we liked Little Tim. And that we would do everything we could to help her save Little Tim.

FRIDAY.—We got out of school a half hour earlier today, and we held our meeting right away in our clubhouse, and then Bill Darby took the boys for a hike across the Pelham ridge. I stayed to write the minutes of the meeting, and then I took my canoe and paddled across to Pelham to talk to Briggen, the Pelham leader. In the first place, I wanted to keep his gang from running into ours on the Pelham ridge. Second place, I wanted to learn what I could about their latest news from the Gideon gang. But Briggen's gang is afraid to talk. Are they afraid of Gideon? Do they know something that we don't care to tell? Those were the questions that bothered me as I paddled back to the clubhouse at dusk.

FRIDAY NIGHT.—Tonight we held singing practice as usual in our little clubhouse. Lew Hunter played the organ and we sang. Just about 7:30, when we had swung into the chorus of the third song, there came the deep tones of a steamboat whistle. We all hushed our singing. Lew quit playing the organ.

"What boat was that?" asked Lew, in a hushed whisper.

"I don't know," I answered, "I never heard that whistle around here before."

We all ran lickety split down to the little landing. But all we saw was the tail light of the steamboat as it turned the north bend on its way to Watertown. And then we all went home.

SATURDAY.—Well, Gideon's gang has succeeded. They've got Little Tim. His grandma came over to our clubhouse early this morning just as we were starting to hold our club meeting. She was very nervous, and she had tears in her eyes.

"They took him!" she cried. "He slipped out of the house when I thought he was asleep. I went to his little bed to see that he was covered, but he wasn't there—his little bed was empty and the covers on the floor! He must have slipped out of the open window. I ran down to the Pelham boys' shacks, but nobody was there. Then I saw a little light down on the log wharf—I ran down, but a motor boat started away from the wharf just as I came down the path—it was a motor boat, with a big shiny light in the front—and I know Little Timmy was in that boat. A steamboat passed while I stood on the little landing—it seemed like the motor boat wanted to get away before that steamboat passed."

"What was the name of that steamboat, please?" asked our captain.

"Oh, I was too excited to look for a name of a boat—you boys know 'my Little Timmy—you know he mustn't play with those bad boys from Watertown—they'll get him into trouble, sure and he won't come home for days and days! Oh, you boys are the Fair and Square Club—you will help me get my Timmy back home again—"

"Sure we will, Grandma," spoke up Jerry Moore, "I like Little Tim—even if he was my own little brother I couldn't let him better—I'll promise you we will bring him back for you!"

"The whole club will promise you that, Grandma," spoke up our captain. "Fair and square, we will not stop until we bring him back to you."

The old lady smiled through her tears; she couldn't talk; she couldn't say thanks, but we could see it upon her dear old face, as the tears trickled down through the wrinkles—and then she went home.

"Well," said our captain, "our high order spy system will organize at once. I want every boy in this club to report to Seck Hawkins for spy duty. There's been a mysterious steamboat around this old river bank, and she has a whistle none of us can recognize. There's been a strange motor boat coming down the river every night—these things we've got to figure out, fellows, and what's more important, we promised Grandma we'd bring back her Little Tim—and no matter what happens, we've got to do that!"

Which we did.

Dear Pen Pal: Just 21 more days of 1933 and then comes New Year's Day. It is a most happy time for all of us boys and girls, because it means that we are closer to the goal we have set for ourselves when we grew up. New Year's Eve is perhaps one of the most beautiful in the year, because at midnight you hear the merriment bells and wailing whistles that are bidding farewell to the old year. It has been a good year, all in all, and we do not like to part with it, somehow. And as we listen to the bells and whistles blowing, we look out of the window, and in our minds we might see the old year shambling off like an old gray and white horse.

Father Time, it is his place in the hall of history. We feel a little pang of sorrow, perhaps—but before we have time to think further on it, lo! a new note comes into the sound of the bells and the whistles—a joyous note of welcome and gladness, for the New Year is standing upon its threshold, smiling and bidding us happiness! We rush to clasp the New Year in our arms, and in our joy forget the sadness that the passing of the Old Year caused. "Happy New Year" rings the glad cry from every tongue. And from the four corners of the earth the winds bring back the echo, "Happy New Year!"

The meeting will now come to order, so that we may introduce to you some of our new members. The first letter we pick up today is from a member of a branch club in Michigan which is doing some fine work:

Dear Secretary Hawkins: My, but that was a dandy book that you sent me. Thank you ever and ever so much. I liked it very much. After I read it, I read it aloud to the club here. They all like it. Right now one of the club members is reading it again, because it is so good. I think it is one of the most interesting tales I have ever read. One branch is working on some books for the hospital. Every year we send cheer material to the sick children. Another boy wants to join our branch club. I am sending you his name and address so he may get a card and pin. Will you please send him a good luck coin if you have any left?

In closing, let me thank you again for the fine book you sent. I'll always try to be fair and square.

Yours, fair and square,

WILBUR RAATZ,

Onekama, Mich.

Time to adjourn this meeting. We will meet here again next week on this same page. All of the members whose letters are printed in our weekly meeting will receive by mail this week a copy of our club's adventures on the old river bank. If your letter has not appeared, don't give up. Write again.

Bye, till next week.

Yours, fair and square,

Secretary Hawkins

TRIP TO THE CENTURY OF PROGRESS.

Had told me one day that we would leave for the World's Fair the next week. I was very much excited over getting to go. I began to get my clothes ready. I thought the day would never come. I was to start. Finally, it came and we were up early that morning ready to go. We stopped every night at the tourist camps and every morning I would beat mother and she up as I was anxious to get there. It took us two days to go.

We saw many interesting things. There was one large ferris wheel. It looked like it took such a good ride because it took you up so high. I told mother I wanted to ride on it. It seemed as if I would never get to the top. When I got up there I could see a great many things. I went to see a house with a gold roof and I saw how the radio worked.

We stayed at the tourist camp and then went to Canada. The country was very pretty. Even though I enjoyed my trip to the fullest extent, it was glad to get back home.

HELEN PEARSON,

Box 57, Milltown, Ala.

Dear Seck:

How are you and all the boys down on the river bank feeling today? I have been reading some of three different organizations. I was secretary a year at a club we had in school in the sixth grade, secretary of a different club in the seventh grade and am now secretary of a group of Campfire Girls in East Point.

I have a bicycle and go just lots of places on it. Sure is fun to ride on and go on adventures. That's what we call our trips. I love excitement and adventures. At present some of the boys' bicycles are broken and I have been reading just some of the boys' friends' letters. I have just finished "Pollyanna."

I was 13 years old last March 9. I wonder if I have a twin. Pen pal, please, I promise to answer all letters. Last June I graduated from grammar school with honor and had to make a speech at our exercises.

Yours, fair and square,

LESTINA STANLEY,

106 W. Hamilton Ave., East Point, Ga.

Dear Seck and Pen Pal:

Isn't it grand to be back in school again with your teacher and friends? I'm absent from school today with a cold, but I'm better now. I can go to school tomorrow. And now that I've had appendicitis I can't take exercise with the other children. Seck shouldn't be so kind to me. I should be a good kid and be proud of our good school days, with the attention we receive from our teacher.

I want someone from another state, especially from a far northern or western state, to write me about their state, and in return I will write and tell you about Georgia, which is my native state. I'm sure I can tell you many facts about Georgia, as we are now studying Georgia history in school. And if you should be from a state where there is no cotton grown, I would be glad to send you some from our farm and tell you about it or some other Georgia product. And would you please send me something that isn't manufactured or grown in Georgia?

Yours, fair and square,

AGNES THOMAS,

Care of Greenville School, Greenville, Ga.

Dear Seck:

How are you and all the pen pals I have in my little box right now? I live in Atlanta and go to E. Rivers' school. I read and enjoy all of your letters in The Atlanta Constitution. I read about the boy who went to Tide Mountain. I have been to Tide. I read also about the boy who went to Coldwater down, but I am going to tell you about my trip this summer.

I went with my mother and father and little sister to Philadelphia and New York. I saw President Roosevelt's house and Washington and his family's graves at Mount Vernon. We were gone about two weeks.

WHITNEY MILLER,

A GOOD TURN.

Do a good turn every day.

If at work, or if at play,

Help the old across the street,

Help your cap to all you meet.

Soon the ice and snow will come,

Then your fingers will be numb.

Help your daddy get the wood,

Help your mother with the food.

Be obedient to the law,

Try to mend your every flaw.

You must others' burden bear,

Always playing fair and square.

Never forget a daily prayer,

Whether here or whether there.

Always value what you earn,

Never idle, but ever learn.

CLIMBING ROSES IN THE SOUTH

By W. ELBRIDGE FREEBORN

THERE is one plant of much beauty that may be used for covering ugly spots, whether this spot be an old fence, an old bank, the bare side of a garage, a post or a stump. This plant is the climbing rose. Besides its usefulness for covering up these ugly spots, it is well worth while for the beauty that it has in its own right. Thinking of roses brings to mind at once a rose garden on Ponce de Leon avenue. The garden is located between the two Ponce de Leons, about one-half block west of Lullwater road. The garden faces toward North Ponce de Leon, but it is a thing of beauty from either side. Although the garden is intended for trials on roses, it is being planted with shrubs as well.

The newer varieties, such as Climbing Lady Hillingdon, Climbing Madame Butterfly, Climbing Duchess of Gainsborough, as well as the older and justly famous Climbing American Beauty and Climbing Dr. Van Fleet, are being used. They also are planting some of the Rugosa roses.

In the beds for bush roses, there will be found a great many of the very newest roses, such as Tallman, Rev. F. Roberts, Briarcliff, Lady Margaret Stewart, Lolita, Armour, Feu Joseph Lemoine, Shot Silk, Mrs. Erskine Pembroke, and as well as some of the older varieties, including Radiance, red and pink, Columbus, Mrs. Aaron Ward, Jean Guillemet, Madame Butterfly and others. All in all, the ladies have planted more than 200 varieties of roses, including some of every class—bush, climbing, polyantha and standard roses.

This garden is cared for by the Druid Hills Garden Club. The committee expects to keep almost daily notes on the various roses in order that they may know accurately which of the roses do best. Through this method it will be possible to keep a most complete record, including check showing which varieties were most resistant to disease and insects, as well as which bloomed most freely and beautifully.

It is indeed a great work that they have been doing, and every rose lover of the city is looking forward to the summer with a great deal of pleasure and wishing the club every success with their venture. It would be wonderful if more of the garden clubs would carry on similar civic improvements that would be valuable not only to the city, but also to all flower lovers.

We have strayed a bit from climbing roses, but we feel that everyone is interested in this new rose garden, who is interested in roses.

Probably the most important consideration in climbing roses is the selection of the best varieties for the purpose intended. In 1922 the American Rose Society conducted a rose referendum over the entire United States, asking that each member select one dozen best bush roses and one dozen best climbing roses. These results were compiled for reference after they were divided into sections. One of these sections included southern states, which were as follows: Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Kentucky, Tennessee, South Carolina, Virginia, Texas and Maryland. The 12 "best" climbing selected were, in the order named: Silver Moon, Dr. Van Fleet, American Pillar, Climbing American Beauty, Dorothy Perkins, Paul's Scarlet Climber, Tausendschon, Marechal Niel.

Christine Wright, Excelsa, Gardenia and Mrs. Robert Perry. These are some of the "best" roses for our immediate section. The Climbing Marechal Niel is not hardy in this section. There are a few plants in Atlanta that are growing fairly well, but as a rule, they will not prove hardy. If only a few miles are traveled in the direction of Charleston there may be seen quantities of them in perfect condition, but for the section around Atlanta, this rose is not advised.

Dorothy Perkins is not satisfactory here because of scale. For some reasons, it is more susceptible to mildew than any other rose. If this is allowed to go on it will not be long until your Dorothy Perkins has given this disease to the best of your roses. The American Pillar has much the same trouble that the Dorothy Perkins is troubled with. The other nine as a general rule will do well here in Atlanta.

The American Rose Society has for the past few years rated Dr. W. Van Fleet as the best of all climbers, and most people agree with them. This rose was introduced in 1910 by Dr. W. Van Fleet. The flowers are a light pink in color, have a beautifully shaped bud similar to the tea rose, each flower is borne on a stem that is fairly long, at least long enough for cutting. Each plant will produce thousands of blooms, and usually stays in full bloom about three weeks.

Under the new plant patent law there has been patented a rose by the name of New Dawn. This is an everblooming Dr. W. Van Fleet, having all the good qualities of Dr. W. Van Fleet, and in addition, blooming throughout the entire growing season. This rose carries plant patent No. 1.

The Climbing American Beauty is another fine climber that will grow successfully here. It has brilliant carmine flowers that have a good shape and are richly fragrant. The flowers appear either singly or in threes. Although this plant will not grow as rapidly as the Dr. Van Fleet, it is fairly vigorous grower. Another good, red climber is Paul's Scarlet Climber. This rose has a brilliant scarlet color. Flowers in this manner this year and see if you are not well pleased with your success. Probably the best white climber is the Silver Moon. The buds are creamy colored, nearly single, and borne in small sprays. The vine is unusually vigorous in growth, often growing 15 feet in a year. For a number of years there has been a growing demand for everblooming, climbing roses. There are a number of roses that are available for those of us who like to see the climbers in bloom more than once a year. Some of the varieties that have been satisfactory in Atlanta that may be called everblooming roses, include Climbing Lady Ashtown, Climbing Lady Hillingdon, Climbing Sunburst, Climbing Kaiserine Augusta Victoria and Reine Marie.

Did Justice Triumph?

By PETER LEVINS.

IT COULD hardly be said that the murder of William Wakefield was a half-hearted affair, as he was drugged, strangled, stabbed and shot. In between attempts, which covered a period of two days, the murderers dragged him out to the barn, intending to hang him, but the ceiling was too low.

Wakefield, possibly, should have foreseen this. He must have known that his wife's lover was a dangerous man. Any lover is probably a dangerous man in a situation like this, but James Plew had a criminal record in addition to a passionate affection for Bessie Wakefield. When matters became intolerable Plew did a thorough job in killing his rival. And Bessie was his willing aid.

The story begins a long while ago (1906) with the seduction of Bessie at the age of 16. She was a housemaid on a farm near Middlebury, Conn., and Bill Wakefield, 40, was a farmhand. He and Bessie were married and went to live in a hut not far from the banks of Lake Quassaug. Their quarrels so disturbed the neighbors and town officials that the couple was repeatedly urged to leave town.

Bill Wakefield, from all accounts, was not an ideal husband. After a child was born he even questioned its paternity, accusing Bessie of affairs with lusty young men of her own age. What foundation there was for the husband's accusation we do not know. James Plew is the only lover she ever had, so far as is known.

The domestic discord reached a high point in bitterness and noise in 1911, when Bessie was 21, and arrangements were made for them to move. They took a small apartment on the ground floor of a tenement in Bristol, Conn. The man who did the moving was James Plew, and after they settled in Bristol the young wife saw a great deal of Jimmy Plew. By this time there were two children, a boy and a girl.

Change of scene did not change the situation in the Wakefield union. The fighting continued. Bessie took her troubles to Plew and remained to be consoled. Before the end of the year she took her two children and went to live with her lover.

Bessie Wakefield no doubt felt that she had solved the great problem of her life. Possibly Wakefield should have realized this. Either out of spite or a real need for his wife and children, he began a determined effort to get them back and this effort culminated in November, 1912, when a lawyer whom Wakefield had consulted went to the Plew home and induced the young woman to return to her husband in Bristol.

It was a situation charged with disaster. The Wakefield home became a sort of armed camp. The wife continued to see Plew at every opportunity, and they spent many hours discussing how they might defeat Wakefield and be together again. Wakefield did not ease matters any by his repeatedly uttered suspicion that Plew was the father of the second child.

Which of the two first suggested murder we do not know, but by June, 1911, Jim and Bessie were seriously considering this rather extreme step.

The original thought—hardly original in a larger sense, of course—was to make it appear as though Wakefield had committed suicide, or possibly as though he had simply died of heart failure in his sleep. The more they discussed the project, the more delightful the project appeared. No more dreadful scenes, no more accusations.

Wakefield as he lay asleep at his wife's side.

Accordingly, Plew purchased some chloroform and also some laudanum, and late on the night of Saturday, June 21, 1913, the conspirators went to work. However, though the husband became more or less unconscious he did not die. The minutes ticked by and the man's heart kept ticking, too. Bessie and Jim grew impatient.

Thinking to hasten the process, Plew attempted to choke the victim with a string. This, too, failed.

How about hanging him? He would be found there in the barn in the morning, cold and dead, and every one would think he had killed himself.

The two dragged Wakefield out of the house and into the barn. Again, no luck. The ceiling was too low. There was not enough room to suspend the body, so that his feet would swing clear of the ground. Bessie and Jim, pretty disgusted by this time, we can well understand, got the limp husband back into the house and dropped him into bed again.

While Wakefield slept heavily, and perhaps dreamed beautiful dreams under the influence of the drugs, the wife and her lover whispered together regarding what they should try next. (The two children were asleep in an adjoining room.) Bessie, it was charged later, suggested that Jim take the victim to Lake Compounce and drown him. That, too, would have the appearance of suicide, and besides, the body might never be found.

Accordingly, having kept Wakefield in a more or less comatose state with the drugs, Plew got the husband out of the house the next day, walked him 14 miles to the Peasey woods in Cheshire, shot him six times, stabbed him in the chest, and then tied the lifeless body to a tree stump. And that was that.

Bessie let a day go by and then called on Police Chief Belden. She reported that her husband had disappeared and that she believed he had taken his own life.

"We'd been quarreling," she said, as though that were news in Bristol.

"What makes you think he's killed himself?" asked Belden. "Maybe he's just gone away for a few days. He's done that before, hasn't he?"

But the woman seemed quite sure that her husband was dead. Then, a few days after the murder, a hunter found the body, and Bessie and Plew were arrested. The authorities hardly hesitated when it came to solving this mystery.

Plew made no great effort to deny his guilt. His confession seriously implicated the woman on many points. Coroner Eli Mix questioned Mrs. Wakefield six times between July 1 and July 10. On the last occasion Plew was present, too. (We'll come back to this presently.) The official conclusion was that they were both guilty and should both stand trial for the murder.

According to Coroner Mix, both confessed to him that they had discussed the murder for several days before the deed was done, and that Mrs. Wakefield agreed to lie in bed at her husband's side while the chloroform was administered.

Quickly indicted, the two went on trial in New Haven on October 24, 1913, and the verdict for both was guilty of murder in the first degree. State's Attorney Ailing charged from the beginning that the woman was equally guilty with her lover and should suffer a like penalty.

Mrs. Wakefield was pictured as an unfortunate girl who never had a chance. Little attempt was made to whitewash Plew. Evidence was introduced to show that he was a member of the infamous Jukes family of criminals and degenerates.

Judge Lucien Burpee announced his sentence on November 4, 1913—death by hanging.

The crusade on behalf of Bessie Wakefield began at once, and increased in fervor as the weeks passed. Much the same thing happened in this case as happened years before in the case of Miss Lizzie Borden, of Fall River, Mass., who was accused of killing her father and stepmother with an ax or hatchet. A delicate girl like Lizzie just couldn't have done this fiendish crime, women leaders argued, and in the end Lizzie was exonerated.

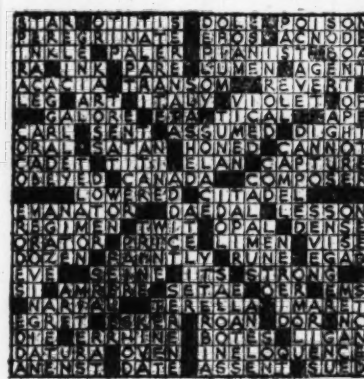

The fact that Bessie was the first woman ever to be condemned to death in Connecticut since colonial times aided her cause.

Soon after Bessie was sentenced a group of members of the Connecticut Women's Suffrage Association protested against the imposition of the extreme sentence on a woman. "We protest against this extreme penalty being applied to a member of the class which is denied the protection of representation," stated the suffragettes.

Among the women who signed the petition were Mrs. Katherine Hepburn, mother of the screen star of the same name; Grace Gallatin Thompson-Seton, wife of Ernest Thompson-Seton, the naturalist; Caroline Ruzic-Rees, nationally known educator and head of a large women's school; Annie G. Porritt, English suffrage leader who headed the American movement after she had succeeded in England; and Sandoz Stoddard, former leading lady of the stage.

Hundreds of abusive letters poured in upon the court officials, centering around Judge Burpee, State's Attorney Ailing and Coroner Mix. One soulful letter from a man in Pennsylvania asked if he could be allowed to take Mrs. Wakefield's place on the gallows. Court officials wrote back they would be delighted to have him do so and suggested that he report immediately at the jail. The coward never showed up.

Several months after the trial, Governor Simeon Baldwin received a letter signed by hundreds of women headed by Mrs. William J. Blenkinsdorfer, of Stamford, Conn., expressing the belief that Bessie was not as guilty as had been charged in the original complaint, that she had not been warned of her rights at the preliminary examination, that she had never been accused before of any crime, that she had been a devoted and self-sacrificing mother to her children, and that she had been without money to defend herself at her trial or in making her appeal.

"We desire," the letter concluded, "that the history of Connecticut be not stained with the execution of this woman."

The socialist party in Hartford adopted a resolution protesting against capital punishment, saying: "Such executions of the unfortunate victims of heredity, physical and social environment can effect no good whatever. Increase in insanity, vice and crime is but the reflection of decay in social life that has its cause in economic conditions."

Money poured into the defense fund, and Bessie was well represented when her appeal was heard. Attorney Thomas Devine, of Waterbury, made an eloquent plea before the supreme court, and on April 18, 1914, the defense won a new trial. The higher court stated in its opinion:

"It appears that the defendant (Mrs. Bessie Wakefield) was examined by the coroner six times between July 1 and July 10, the date of her indictment. On the last occasion Plew was present and was questioned by the coroner. From time to time the defendant was asked if what he said was true.

"Plew's examination, which was thus, without objection, placed before the jury under the guise of an admission of the defendant, occupies more than eight pages of the printed record and gives Plew's version of the entire transaction resulting in the homicide, except what occurred after he left the Wakefield house with his victim on the night of the murder and contains one fact which occurred at the death and of which the defendant could have had no knowledge except by hearsay.

"Some of the facts thus stated were not expressly admitted or expressly denied by the defendant.

"Speaking of the time when Plew took Wakefield away from his house to his death, the coroner asked Plew the following questions to which he made the following answers:

Q. Didn't she tell you to take him away from the house to do it? A. She said to push him into the lake if I could.

Q. Did she say what lake? A. Lake Compounce.

"Then, turning to the defendant, the coroner said:

Q. That is true, Mrs. Wakefield? A. I might have said something about the lake, Mr. Mix, I don't remember.

Q. Didn't you tell Plew to push him into the lake? A. I might have said it. I wouldn't say I didn't say it.

"At an examination on June 7, when Plew was not present, the coroner asked the defendant:

Q. And then he (referring to Plew) said that you told him to chloroform your husband and throw him into the lake? A. No, sir, Mr. Mix.

Q. That isn't true? A. No, sir. "Her statement on the last examination, when she was present, that she might have said something about the lake and about pushing her husband into it, but that she didn't remember it, was far from an express admission of Plew's statement that she told him to push her husband into the lake, especially in view of her previous denial. Plew, also, in the defendant's presence, stated to the coroner that he didn't intend to use the revolver and shouldn't have used it if he hadn't got the best of me and would have killed me if I hadn't used it."

"This was something of which the defendant had no knowledge. It had a bearing on the commission of the crime and was in effect a declaration by Plew that he used the revolver to kill Wakefield.

"The question whether the defendant told Plew to push her husband into the lake was one of vital importance in the case. If she knew of Plew's plan to kill her husband and had no part in the plan, and did not counsel, advise or abet him in forming it or carrying it into execution, she was not guilty of the crime charged.

"Silent acquiescence, when she knew the plan, was not enough to make her guilty of the crime of which she was convicted. The which she was bound to prove more than that and show that she knowingly abetted, counseled or encouraged Plew in his guilty purpose."

The second trial of Bessie Wakefield began July 14, 1914. The verdict was brought in on the eve of the earth-shattering events of the World War—July 30, 1914. The jury decided that the woman was guilty of murder in the second degree. She was sentenced to imprisonment for life.

But that did not end the crusade in her behalf. The woman who had helped her with a new trial now continued their efforts to win her a pardon. In time they even formed a Bessie Wakefield Club, the one aim of which was to back the convicted woman's fight for freedom. Meanwhile, Mrs. Wakefield was confined in the state's prison at Wethersfield, where her lover had been hanged. Later she was transferred to the women's prison at Niantic.

She was a well-behaved pris-

The battle for a pardon began almost immediately and continued through the years. Mrs. Wakefield made no less than 18 appearances before the board of pardons. But the years passed, the prisoner passed from young womanhood into middle age, her two children, who had been cared for at the County Home, grew up and married, and still Mrs. Thompson-Seton and her associates were unsuccessful in their crusade on behalf of the former housemaid who loved unwisely.

Mrs. Wakefield's eighteenth appearance before the board of pardons took place November 6, 1933, after almost 20 years behind prison walls. Again her friends who had aided her through the years spoke in her behalf. They pointed out that Bessie's father had turned her from her home at a tender age, and compelled her not only to earn her own living but to bring money home to him. They declared that Wakefield took advantage of her, abused her after the marriage, and forced her by his cruelty to take shelter in another man's home.

Mrs. Wakefield herself made an appeal to the board.

And at last the plea was granted. Governor Wilbur Cross signed the pardon, and Bessie Wakefield went free.

THE WRONG ROAD TO THE RIGHT CONTRACT.

BY ELY CULBERTSON.

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst.

I HAD submitted to me recently by O. M. Barrington, of Clinton Corners, N. Y., the hand below with the request that I comment on the bidding. Judging from his letter, Mr. Barrington has fallen into the error, common among bridge players, of "cue" bidding—that is, showing a suit in which an ace is held without any desire to play the hand at that suit.

In a recent game, he records, his partner, who was not used to slam bidding, had permitted him to go down 4 tricks when he was only bidding aces after an original bid of two clubs. After this unfortunate experience, the hand below occurred:

North, Dealer.
East and West vulnerable.

♠ 8 6
♥ 7 5
♦ A K 7 5
♣ A K Q 8

♠ K Q 7 5
♥ 10 8 4
♦ Q 6 2
♣ 8 7 4

♠ A 10
♥ A K Q 8
♦ 9 8
♣ J 10 5 3

This was the actual bidding:

North East South West
1♣ Pass 3♥ Pass
4♦ Pass 5♣ Pass
7♣ Pass Pass Pass Pass

The final contract is correct enough, but the manner in which it was reached is incorrect. The correct bidding would be: (Figures after bids refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

North East South West
1♣ Pass 2♥(1) Pass
3♦(2) Pass 3♥(3) Pass
4NT(4) Pass 5NT(5) Pass
6♠(6) Pass 7♣(7) Pass

1—A forcing takeout on only 3 honor-tricks, but justified because of the splendid fit with partner's bid suit.

2—The hand is not a minimum; hence this bidding.

3—Showing rebid strength in the heart suit.

4—The conventional slam try, showing two aces and the king of a bid suit. Perhaps this bid is unduly strong because there is no fit with partner's bid suit, but North has a right to assume that the heart suit is very strong or that South has support for the clubs.

5—The correct response, showing

6—Of course, North cannot now bid a grand slam. While he knows the heart suit is rebid-able, it still might be necessary to take a finesse to make seven, and the risk of the loss of that trick and possibly another should not be taken by him.

7—South's bid here is apparent. The club suit must be of at least five-card length, and North's previous bidding has indicated a hand far above a minimum. The grand slam should be makable.

A TWO-BID THAT SAVED A SLAM.

When a player holds great distributional values, he is justified in shading the requirements for making an opening forcing bid of two in a suit. Sometimes experts may possibly shade them even below the minimum, first, because of the effect on opponents who may have strong hands, and, second, to insure a response so that a game may be reached based more upon distribution than on honor-tricks.

In a recent rubber game at Crockford's Club, New York, where the experts gather, these hands were dealt:

North, Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

♠ 7
♥ A Q J 7 4 2
♣ A K Q 8 5 2

♠ K J 10 8
♥ 4 2
♦ 10 8 5
♣ A 10 7 4

♠ 9 5 3
♥ 9 6 3
♦ J 8 5 2
♣ 9 6 3

The actual bidding was:

North East South West
2♥ Pass 2NT Pass
3♣ Pass 3NT Pass
4♥ Pass Pass Pass Pass

The hand is interesting, especially because of the fact that North, through his slightly unconventional opening, shut out a makable slam for East and West. The slightest study of the cards reveals that East and West can make six spades, and no doubt this contract would have been reached had North made any other opening bid. However, his forcing opening bid presented to East a very difficult situation as regards an overall, and to West, after South's bust response, an even more difficult one. West's long suit is full of tenaces. An overall of three spades might result in a penalty mounting up to 1,400 or possibly 2,000 points. Hence West, determining that prudence was the better part of valor, passed, and North had the satisfaction of making not only four hearts, but an overtrick.

I would not recommend ordinarily the making of the forcing opening bid on a hand of the type held by North. It is rare, indeed, that such a fortunate outcome eventuates. The hand, however, is interesting as evidence of the fact that experts, like average

WRAPS SEEN AT THE OPERA

Clinging Lines Lend Grace to the Formal Picture With Bright Colors for Gaiety

If you are going in for full-dress evenings this season, you must discard your last year's short evening wrap. These are appropriate for semi-dressy occasions, but nobody is wearing them for real formality.

Femininity is the order of the day, and to be smart for evening one must look languid and luxurious. Long, clinging wraps help create this illusion. Long in this instance means anything from knee-length to the wrap that trails the floor.

You may prefer an evening gown that is part of an ensemble, worn with its own long wrap. If you choose a separate wrap to be worn with a number of frocks, choose one in any bright color—pink, red, chartreuse, lemon—especially if worn with black. The pure white wraps of last Winter are being replaced by soft gray ones; pastels are rarely used except for linings and trimmings.

The girl with many formal dates whose budget is limited, will find a wrap of black velvet most practical. It is always smart, and if cut on simple lines, knee-length, with an untrimmed hem, it may be worn for any occasion.

ACCESSORIES

BELOW, a glittering cigarette case of crystal studded with diamonds and rubies; soft white doeskin gloves, in the proper evening length; milady's brooch glitters with rubies and diamonds; the dainty white satin and gold brocaded bag displays pearls and gold filigree; the sparkling ring shows a group of sapphires set in platinum; the trim evening sandal of red velvet is striped with bands of gold, with matching heel and ankle strap.

ERMINE AND VELVET

THE luxurious ermine wrap (above) is cut on very slender lines and boasts a slight train effectively bordered with silver fox. There is a deep shawl collar and the sleeves show a smart elbow fullness. Next, a youthful knee-length military cape is fashioned of bright red velvet and lined with white moire. A pleated flounce borders the cape, starting at the sides and going completely around the back. A demure wrap of gray velvet, cut on princess lines, has a slight train, and a deep cape that reveals several superimposed tiers.

THE EVENING CAPE

AT the left, a lovely wrap-around model in tobacco brown velvet, with a huge collar of beige fox. A very full knee-length cape of mauve slipper-satin reveals a draped scarf neckline and bandings of silver fox. At the right is sketched a slender straight wrap of red velvet with bands of sable outlining the soft severe collar. There are deep armholes and wide sleeves that fit snugly at the wrists. The glittering knee-length model of silver lame, sketched directly above, is trimmed with rows of stitching. The sleeves are voluminous, and there is a stand-up, turned-back collar lined with brown velvet.

IN JUST FIVE DAYS MORE, SANTA CLAUS WILL BRING HIS REINDEER, HIS ESKIMO HELPERS AND LOTS OF HIS BIG FLOATS TO ATLANTA FOR THE MOST SPECTACULAR PARADE YOU EVER SAW. BE ON HAND FRIDAY NIGHT AT 7:30 O'CLOCK.

THOUSANDS TO SEE SANTA PARADE WITH REAL, LIVE REINDEER, DECEMBER 15th

LOOK AT THESE CUPS!—The Constitution will award them as prizes to the best bands, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts and Campfire Girls, clowns and children on bicycles in the Santa parade Friday, December 15, at 7:30 p. m. Miss Florence Young and Muriel Ullman are giving their approval.

HERE ARE SOME REAL ALASKAN TOTEM POLES that actually talk and Santa Claus is bringing them with him for his big parade on Friday night, December 15, at 7:30 o'clock.

TWO OF ATLANTA'S CUTEST KIDS, who will be hermits for Santa in The Constitution's Santa Claus parade, are Gloria Hamilton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Hamilton, and Rayford Ragsdale, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Ragsdale. These young ladies will get a toy right out of Santa's sack.

LIEUTENANT-COLONEL CHARLES E. THOMPSON, assistant adjutant-general of Georgia, who will be marshal of The Constitution's Santa Claus parade on December 15. Lieutenant Thompson promises "one of the best parades" Atlanta has ever seen.

A. H. DUGGAN, chairman of the American Legion Christmas tree fund. Toys and gifts for the big tree will come from admission to the charity ball at the Shrine mosque, on December 15.

WHICH ATLANTA GIRL wants to wear this costume in The Constitution's Santa Claus parade? She must be 5 feet 8 inches tall and pretty. Applicants are requested to get in touch with the parade director at The Constitution.

AND WHO ARE THESE?—All we know is that Santa Claus will bring them with him to delight the hearts of Atlanta youngsters. These characters and many others will thrill the crowds in the Santa Claus parade at 7:30 p. m., Friday, December 15.

ONE OF THE INTERESTING UNITS in The Constitution's Santa Claus parade on December 15, will be this Japanese Ricksha, which Santa will bring from Japan, where many of the toys which are distributed are made.

A LINE OF FINE BUCKS, part of the first day's kill at the recent hunt on Colonel's Island, formed a perfect background for J. R. Sealy and Dr. Grady Coker when they posed for this photograph.

YOU CAN'T BEAT THIS FOR COMPLETE HAPPINESS—Judge Vivian Stanley with his first buck of the 1933 season. He was photographed at the recent hunt on Colonel's Island, near Savannah.

THE AGE-OLD CUSTOM of smearing the hunter's face with the blood of his first deer is being carried out by Dr. C. Lloyd, Bart Moreland, Dr. J. M. Tribble, Captain George Barrett, C. P. Vaughn, Paul Etheridge and R. N. White. The "victims" are R. H. Mansell and J. H. Mansell, of Roswell.

CAPTAIN GEORGE J. BARRETT, of Cumming, brought down the biggest buck at the recent deer hunt on Colonel's Island. The hound in the picture drove the buck to Mr. Barrett's stand.

"JUSTICE" VISITS SAN JOSE JAIL, WITH BATTERING RAM. While the late Thomas H. Thurmond and Jack Holmes covered in their cells, and police fought desperately to keep them out, enraged citizens of San Jose attacked the heavy doors of their jail with an 8-inch pipe and broke it down. In a few moments the whimpering kidnappers and slayers were dragged from the prison and hung to trees.

OLD DOC YAK

"GET UP, YOU DANCER! GET UP, YOU PRANCER!" That is what Santa is saying now, as he cracks his whip and speeds his reindeer toward Atlanta and the big parade which will take place next Friday night at 7:30.

PAGE FOUR OF TODAY'S MAGAZINE TELLS THE STORY OF THE OLDEST, MOST ROMANTIC "FAMILY TREE" IN THE WORLD. ON ONE OF ITS TWIGS IS AN ELDERLY STREET SWEEPER IN NEVADA; ON ANOTHER TWIG IS FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT. THEY'RE SIXTH COUSINS--AND THE DELANO FAMILY, TO WHICH THEY BOTH BELONG, HAS A GENEALOGY WHICH STRETCHES BACK TO CHARLEMAGNE. THIS AMAZING FAMILY HAS PRODUCED SIX PRESIDENTS.

Panel 2: RIGHT! WHAT A DEAR CLEVER GIRL YOU ARE! THAT, MY TREASURE IS REALLY REMARKABLE.

Panel 3: WELL IF YOU THINK I'M GOIN' TO GIVE YOU A NICKEL YOU'RE GOOFY!

Panel 4: (Moon Mullins looking thoughtful with a star in his head)

Panel 5: HUMM! UNCLE BEN HAS LENT ME TWO-BITS ON THIS ALARM CLOCK BEFORE.

Panel 6: (Moon Mullins looking confused with a question mark above his head)

Panel 7: AND I AM SURE UNCLE BEN WILL LEND ME TWO BITS ON IT AGAIN.

Panel 8: WILL YAM! WHERE ARE YOU GOING?

Panel 9: OH FER TH' LOVA MIKE! ME? WHY MY DEAR, I WAS ON MY WAY TO WORSHIP!

Panel 10: WELL, BLESS YOUR HEART, I'M GOING TO GO WITH YOU.

Tarzan

by EDGAR RICE BURROUGHS

DOG OF THE JUNGLE

BASIM, THE WILD DOG OF THE JUNGLE, WAS ON A HUNT.

WHEN HE PICKED UP THE SPOOR OF TARZAN AND THE HORSE, HE RACED FOR THE SPOT WHERE THE HORSE WAS TETHERED.

THE NEXT SECOND TARZAN HEARD THE HORSE'S WILD SHRIEK.

TARZAN HURLED BASIM ASIDE AND CUT THE HORSE'S TETHER WITH A SWIFT SLASH OF HIS KNIFE.

HE GAVE THE HORSE FREE REIN AS IT FLED IN TERROR. BUT BASIM, RELENTLESS IN THE HUNT, CAME ON IN HOT PURSUIT.

THEY HAD REACHED THE EDGE OF THE DESERT WHEN THE WILD DOG LEAPED TO ATTACK TARZAN.

THE APE-MAN SLASHED AT BASIM, THEN SUDDENLY REINED IN AND LEAPED FOR HIS ASSAILANT.

IN A FLASH THE HORSE WAS OFF ACROSS THE DESERT TOWARD HIS HOME AMONG THE IBEKS. AND TARZAN FACED BASIM, SLAYER OF LIONS.

SHORT WAS THE ENCOUNTER. THE APE-MAN CAUGHT THE GREAT DOG BY THE THROAT AND APPLIED STEELY PRESSURE.

SHOUTING THE BULL-APE VICTORY CRY, TARZAN SWUNG BACK THROUGH THE TREES TO REJOIN NIKOTROS AND HOPE.

BUT WHEN HE RETURNED, THE QUEEN AND THE BOY HAD DISAPPEARED! WHAT DREAD FATE HAD OVERTAKEN THEM, LEFT UNGUARDED IN THE THICK OF THE JUNGLE?
